INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

THE present is the first part of a volume that is intended to be of practical use to those who desire to know what the British Museum contains in the way of manuscripts relating to Wales. Its purpose is sufficiently indicated by its title, but a few words may be permitted upon the scope of the work, and the method by which the attainment of such a purpose has been sought.

Printed or written catalogues already exist of the several collections of manuscripts at the British Museum, and their entries have also been brought together and arranged under subjects in the hundred and ten volumes of the Class Catalogue which constitutes the catalogue most frequently in use in the MS. Department of the Museum. It accordingly follows that any minor catalogue must be based upon catalogues already in existence, and can comprise no more than a selection of items expanded and modified to meet particular requirements.¹

In compiling the present Catalogue the needs of those who reside in Wales have been primarily considered. They for the most part are within easy reach of the British Museum. Many of them visit the Metropolis frequently, and would probably be glad to devote a portion of their leisure to the transcription of documents relating to subjects in which they are interested, did they possess some initial knowledge of what they are likely to meet with. To this class it is hoped the present Catalogue will prove both useful and stimulating. The same hope may be expressed in regard to the happily increasing number of Welshmen and non-Welshmen who take an interest in subjects connected with Wales for the study of which an acquaintance with the manuscript materials in the British Museum is essential, but whose lines are laid in places too remote for a personal visit thereto. To a third class, the true lovers of ancient lore and patient workers upon the records of the past, this compilation will, perhaps, be of little value. They already know their British Museum, and have long essayed the vain task of exhausting the patience, courtesy and ability of the officials there. Yet even for this regrettably small body it is hoped that, if the present work can tell them little they do not already know, the concentration of the items upon which they most frequently labour into a conveniently sized volume will not be without its value.

A word or two upon the plan which has been adopted. Instead of working upon the Class Catalogue, which, as has been said, is arranged according to subjects, it has been found more convenient to work from the catalogues of the several collections. These were drawn up, without regard to the subject, size or age, of the volumes comprised therein. The same order has been followed in the present catalogue, the advantage of an arrangement according to subjects being as readily gained, it is hoped, by a full index.

It has not been thought necessary to give a description of each volume. What would be appropriately expected in the catalogue of a series of volumes belonging to a private individual, and subject to the chances of destruction or dispersal, is hardly requisite in the case of a public institution such as the British Museum, to which every properly accredited person is freely admitted, and where the manuscripts are secured to the public for ever. In the case of a special catalogue such as Mr. Ward's admirable Catalogue of Romances in the Department of Manuscripts in the British Museum, descriptions of the manuscript volumes are desirable, but in a catalogue like the present, where many of the articles consist of single sheets collected into volumes with scores of others to which they have no cognate relation, descriptions would be supererogatory if not absolutely impossible.

Two features, one intended to increase the utility of the work for the country reader, the other of more general application, have been introduced. The first is that if the document has been printed, a reference is given to the volume in which it will be found. Much care and trouble have been bestowed upon this part of the work, and every effort has been made to ensure both the completeness and correctness of the references, but I have little hope that I have achieved entire success, and can only beg my readers to acquaint me with any omissions. The second feature is the special reference to two catalogues whenever the manuscripts under notice come within their purview. I refer to (1) Sir T. D. Hardy's Descriptive Catalogue of Materials relating to the History of Great Britain and Ireland (here referred to as Descr. Cat.), and (2) Mr. H. L. D. Ward's Catalogue of Romances in the Department of Manuscripts in the British Museum (here entitled Cat. of Romances). One distinguishing feature of Sir Thomas Hardy's great work is the order of importance (which, prima facie, is that of date) in which it ranges the different copies of the same manuscript wherever they may be found. The relation of one or more copies of a manuscript to each other, and to their common exemplar, and the location of all, is, amongst other matters, to be learnt from Sir Thomas Hardy's work alone. For this reason the reference to it has always been given. Mr. Ward's learned work being of more restricted scope has enabled him to enter upon a full and adequate analysis of the particular manuscripts with which he has dealt, and their bearing upon one another. The principal manuscripts included in the present Catalogue which also appear in Mr. Ward's are the various copies of Geoffrey of Monmouth's Historia Britonum. To attempt their description, with the knowledge that they had already been described by Mr. Ward, would savour of impertinence. All that need be done is to refer the enquirer to Mr. Ward's work, and to render thanks that my own labours have been lightened of a task which would not have been so adequately performed.

It will probably surprise the majority of those who consult this Catalogue to find that so much of the manuscript material here described is already in print. Upon examination, however, this will be found to be confined to such manuscripts relating to Wales (as the Annales Cambriæ, Brut y Tywysogion, and Welsh Laws) as came within the province of the various official publishing bodies, the old Royal Commission, and later, the Master of the Rolls. To these should be added one or two private societies such as the English Historical Society, with its editions of Gildas and of Nennius, whose labours upon those early writers are being superseded by the editions of the Record Series of the Honourable Society of Cymmrodorion. Apart, however, from those works, which may be termed British rather than Welsh, and the inclusion of which in a catalogue of manuscripts relating to Wales can be justified only upon the Wordsworthian hypothesis that the child is father of the man, there will be found to remain in the British Museum sufficient unpublished material relating strictly to Wales to exercise the energies of individuals and societies for a long time to come. This material is of a totally different character and period from those of the chronicles, bruts, customary codes, lives of saints and other works of a historic or romantic nature. It is made up mainly of what may be termed administrative documents ranging from the latter half of the fifteenth to the latter half of the eighteenth century. These documents are no less important for the study of the social, political and economic development of Wales, than are the former class, though of course in quite a different sense of the term. Where these are unpublished, are of general interest, and are brief, I have printed them in extenso, finding that it took little more time to transcribe them than it did to read them carefully for the purpose of an abstract. They will I hope be found to considerably lighten the darkness that hangs over much of what went on in Wales during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

Some difficulty has been experienced in arriving at a clear principle of demarcation between what to include and what to exclude. I could not take in everything that had been written by Welshmen, but had no reference to Wales. On the other hand, there may be some who will think my net has already been too widely cast. Opinions will naturally differ upon such a point. But, while I find I have not been altogether consistent with my own principles, I may say that I have had more or less good reasons for what I have admitted as well as for what I have omitted.

Great care has been taken to give the correct paging of the various articles. Most of the volumes were paged, or the articles numbered, before they came into the possession of the nation. Many have been numbered afresh, some twice. The paging of the Museum authorities is always in pencil, and the references here given are to the pencilled pagings. It has not been considered worth while to record the old pagings where new numbers have been substituted, and this remark will account, in the cases where the documents have been printed, for the different folios quoted here to those given in books. Every manuscript has passed through my hands, many of them several times; in the transcripts the only liberties taken have been with the punctuation and capital letters, and the alteration of one or two mediæval forms of spelling, such as u into v. All words within square brackets have been supplied by me. I have also added a few notes here and there.

It remains but to state that the letters or figures in heavy type give the number of the manuscript; the name of the collection is at the top of the page. Any person having the right of entry to the manuscript department of the British Museum has but to fill up the necessary ticket with the name of the collection and the number of the manuscript he requires to have it brought to him in a few minutes.

EDWARD OWEN.

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS.

- [19*b*]. p. 8, line 10, after "Mommsen", insert Monumenta Germanie Historica, t. xiii, pars. i.
- [21]. Mr. J. H. Davies informs me that the remark quoted in the note at foot of p. 8 is also found in Ashmolean 847 (Oxford). That MS. contains a transcript of Humphrey Lloyd's history, made by Robert Glover, Somerset Herald, and the note with reference to the Welsh verses runs as follows: "Morice Kyphin did thus translate them 12 Februarii 1578, after Thomas Griffith had given them to Mr. J. Dee of Mortlake, his cousin" (Cat. of Ashmolean MSS.). I have read as the word "me" what is intended to be "Mr."
- [27]. Remove the reference to Haddan and Stubbs, Councils, from (b) to (a).
- [33*a*]. For "his sheriff in Glamorganshire," read "the steward of his lordship of Glamorgan."
- [49*a*]. Insert Hardy, Descr. Cat., ii, No. 610.
- [50]. For J. H. Brewer, read J. S. Brewer.
- [54*g*]. For Lan Dâv, read Llan Dâv.
- [58]. dele (a).
- [59]. Alter (b) to (a), (c) to (b), and (d) to (c).
- [67*c*]. p. 27, line 9, after "S'r Hervy," insert within square brackets [qu. Henry]. The name does not appear in the list of sheriffs of Anglesey, compiled by the Deputy Keeper of the Records.
- [74*a*, note]. Alter the full stop after the square bracket into a colon.
- [80]. Insert, Chronicles and Memorials (Rolls Series); The Works of Giraldus Cambrensis, viii, edited by G. F. Warner.
- [85, note]. dele "and" after the bracket.
- [97*a*]. For Dugdale, Mon. Angl. (ed. Ellis), i, 72*a*, read v, 269. The former reference is to the first edition of the Monasticon.
- [99*a*]. Insert Hardy, Descr. Cat., ii, Nos. 606 and 607.
- [99*b*]. Insert Hardy, Descr. Cat., ii, No. 661.
- [101]. For Hardy, Descr. Cat., ii, read i.
- [102 a, b]. For f. 58 and f. 102*b*, read f. 56 and f. 99*b*, respectively.
- [105*b*]. For Letters and Papers, Foreign and Domestic, Henry VIII, 1 pt. xii, read xii, pt. i.
- [106]. Insert (a) and (b) before the respective articles.
- [127]. To the note at foot of the page add: In the list of sheriffs published by the Deputy Keeper of the Records, Morgan Meredith is entered under 1581, his year of office being 1581-2, which corresponds with the above. There are several other discrepancies between Edwards's list and that of the Public Record Office.
- [136]. Insert (a) and (b) before the respective articles.
- [146, note]. For *Calendar*s, read *Kalendar*s.
- [157]. Insert (a) and (b) before the respective articles.
- [161]. Insert (a) before the first article.
- [165]. After Montgomeryshire, insert [recte co. Monmouth].
- [177*a*]. For Perrot, read Perrott.
- [188 note]. For Lwhyd in second line of note, read Lhwyd.
- [193*b*]. After Penbethlyn, insert within square brackets [Penkelly, co Brecon].
- [204*d*]. After Penkethlyn, insert the same addition.
- [243]. Charles, duke of Suffolk, in the year 1525 was receiver of the lordships of Bromfield and Yale and of Chirk, and this document is more likely to have been drawn up for him in that capacity than to be a rental of his possessions.
- [267*d*]. This tract is printed in Dr. Powel's Historie of Cambria, ed. 1584. Powel says he received it "at the hands of mistris Blanch Parrie, collected by Sir Edward Stradling, Knight" (p. 141). It is omitted from Wynne's edition of 1697, but is restored in that of 1774.

BRITISH MUSEUM.

The Cottonian Collection.

[1] Julius A. v.

ff. 5, 53-57*b*, 177*b*-179. Prophecies of Merlin; vellum; end of 13 and 14 centt. Latin and French.

Three short articles; the second with two miniatures, one representing Merlin taking leave of his mother, the other Merlin before Vortigern, both much decayed.

The first art. is printed in the Rolls edition of Pierre de Langtoft (T. Wright), ii, 450-1. For another late 13th cent. copy of the third art. see Harleian, 746, f. 1*b*-3.

Ward, Catalogue of Romances, i, 299.

[2] Julius B. xii.

[a] ff. 169-176*b*. Writ of delivery of Gilbert de Clare's Welsh lands to Hugh le Despenser, with schedule of the lands; 11 Ed. II, A.D. 1317. Late 16 cent. copy.

Clark, Cartæ et Munimenta de Glamorgan, iv, No. 1099.

[b] ff. 181*b*-195. Record of a suit between Thomas de Beauchamp, earl of Warwick, and John de Mowbray, of Axholme, concerning the castle of Swansea and land of Gower (A.D. 1352-3).¹ Late 16 cent. transcript.

Extracted from the de banco rolls, 19 Ric. II (1396).

Clark, Cartæ, iv, No. 1215.

Clark, Cartæ, iv, No. 1280.

¹ There are several documents connected with this cause in the Public Record Office amongst the old Chapter House papers (County Bags—Wallia).

(d) f. 246. Grant of the castle of Chirk and lordship of Chirkland (and of Wilmington, in Kent) to Sir William Stanley; 15 Ed. IV. Late 16 cent. copy.

Lloyd, A History of Powys Fadog, iv, 28.

[3] Julius B. xiii.

ff. 48-173. De principis instructione: Giraldus Cambrensis; 14 cent. (Hardy, 13 cent.)

Hardy, Descriptive Catalogue of Manuscripts relating to the History of Great Britain and Ireland, ii, No. 611.

Edited by the Rev. J. S. Brewer for the Anglia Christiana Society, London, 1846, with the omission of the ethical portions of the first book; and by Mr. G. F. Warner in the Rolls Series, The Works of Giraldus Cambrensis, viii.

[4] Julius C. iii.

A collection of letters to Sir Robert Cotton; amongst the writers are:—

f. 182. Jasper Griffyth¹; Hinkley, the 1st of Simon and Jude, 1613.

Gives a list of MSS. then in his possession; they are mostly theological, but the last mentioned is a Chronicle of St. Alban's, containing many fragments in the Latin and the British tongues.

[5] Julius C. iv.

A collection by or for Sir Robert Cotton, entitled "An Abstracte or Memoriall of such courses as have bene used in mylitarye affayres bothe at lande and sea, for defence and offence, collected oute of ye Recordes and Registers of this State"; arranged under various heads, some of which are—

(a) Cities, towns, castles, and fortified houses, with a list of the castles of England and Wales.

(b) Attendance in the warres due by tenure ("contra Walliam").

¹ Jasper Griffith was chaplain to archbishop Bancroft, became warden of Ruthin, 9 Feb. 1599, and died in 1606 according to Newcome's Memoir of Gabriel Goodman, but without reference to authorities; Hengwrt MSS. 4 and 5 (Ll. Gwyn Rhydderch), and 172 belonged to him (Arch. Camb., 3rd Ser., xv, 210). If Newcome's dates are correct, the correspondent of Camden cannot have been the warden of Ruthin, but may have been his son. The immediate occasion of the above letter was his anxiety to return a volume he had borrowed. He had, he says, called five times at Camden's house in the blackfriars "as yo'r Welshe mayde can tell." For Jasper Griffith see also Mr. Gwenogvryn Evans's edition of The Bruts, preface, xiii.

(c) Musters of men (i.e., "contra Walliam")

(d) Provision of monye for the warres by scutage, etc.

The following is a specimen of the entries: "Rex construxit castrum suum de Aberconwaye in solo Abbat' de Aberconwaye, et eandem abbathiam transtulit ad locum de Meynan in diocess' Assaven'. Apud Baladenthelyn [Baladeulyñ], 24 Junii, Rot. Wall. Anno 21^o [should be 12^o] Edw. I."

[6] Julius C. v.

A collection of letters addressed to William Camden [the antiquary]; amongst the writers are:—

(a) f. 56. John Stradling; Nov. 1594. Latin.

(b) f. 94. Francis Godwin, bishop of Llandaff; Mathern, 27 May, 1608.

Enclosing copy of an epitaph which the bishop had caused to be placed "on the tomb of Theodoric [Tewdrig], king and martyr, interred at the church of Mathern." For this epitaph see Tiberius E. viii, f. 219.

Both letters are in the printed collection of Camden's letters published by Thomas Smith in 1691, at ff. 54 and 109 respectively.

[7] Julius C. vi.

(a) f. 108. Notes by Leland on Welsh localities.

Incorporated into the Itinerary.

(b) f. 175*b*. Extracts relating to Welsh history. Latin.

Brief notices of Welsh events, apparently taken from Dominican i, or a parallel MS. They are followed by some notes on Welsh localities, which are in the printed Itinerary.

(c) ff. 238-240*b*. Excerpta ex dictionario Britannico-Latino; in the handwriting of William Burton [fl. 1618] 389 words.

[8] Julius C. vii.

A volume of transcripts and extracts from various sources—

(a) f. 177. Note of grant by Sir John de Raleigh, of the manor of Michaelstowe-super-Ely; 42 Ed. III.

Clark, Cartæ, ii, No. 290.

(b) f. 252. Extracts from the charters of Dore Abbey; [a few genealogical notes.]

- (c) f. 257*b*. Extracts from the chronicles of the priory of Llanthony in Wales [genealogical].
- (d) f. 263*b*. Extracts from the records of Tintern Abbey "in Wallia".

[9] Julius D. v.

ff. 2-13*b*. De gestis Britonum ; early 14 cent.

Ascribed to Gildas, but is really a copy of Nennius. A MS. of the same class as Caligula A. viii, but of later date (Hardy, Descr. Cat., i, No. 797). Forms Ms. I. in Petrie's edition in Monumenta Historica Britannica, and R in that of Stevenson for the English Historical Society.

[10] Julius D. x.

(a) ff. 28-30. An account of the earls of Brecknock from Hen. I to A.D. 1230; 13 cent. French.

Dugdale, Monasticon Anglicanum (ed. Ellis, 1817-30), iii, 263, where it is erroneously stated to be taken from Julius D. ii.

(b) ff. 31-53*b*. History of the priory of Llanthony (first in Wales, and afterwards in Gloucestershire); 13 cent.

The facts are very few, and scarcely anything occurs of a public nature (Hardy, Descr. Cat., ii, No. 264). A table of its contents will be found in Arch. Camb., 1st Ser., i, 202, and extracts from it are given in the Monasticon (ed. Ellis), vi, 128, under the Gloucestershire Llanthony, erroneously as from Julius D. xi.

[11] Julius D. xi.

ff. 2-60. Gesta Regum Britanniae. Verse; early 14 cent.; imperfect.

Based upon Geoffrey of Monmouth; composed between 1236 and 1254, and dedicated to Cadoc, bishop of Vannes in Brittany (Hardy, Descr. Cat., i, No. 504).

Ward, Cat. of Romances, i, 274.

Edited from the complete MS. at Paris, with collations from the present copy, by Francisque Michel, for the Cambrian Archæological Association, 1862.

[12] Julius F. vi.

A collection of letters and miscellaneous papers once belonging to Camden.

(a) f. 296. Letter from F. Godwin, bishop of Llandaff, to Camden; 1602; first portion missing.

Has reference to an inscription which he gives as Drusus ...dii filius Qu. nepos Hat. legatus Augusti Proprætor provinciae Cil....

Figured in Camden, and see Hübner, Inscr. Brit. Lat., p. 39, No. 108.

- (b) f. 297. Letter from the same ; 14 July, 1603.

Subject : The Punpeiuis Carantorius inscribed stone, etc.

See Camden (ed. 1607), 499, (ed. Gough), iii, 123; Hübner, Inscr. Brit. Christ., No. 69.

Clark, Cartæ, iv, No. 1382.

- (c) f. 298. Letter from the same ; 14 Jan. 1603.

Extract: Uppon ye topp of a mountaigne called Mynydd Margam and at a place there called Rhyd Blaen y Kwm, viz., betweene Margam and Langonoyd in Glamorganshire, some myle and d. [i.e. a half] from Margam thys inscription underwrytten, etc.

The inscription is given on f. 299*b*. The stone is known as that of Bodvoc (see Hübner, I. B. C., No. 71). On f. 299 are two Roman inscriptions from Caerleon.

- (d) f. 303. Letter from Francis Tate¹ to Camden; Presteigne in Radnor, 7 Aug. 1604.

Subject : The Bodvoc inscribed stone, etc.

- (e) f. 413. Richard Gr[uffudd] to Camden ; Anglesey, Jan. —.

Cambro-Briton, i, 17, but without acknowledgment of its source.

[13] Julius F. ix.

- f. 24. A pedigree of Henry VIII from the princes of Wales ; by Thomas Gardiner, a monk of Westminster, 7 Hen. VIII.

[14] Julius F. x.

A volume of Camden's collections ; 16-17 centt.

- (a) f. 118. A note of four lines, ex vita Gryffyth ap Kynan.

- (b) f. 120. "The vault founde under the earth at Trymeley, distante from Hope, in Flyntshire, one mile."

Extract : There were founde certayne kockes of steele rusted, a rib of an oxe as though it had byne, and a rownde yron in forme of a cury combe w'thout teeth, or as though it had bene the cover of some littell iron chest.

See Camden's account of the discovery of a Roman hypocaust near Hope (ed. Gough, iii, 222).

(c) f. 127. Explanations of Welsh words.

Two short lists of English equivalents for the Welsh names of trees, etc.

(d) ff. 130-131*b*. A Welsh-English vocabulary.

(e) f. 134. Towns in Wales, with some particulars of—

Consists only of Radnor hath been walled; destroyed by Owen Glendower.
Presteyne, Cambr. Llanandre.
Knighton, Cambr. Trevncllo [i.e. Tref y clawdd].
Mahenthle, wher sessions is kept ones a yeare.
Tenbigh (Pembroch), walled, a peere ther for shippis.

(f) 160-161*b*. Translations of a few Welsh proper names found in early documents.[15] Augustus I. Vol. ii.

A large portfolio containing a collection of charts, plans and drawings.

(a) art. 17. The course of the Severn from Gloucester to Cardiff.

(b) art. 20. A plan of Milford Haven.

[16] Tiberius A. ix.

(a) ff. 2-6, f. 99. Prophecies of Merlin; imperfect; that at f. 99 is in French; 13 and 14 centt.

Ward, Cat. of Romances, i, 295.

(b) ff. 6-8. De mirabilibus Britanniaë; 14 cent.

[17] Tiberius B. xiii.

Giraldus Cambrensis: de Rebus a se Gestis; 14 cent.

The work, as its title implies, gives an account of the author's life from his cradle to the commencement of the 13th century, when he was postulate of St. David's; it is unfortunately imperfect, breaking off at ch. 18 of the third book (Hardy, Descr. Cat., ii, No. 659).

Chronicles and Memorials (Rolls Edition); The Works of Giraldus Cambrensis, i, edited by the Rev. J. S. Brewer.

[18] Tiberius E. i.

Lives of the Saints, by John of Tinmouth; 14 cent.

Damaged by fire. Included are the following:

All these are printed in Capgrave's Nova Legenda Angliæ, from which source they have been abbreviated for the Acta Sanctorum.

[19] Tiberius E. viii.

- (a) f. 219. An epitaph upon Theodorick, king of Gwent, slain by the Saxons in a great battle at Tynterne, about the yeare of our Lorde 600.

The enclosure to bishop Godwin's letter to Camden; see Julius C. v, f. 94.

- (b) ff. 230-236. Historia Britonum: Nennius; late 16 cent.

A paper transcript of Nero D. viii, ff. 63-71. The margins have been damaged by fire. It contains the colophon, which seems to be peculiar to its exemplar, though slightly differently worded. It runs as follows:—"Expliciuntur mirabilia britannicæ. finit libri s'cti Gildi.....de primis habitatorib'3 britan'ie et de....." Hardy in describing the article in Nero D. viii (Cat. i, No. 790) says that at the end of cap. 62 of that MS. is a note by a modern hand, stating that here Gildas (i.e., Nennius) ends, and he continues "Dr. Gale refers to two MSS. in the Cottonian Collection as agreeing with this memorandum, but this [i.e., the Nero MS. entry] is the only notice of the kind which has occurred among the copies either in that collection or elsewhere." The same words (hic expliciunt Gesta Britonum a Gilda Sapiente composita) are in the MS. under notice, which makes it clear that it is a copy of Nero D. viii; it also probably explains Dr. Gale's remark. This MS. has in fact been missed by Sir Thomas Hardy, and is not noticed by Mommsen, probably because it possesses no independent authority. The Museum catalogue describes this entire article as "Excerptiones de libro Gildæ. De mirabilibus Britanniaë" (misled thereto no doubt by the words of the colophon), whereas that is only one chapter of it.

[20] Caligula A. iii.

ff. 149-198b. The Laws of Wales; 13 cent. Welsh.

Laws and Institutes of Wales, Ms. C. "There are evidently parts of two nearly similar manuscripts bound together, and those parts confusedly misplaced. The two fragments appear to be of the same era, and may date about the middle of the 13th century, perhaps rather later" (Preface, xxvii).

[21] Caligula A. vi.

(a) ff. 1-221. A history of Wales; written by Humphrey Lloyd, and dated at London, 17 July 1559.¹ It includes a Description of Wales attributed to Sir John Price.

Com.: After that Cadwalader the last kynge of the Britons, etc.

Ends: After this ther was nothing donne in Wales worthy memory but that is to be readd in the English cronicle, etc.

(In another hand) At London 17 Julii 1559, by Humffrey Lloyd.

The basis of Dr. David Powel's Historie of Cambria, printed in 1584. See remarks of Mr. Egerton Phillimore, YCymmrodor, xi, 54 (note) and 169 (note).

The Description of Wales which, in the printed edition of Dr. Powel, appears as a totally separate chapter introductory to the main work, is in the MS. an integral part of the narrative. It is not distinguished by a different handwriting, nor is it ascribed to Sir John Price, whose name, indeed, does not appear in the MS. at all. It commences in the middle of f. 3, after the account of Cadwaladr which forms the first chapter (following the altogether independent "description") of the printed volume, and it continues unbrokenly to f. 28, where starts the account of Ivor, which is chapter 2 of Dr. Powel. The text of the MS. is frequently altered, and a long passage which winds up the "description" is omitted altogether.

(b) ff. 225-227. A few genealogies.

Marginal note on f. 227: This much was written out of the Brytishe bok wher the Historie of Humfrey Lloid is in Welsh written.

[24] Caligula B. iii.

A collection of official letters and documents.

(a) f. 31. Lord [Wm.] Dacre [warden of the Scottish Marches] to Henry VIII ; Naward, 20 July, 1533. Original.

Reports (i.a.) that one James Griffith, of Wales [sister's son (?) to Sir Rhys ap Thomas] was proceeding to Edinburgh.

(b) f. 164. Dr. Magnus [archdeacon of the East Riding] to Hen. VIII ; Newcastle, 11 July, 1533. Orig.

Reporting arrival of Griffith in Scotland.

(c) f. 260. Sir Tho. Wharton [one of the Commissioners on the Scottish borders] to lord treasurer Cromwell ; Newcastle, 11 July, 1533. Orig.

Concerning the arrival of Griffith in Scotland.

Letters and Papers, Foreign and Domestic, Hen. VIII, vi, Nos. 876, 802 and 803, respectively; the second is given at length in Calendar of State Papers, iv, 648.

For other letters respecting this personage see Galba B. x, and Vitell. B. xxi.¹

¹ Further communications relating to this James [ap] Griffith [ap Howell] are at the Record Office. He was a relative of Sir Rhys ap Gruffudd (executed for high treason in 1531), and appears to have been an object of suspicion throughout Henry's reign. See also Cam. Register, ii, 270, and Arch. Camb., 5th Ser., ix, 208, and x, 358.

[25] Caligula E. x.

f. 247. A letter¹ addressed "a monsieur Hugues Ouen, gentilhomme Anglois, a Bruxells"; 7 October, 1603.

The writer appears to have been engaged in the plots that were rife at the close of Queen Elizabeth's reign. The manuscript has been damaged by fire, and the style of what remains of the letter is so obscure that it is impossible to make out its meaning. Welsh sentences are introduced at several points, proving the writer to have been a Welshman. He speaks of "our cosyn guyn," who was with his correspondent, and adds "yf ye puritans prevaile adieu all bellis [bells] and coopes [copes] and churches to [too]."

[26] Claudius A. v.

ff. 138-141. The Life of St. Wenefred, followed (ff. 141-145*b*) by the Miracles; end of 12 cent.

Supposed to have been written by Robert, abbot of Shrewsbury, during whose abbacy the relics of St. Wenefred were translated from Wales to the abbey of Shrewsbury. Robert flourished about the year 1140 (Hardy, Descr. Cat., i, Nos. 510-1).

Cambro-British Saints, 198.

[27] Claudius A. viii.

(a) f. 76. The Reply of the Abbot of Bangor to Augustine; transcribed from a most ancient MS. of Peter Mosten, gent.; 17 cent.

(b) f. 76*b*. The archbishops of St. David's who did not bear the pall.

Two unimportant extracts; Welsh, with interlinear English translations. For another copy of both extracts see Cleop. E. i, ff. 56 and 99*b*, respectively.

Haddan and Stubbs, Councils, i, 122.

¹ The writer's name is given in the Museum catalogue as J. Owen, but the signature to the letter more closely resembles J. Jones, or it may be no more than a succession of initials or capital letters. Hugh Owen was a Jesuit priest, and was deeply implicated in the Gunpowder Plot (see the Calendar of State Papers, Domestic, for the period, and especially the confession of Fawkes, who alleged that he crossed over to Brussels and unfolded the whole plot to Owen). The English Government called for his arrest and transfer to England, but the result does not transpire any further than that he had to quit Brussels. He may possibly be identical with Hugh Owen Gwennynoc ym Môn, Esq., the first translator into Welsh of Thomas à Kempis' Imitatio Christi (see paper on "Early Welsh Bibliography," by Mr. J. H. Davies in Transactions of the Hon. Society of Cymmrodorion, Session 1897-98), though the suggestion¹ is rendered improbable by the statement made in the preface to the edition of 1684 (the only known copy of which is in the Shirburn Castle Library) that the translator lived for some time at Raglan Castle as secretary and comptroller to the Marquis of Worcester. A John Jones, alias Robert Chamberlain, appears in the same volume of Calendars as a seminary priest committed on the 3rd May, 1609.

- (z) ff. 220-251. A discourse concerning the principality of Wales, the duchy of Cornwall, and the earldom of Chester ; and of their ancient revenues.

Sir John Doddridge's well-known treatise, of which there are several manuscript copies in the Museum.

[48] Vitellius E. iv.

Desideratur.

Browne Willis, in his Survey of the Cathedral Church of Llandaff, states that this volume contained:—

“Art. 6. Epistle of Pope Honorius to William, archbishop of Canterbury, and other bishops of England, respecting the complaints of Urban, bishop of Llandaff, against Bernard, bishop of St. David's.”

This letter is in Rees's Liber Landav. 44, and in Evans's Book of Llan Dâv, 34.

[49] Vitellius E. v.

Giraldus Cambrensis; opera; 15 cent.; paper.

(a) ff. 2-24*b*. Descriptio Cambriæ.

(b) f. 24. Retractationes.

(c) ff. 24*b*-25*b*. Catalogus librorum suorum.

(d) ff. 26-36*b*. De jure et statu Menevensis.

(e) ff. 37-41. Carmina.

Chronicles and Memorials (Rolls Series) : The Works of Giraldus Cambrensis, i, iii, vi.

(f) ff. 42-49*b*. "Mr. Jones [Galltfaenan]'s answer to Mr. Tate's questions concerning the Druids, and other British antiquities."

For the questions see Lansd. 1,054. Both questions and answers are printed in Toland's Miscellaneous Works: A History of the British Druids.¹

(g) f. 50. Transcripts from the Pipe Rolls, — Henry II.

Several entries occur relating to Wales. See the volumes of the Pipe Roll Society.

[50] Vitellius E. vii.

Life of St. David: Giraldus Cambrensis. Illegible; damaged by the fire of 1731.

This Life is little more than an abridgment of Ricemarc [Vesp. A. xiv], often retaining his very words, with a few additions of no importance (Hardy, Descr. Cat., i, No. 366). It was copied by Wharton before its defacement and printed in Anglia Sacra, ii, 628.

Chronicles and Memorials: The Works of Giraldus Cambrensis, iii, 377, edited by the Rev. J. H. Brewer.

[51] Vitellius F. i.

Transcripts from various charters, amongst which are several relating to lands in Glamorganshire.

A charter of Wm. de Braos, confirming grant of the vill of Llanmadoc to the Knights Templars, is printed in Davies's West Gower, part ii, p. 3, from this MS.

[52] Vitellius F. ix.

ff. 241-251. Excerpts from Nennius respecting the first inhabitants of Britain; 16 cent.

The fragment of a MS. on paper, much damaged by fire; so far as it goes, it seems to have been a copy of Harl. 3,859 (Hardy, Descr. Cat., i, No. 803).

(p) ff. 93-94 b .	S. Carantocus*	No. 114

Those marked * are printed in Rees's Cambro-British Saints. The lives of Ss. Dubricius and Teilo are in the Liber Laudavensis, and in Evans's Book of Llan Dâw from the Gwysaney MS. Evans (pref. xxxiii) observes that the lives of those Saints [as also that of S. Clitauc] in this collection "are simply imperfect transcripts from the Gwysaney MS."

The second life of S. Dubricius is printed in Wharton's Anglia Sacra, ii, 654, and (in an abridged form) in Capgrave's Nova Legenda Angliæ, fo. 87.

- (a) f. 414. Roland Lee, bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, to Cromwell, lord privy seal ; reports that the Welsh are quiet, etc. ; Wigmore, 15 Jan. [1537].

Right honorable and my singuler goode lorde, after my hartly recomandac'ons hit shalbe to give the same like thanks ffor your lordeshippe's moste lovinge l'res to me directed and delyvered lately by this berer. And as for thies p'ties of Wales my truste is they be of as goode towardenes to doo the king's grace s'vice with as goode an intent as any his subjects living, and to my knowledge litle among them conceived of the matters in Englande, fforsomoche their language doth not agree to the advauncemēt therof. I wrote to your lordeshipp long heretofore that at Ludlow was no maner of artillary saving a litle harneys I have gathered together ffrom goode S'r Richard Herbert who dothe the king's grace goode s'vice daily and will doo. And yet my lorde the erle of Worcester wrote to me to redelyver the same, but I made him an aunswere therin. I shall moste hartely praye you to remember the comission that this counsaile hath so long sewed [sued] for to yo'r lordeshipp ffor I have begon to repayer this castill and will farther if I may have the comission, without whiche this counsaile can doo no goode s'vice here, as Mr. Englefeld did enforme your lordeshipp, who hath him hartely recommended to the same. The proclamac'ons as yet for the shiregrounds be not come, whereby justice can be mynystred in Wales, and what maye ensue by the tract thereof I doubt, ffor I am daily called uppon from ev'y parte at this tyme, being the tyme of keping of the Co'rts. And I hartely thanke yo'r lordeshipp for Germyn, desiring the same to have him in remembrance. And yet oones [once] agayne for my s'vaunt Lewes fferme to Whitney, if it may so beç. And also to be goode lorde to my cosen Robenson at this my desire. Also I received thies articles hereinclosed from Sainte Davyes wherein and in other suche like in that p'son if your lordeshippe's pleasure were the same, to staye for the tyme the comon people wolde the better be content here is somewhat spoken towards him that I am sory to here; My duetie is to intymate the same to yo'r lordeshipp, so that ffarther inconvenyencs doo not ensue, &c. . . . Ffrom Wigmore castle the xvth daye of January. We have here and in other places a greate nombre of small ffelonyes [felons] whom we cannot dispatche untill we knowe the king's grace's pleasure for shiregrounds. Your lordship's most , Roland co. et lich.

- (b) f. 415. The enclosure to the above letter; accusing the bishop of St. David's and another of preaching protestant doctrines; 1536.

Concio Meneven' ep'i facta duodecimo die novembris anno d'ni mill'mo quingen'mo xxxvjto. In primis he affirmed and sayede whensoever ij or iij simple p'sonnes as ij coblers or wevers were in company and elected in the name of God, that ther was the trewe church of God. It'm, that it was not expedient to man to confesse himself, but only to God, ffor he will at all tymes accept and take any penytent man or woman to His mercy (if he cannot expediently have a preste). It'm, that ther is nor was any purgatory, but only a thing invented and imagyned by the bisshopp of Roome and o'r prests, to have trentalls and other mundane lucre therby only. It'm, if the king's grace being sup'me hedd of the church of Englande did chuse denomynate and elect any laye man (being lerned) to be a bisshopp that he so chosen, without mencyon made of any orders, shulde be as goode a bisshopp as he is or the best in Englande.

Concio Tallei habita Menevie cora' Ep'o ib'm ac aliis palam xix^o die pred'ci mensis. When and where he affirmed that in tymes past ther was none that did preache or declare the woorde of God trewly, nor the trewth was never knowen till nowe of lat. It'm, that ther ought no maner of rev'ence be given to any sayncte or angell in heven. And in case any were given, the same saincte therwith was made an idoll, and that the same honor or worship was idolatry and nothing ills. It'm that if the sowles that be departed have any nede of o'r prayers (if it myght doo them any goode) ye shall praye that Christe the so[o]ner at the contem-plac'on of our prayers may take them to the fruition of His glory.

Thies articles were exhibited and delyv'ed to the rev'ende father in God the lorde p'sident of the king's counsaile in the marches of Wales the xjth daye of January the xxvijth yere of the reigne of king Henry the vijth by me Roger Lewes, bachelor of laws, abidinge in St. Davids.

¹ A continuous series of decrees of the court of Exchequer upon the lawsuit that ensued will be found amongst the Exchequer papers at the Public Record Office. Sir Henry Ellis states (loc. cit.) that the final order in the cause was made in the Mich. term, 22 Eliz. - f. 102. Considerations alleged by the inhabitants of the ports of South Wales for their discharge from the new impost on wines ; 1585.

Considerations alleged for the inhabitants of South Wales dwellinge wthin the princincts of the portes of Cardiffe, Chepstowe, Swansey, Neath & Newport for their discharge of the new imposte for such wyne as are and shalbe there discharged and spent onlie and not t[r]ansported from thence by water to any porte in England where imposte was and is usually paid.

Imprimis, her ma'ties predecessōrs never extended her p'rogative to charge those countreis wth any imposte for any wyne there spent or uttered, in whose tyme this newe imposte was first appointed to be payd.

The Inhabitants there do not onlie pay to their sev'all Lord Marchers, that is to wete to the Right Honorable William earle of Wourcester and to the Right honorable Henry earle of Pembroke seaven hundred marks or more for mizes in respect of allowance of their ancient im'unities, lybertyes, and franchises, but also do pay unto the foresaid severall earles for all marchandizes brought into the foresaid portes certen customes and other duties due to them as lords marchers. Besydes the custome of tonnage and poundage due to her Ma'tie w^{ch} in no porte or place of England where imposte is payd is aunswered.

The scarcitie of maulte in those countreis is such that many tymes Rochell, Sherant [Charente] and Sheloza wyne (w^{ch} com'only are sould there) are sould as good chepe as ale, viz., *ij*d. a quarte.

And to the portes of Chepstowe, Newport and Cardiffe there com'eth of maulte every moneth most com'only the value of fourescore pounds out of Tewxburie, Glouc., M'shfield and other portes and places of England.

The traffique of strangers w^{ch} was a great benefitt to the inhabitants in the foresaid cuntry is nowe greatly decayed to the great ympov'ishment of the inhabitants there. And whereas sondrie shippes of great burden have byn belonginge to the foresaid portes nowe there are fewe or non' but small barkes of xvij^{ea} or xx^{tie} tonnes.

Moreover when the severall leases g'unted to Mr. Gardener and to Mr. Robinson were made for imposte, the imposte in Wales was not conteyned in the valewe of the charge that their rente was rated by, no more was it when the newe ffarmo'rs tooke their lease therof.

[This para. has been struck through.] Besides we have a charter g'aunted by kynge Edward the second yt all the inhabitants of Cardiffe, Newport, Cowbridge and other portes in South Wales shalbe free for ever from payment of any custome and other usages through all the realme of Englande for all maner of marchandizes (the customes of leather, velles, wooll and wyne onely excepted) w^{ch} charter was confirmed by sundrie kings in this realme, and lastly by her ma'tie.

These and other causes heretofore moved the right honorable the late Lord Threasorer of England duringe all the tyme that one

Mr. Leeke was customer in the foresaid portes w'ch was untill A'o xiiij^o of her ma'tie's raigne to allowe the inhabitants foresaid to be free of the newe imposte for such wines as were uttered and spent there and not t[r]ansported from thence by water to any other porte where imposte was usually paid. And Mr. Gardener and Mr. Robinson duringe their severall leases never received one peny for imposte for any wyne spent brought and uttered w'thin the foresaid portes of Cardiffe, Chepstowe, Newport, and Cowbridge who had as ample a g[r]aunte therof as the nowe ffarmo'rs have it.

And sythens A'o xiiij^o of her Ma'tie's raigne yf any inhabitants in the foresaid portes brought any wyne there, yf the[y] brought xx^{li}, xl^{li} or lx. tonnes they paid but for ten, twentie, or thirtie in respect of such wyne as they ment to t[ra]nsport to Englande.

And [in April 1564]¹ there was a warrant directed to the auditor of South Wales from the foresaid right honorable the late lord threasorer and from the right honorable Mr. Chaunciller of the Excheaquer In considerac'on of the payment of ton'adge and pondage in Wales not used there before, and for other causes in the said warrant conteyned That the inhabitants in the porte of Millforde and the creekes there adjoynynge should be discharged of the newe imposte for wyne untill further order therin were taken w'ch considerac'ons remaine as yet in force, as by the cople of the said warrant readie to be showed to yo'r honor. And w'ch remayneth of recorde w'th M'r. Auditor of SouthWales appeareth.

It seemed reasonable unto yo'r honor uppon the like good considerac'ons lately to order that the inhabitants in the porte of Bewmaris in the county of Anglesey and other portes in North Wales should be discharged of this newe imposte for such wyne as there should be spent and brought, and not transported from thence by water. So we humbly pray it may pleas yo'r honor to order that w'thin the foresaid portes in SouthWales we be discharged of the foresaid newe imposte for such wyne as are and shalbe spent w'thin the p'cynets of the foresaid portes, and not transported from thence elleswhere by water.

- (a) ff. 103-112. Papers concerning the council of the Marches of Wales; 1589.

The first is a letter from Dr. David Powel; the others relate to proposed alterations in the powers of the council.

Dr. David Powel's letter is as follows:

May it please yo'r Hono'r to be advertised that in Lent last past I made an especiale journey to the Councell in the Marches of Wales about the multitude of Alhowses and the wandringe of roagues in disorder w'thout controlmente from cuntrie to cuntrie, (in the w'ch thinges the justices of peace have greatly neglected their duties) and have procured her Ma'ties L'res to be directed to the justices of peace in all the shires of Wales com'aundinge them accordinge to their dutie and the trust reposed in them, to reforme those disorders and of their doinges and reformation to certifie the said Councell the xxth day of June nexte. And that yo'r hono'r may see how requisite it is to have a redresse in that behalfe, I have sent yo'r L. by this bearer a true certificate of the Alhowses in Denbighshire (w'ch is but a little shire) wherby you may estimate of all the shires in Wales, and thereafter judge of that service. And thus w'th all humilitie I take my leave, from my chamber in Litle Brittain in London the xxvijth of Aprilis, 1589. Yo'r hono'rs most humble at com'aundement, DAVID POWEL. For matters of Religion we are quieter in North Wales then we wer wonte to be.

Respecting affairs in the Marches.

Extract: Whereas your Lp. doth wish me to use the s'vice of some of the Counsaill in the Marches whom I shall like best, I am sorry to write it, but most sorry to finde it that (the Justice excepted) there is not one of them whom I may employ in those causes. For either they be couldlie affected in religion, of kinred or alliaunce to p'sons accused, or otherwise soe quallified, that I have small hope to doe good by their meanes. This inconvenience hath occa'oned me heertofore to desier better assistaunce w'thout the w'ch her Ma'ts s'vice can not be doonne to her liking. And let me plainly write to your L'p, as to my much honored frend, that her Ma'tie not respecting me heerin hath occa'oned me to continue lesse at that Counsaill then [than] I meant. I have theire bin misreported of w'thout dezert. I have alsoe founde myself mallised w'thout cause; yea, discovery made of speeches used by some as though they purposed to poison me. All those things have bin made knowen to them who should yeeld justice in the same. And yet am I soe farre from being regarded therin as every lewd varlett's informa'con is still receaved against me, and howe incredible soever, yet if it concerne me, it shall finde some ready to geeve therunto credit and countenaunce.

Evidently a sheet from a longer document.

Extract: Com'orthaes have byn graunted uppon slight causes wherof three are of this nature:

Some that prodigally have spent that w^{ch} they had, have a Com'orthaes to relieve themselves.

Some others being overcharged by their owne follies, are relieved by com'orthaes.

Some others are lycensed to begg at weddings, under cullo^r whereof they gather comorthaes. And these things be most com'only graunted to counccillo^rs frinds and servaunts.

Theis things can never be answered wth sufficient warrantize. Com'orthaes are com'only gathered by gentlmen, or by countenance of gent. who draw the people to geave more for feare than love. A matter of no small burden to the subjects.

In Camera S'cc'ii.

Comes Essex firmar' d'ne Reg'ne pl', v's Ric'm Buckley milit' et al' def'tes.

The sute is for custome subsidie and ymposte of Secks and sweete wyne in Anglesey.

The def'ts doe yeld to paie custome and subsidie, But utterlie refuse to paie ymposte, and p'scribe to be discharged by custome and by the Statute of primo of the Queene.

Her Ma'ties Attorney and Solicitor for her ma'tie and her said farmor doe saie That the ymposte is raysed by her ma'tie w'thin tyme of memory and by her royall p'rogative and extendeth as well to England as to Wales, and therefore no custome canne be nor cuntry p'scribe againste yt.

And denyinge thereof is denyinge her highnes p'rogative which is one of the flowers of the crowne.

And as to the Statute, yt extendeth not to the ymposte in anie sorte but to some other pety paym'ts as prysage pondage or the like.

This matter was hearde the first Thursdaie of this terme. Whereuppon the courte have sett downe to order for the Queene unlesse yo'r L'p knowe anie cause to the contrarie. And the rather doe staie for yo'r L'ps pleasure in that behalf, for that the def'ts shewed fourth an order heretofore made betweene the farmor of the Frenche Gascoine wyne and some of Anglesey which although they [the Judges] do not see that the same canne warrant the nowe withholdinge of this ymposte, yet they desire yo'r L'ps opinion in the p'misses before they doe enter absolute decree.¹

ff. 171, 173, 175. Three letters¹ from the archbishop of York (Sir John Williams) to Sir John Owen, of Clennenau, governor of Conway castle.

A letter from the same to the same, and of the same date as the first of the following letters (24 April 1646) was published in Arch. Camb., 4th Ser., vi, 316, by the late Mr. W. W. E. Wynne. It is without doubt the one referred to below. All three letters are originals, and are signed by the Archbishop ; the third is entirely in his handwriting.

Worthy S'r.—My late receivinge of these inclosed coppyes (which I have reason to believe to be true and authentically) makes me app[re]hend that for all theyr longe date they maye yeat prove but straing'rs unto you. I have therefore sent them unto you as to my freind and kinsman, to the end that upon thies true informac'on of the carriage of matters abroade and a due consyderac'on of the estate and condic'on of your owne countrey and of your neighb'rs in Fflint and Ruthland, nowe in parlye of surrendringe you may find out some expedient whereby w'th your owne Honn'r and the Honn'r of our generall you maye surrender those places you hold to the Power of the Parliam't accordinge to his Ma'ts pleasure in that behalfe. Wherein as in all other thinges that maye concerne you noe man shal be more readye to yeild what accomodac'on he is able than your humble servant and coozen, Jo. EBORAC. Bodytha the 30th of June, 1646. [Endorsed] To the Right Wor'p'll S'r John Owen, knight, govern'r of the towne and castle of Conwayne.

Worthy Cozen. I can noe further evidence the coppies I sent you to be true, then that they are printed of both the Parliament and the Scottishe Commissioners, and gen'ally received by all men to be true. The propositions sent by the Parliament to his M'tye are of higher nature and consequences then the surre'dringe up of ffortes, townes and castles. And therefor though his m'tye have allreadye ordered the one (as appears by Oxenford surre'dred up upon honourable termes) yeat maye he justly pause upon the other, w'ch I leave to your consideration. And w'thall desire you to admitt of this Tru'peter Henry Bourten, whom I have licensed to repayre unto Conwayne, for the releevinge of a prisoner, one Nicholas Morton, nowe detayned by you, and one Richard ab Evan lieing there in the same condicion. Further I shall not trouble you, but in assuringe you that I continue still and shall doe while I live a loyal subject to the kinge of England, and reallye your lovinge cozen and humble servaunt, Jo. EBORAC. Boditha, this 4th of Julie, 1646. [Endorsed] To the right worshipfull my worthy cozen S'r John Owen, knight, governour of the towne and castle of Conwayne, these.

May it please your Grace. I have sent your Grace here inclosed a copy of a letter from S'r John Watts which came just now to me from S'r Will. Neale. Your grace may please to take notice that this night S'r Will. Vaughan will be at Chirke, and therefore (if your grace shall thinke it fitt) I conceive it necessary that the horse and foote of Caernarvonshire and Anglysey should, with all convenient speede advance as farr as this place, and the rather because that the forces of these countreyes will not drawe into a body untill then. I intend to-morrow morninge to goe to the sheriffes of both counteys to hasten their motion. I have sent to the sheriff of Anglysey that he would march with such horse as will accompany him as speedily as he can. I shall not faile to acquaint your Grace with what further intelligence I shall receive, and in the meantime remaine, your Grace's most humble servant, RICH. BYRON. Ridland [Rhuddlan] Octob. the 24th, 6 o'clocke at night. Since the writinge of this letter a servant of Mr. Billett's came from Wrexham who doth assure me that parte of S'r Will. - (a) f. 108. Rough draft in lord Burghley's handwriting of charges and allowances for the council of the Welsh Marches.

- (b) f. 183. The Welsh descent of the family of Cecil ; end of 16th cent.

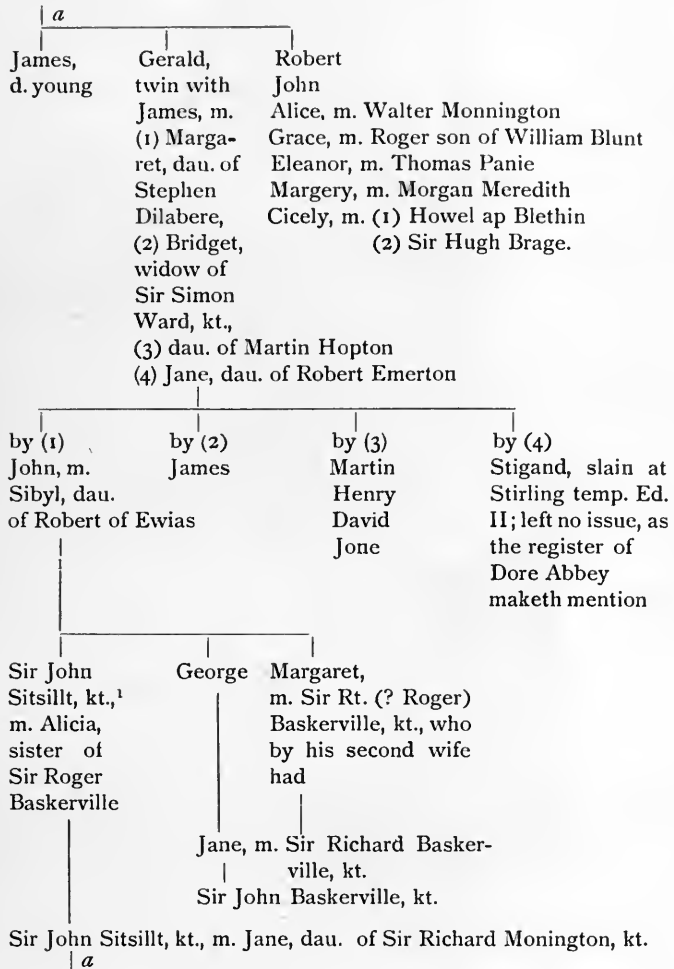

The descent is made out as follows—

Robert Sitsyllt, one of the knights who joined Fitzhamon in the conquest of Glamorgan. He married and so became possessed of Halterennes [? Allt yr ynys] and other lands in the counties of Hereford and Gloucester.

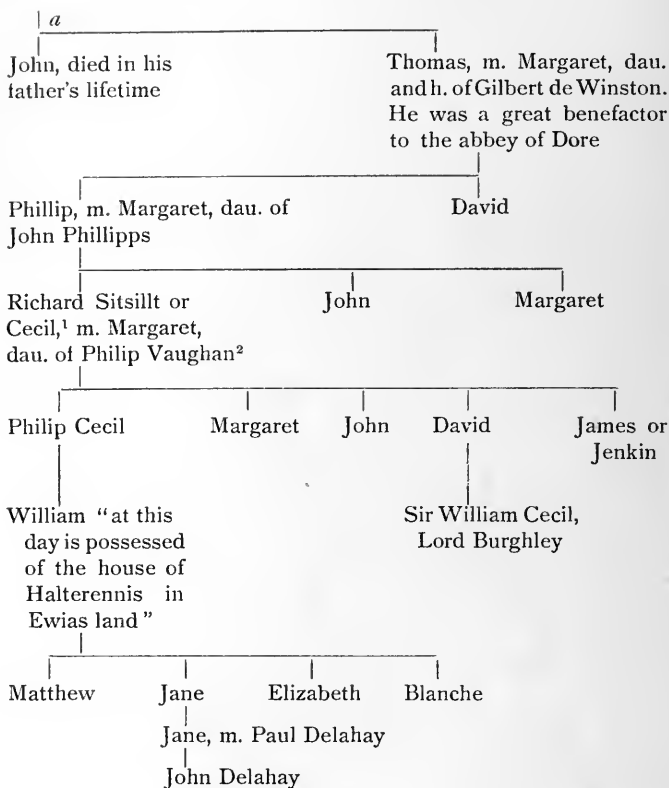

James Sitsyllt, a partizan of Maud, slain at the siege of Wallingford Castle, a^o 4 Stephen, "having then upon him a vesture whereon was wrought in neadle workke his armes or ensignes as they be made upon the tombe of Geraud Sitsillt in the abbey of Dore, w'ch are afterward truly blazed in a judgment gyven by comission of kinge Edwarde the Third for the auncient right of the same armes."

Wallingford as before declared. The final order and determination of which controversy is laid down by John Boswell [Boswell], gentleman, in his book intitled The Concordes of Armorie, folio 80. This Sir John Sitsillt had a charge of men at arms for the custody of the Marches of Scotland in the eleventh year of king Edward the third."

(d) f. 10. The state of North Wales towching religion.

The people naturallie are vearie devoute, havinge in harte doubtles engraffed as greate feare regarde and reverence of a sup'nall power as anie people in the wourld elswhere have, but more than the name of God they knowe noethinge att all, and therefore as utterlie ignorante of Him or their saluac'on doe still in heapes goe one [on] pilgrimage to the wonted wells and places of superstiti'on, and in the nights after the feasts when the ould offerings weare used to be kepte at anie idolls chappell albeit the church be pulled downe; yet doe they come to the place where the church or chappell was, by greate jorneyes barefoote vearie sup'sticiouslie, &c.

The moave for the meatinge and knowledge of the time when the pilgrimes shall come is cheeflie wroughte by their pencars or heade minstrells whoe at the direcc'on of some ould gentlewooman doe ordenarilie geve the somons of the time certaine for suche meatings.

Upon the Sondaies and hollidaies the multitude of all sortes of men woomen and childerne of everie parishe doe use to meete in sondrie places either one [on] some hill or one the side of some mountaine where their harpers and crowthers singe them songs of the doings of their auncestors, namelie, of their warrs againste the kings of this realme and the English nac'on, and then doe they ripp upp their petigres at lenght howe eche of them is descended from those their ould princis. Here alsoe doe they spende their time in hearinge some parte of the lives of Thalaassyn [Taliessin], Marlin Beno Pybbye [Merddyn pen beirdd], Jeruu [? Jorwerth], and suche other the intended prophetts and saincts of that cuntrie.

The com'on sorte of gent of that cuntrie doe ordenarilie in everie place and eche companie advance the habilitie of the dominion of Wales, preferringe the same to be more than the valor [value] of the kingdome of Scotlande, and thabilities of the people of that province or parte of this realme to be more able to mainteyne a regall estate than be the Scotts. And here is to be noted whan they lie idelleie one [on] the mountains sides how than [then] they talke of the fastnes and naturall strenght of everie waie place and hill of their cuntrey.

Trewlie at this daie yf you loke throwlie to the whole number of gents and others of all sortes in North Wales ye shall scarcelie finde anie (the Byshops and some fewe others excepted) yet in anie sorte well instructed in the faithe of Christe, for of the whole multetude suche w'ch be under xxxty yeres of age seeme to have noe shewe of anie religion, the others well neare gen'allie all daie to professe and to mainteyne the absurdest pointcs of popishe heresie, accordinge to w'ch knowledge (moste lamentable to be spoken) the greatest number of them doe frame their lives in loosnes, licenciousnes, contenc'on and other suche like.

Yf the enemies of God and trewe religion shall ever endeavor the disquiett of the setled state, they are in policie to practishe the same where ignorance moste aboundeth, and where the gspell hath bine leaste preached, w'ch suerlie is in Wales.

¹ It will be observed that this letter precedes in order of date the two letters printed on p. 65. This correspondence was evidently unknown to Mr. J. R. Phillips, the author of The Civil War in Wales and the Marches, as it materially contradicts the view taken of the relations between the archbishop and Sir John Owen at p. 377 of that work.

Worcester w'ch lie fayre and open for you. What you doe doe quickly, that I may send to Generall Mitton gov. to Salop about elections of knights and burgesses and not to returne these 3 weekes, he beinge sherif there. This you will keepe secret to your self. Fro[m] him who is your true and reall freynd and kinsman."

At the Starre Chamber the xijth of Maye 1574, A'o. 16 r. r. Elizabethhe.

Present: the L. keep[er], the L. Thre'r, the L. Admirall, the L. Chambrelaine, Mr. Comptroller, Mr. Secretary Smyth, Mr. Secretary Walsingham, S'r Walt'r Myldmay. Whereas heretofore by order from the lords of her mat's privy counsell upon a certeyne controversie arisen touching the jurisdicc'on of the President and Councell of the Principalitie of Wales and marches of the same lathie impeached and brought in question for a private cause by one Robert Wyld seekinge nowe to exempt the cittie and county of Worcester from the authoritie of the same counsell, ffor the better triall of the same surmise the said controversie was comytted to the Queene's mat's Attorney and Sollicito'r generall to consider thereof, and upon the p[er]usinge aswell of the statute made for the estab[li]shinge of the said lord President and counsell there, and such com'issions and instructions as have beene in former tymes graunted to them, and are by her Ma'tie graunted nowe, and upon the hering of such learned counsell as should repaire unto them on the behalf of the said lord President and Councell, and the said Robert Wield, to declare such reasons as they might have for the defence and mainteynance of their cause The said attorney and sollicito'r gen'all to make report unto their lordshippes what they shall thincke agreable to the lawes provided for the said counsell fforasmuch as thys daie the said Attorney and Sollicito'r Generall havinge heard the learned counsell of both sydes, have nowe upon good advise and deliberac'on made their report by mouth unto the lordes in the presence of the said Wield that the said cittie and countie of Worcester be not by lawe exempted from the jurisdicc'on of the of the said Councell, but ought in all respects as diverse other shires doe acknowledge and obey the same and as in tymes heretofore of a long contynuans they have don, And that the said counsell is sufficiently warranted by the said statute, her mat's comission and instructions to exercise jurisdicc'on in the same as before tyme hath beene used. Therefore it was by their lordshippes ordered that the said lord president and counsell should use such jurisdicc'on and authority w'thin the said cyttie and countie of Worcester as heretofore by him and others in that place hath beene accustomed accordinge to such comissions and instructions as have beene and are graunted in that behaulf, any act or other thinge heretofore don or com'itted by the said Wield or any other to the contrary notwithstandinge. &c.

M'd'.—I have made this certifiat of the king's ma'ts milles in Wales (most of them beinge p'cell of mannors) by comaundm't of the right ho^r Julius Cæsar, knight, chauncellor of his ma'ts court of Exchequier. p' Ric. Gibyng, dep't, Tho. Hanbury, auditor. 22 July 1608.

(b) f. 72. An account of the manors, &c., in Wales held by divers persons in tail, whereof the reversion or remainder is in the Crown; c. 1620.

An interesting return. The properties are situate in the counties of Pembroke, Carmarthen, and Monmouth. Their total annual value is £175 1s. 1¼d.

This is followed (f. 73) by an account of rents in kind—corn, pilcorn, oatmeal, cheese, wool, eggs, capons and pullets, and day works—with their respective values, the total being £10 8s. 2d. To the return is appended this note:—"M'd, the granges oute of w'ch these customes and dueties are payde are assigned unto the prince his highnes [prince Charles, afterwards Charles I]. But in regard the sayde customes were noe p'cell of his highnes value, they doe nowe remayne in his ma'ts possessions and are amongst other things assigned to the contractors. There are not other duties of the natures aforesaide, nor of any other nature w'ch doe p[ro]p[er]lie yssue oute of any of the mannors lands and tenem'ts in his ma'ts possession. But there are divers other customes and duties in Wales of sondrie natures, viz., comorthes, reilthes [raiths], amobers, raglotts, staur' d'ni, redd' mobil' and such like w'ch are yssuynge oute of the lands assigned unto the prince his highnes and are w'thin the compas of the charter graunted unto his highnes and p'cell of his value."

- (b) f. 256. Richard bishop of St. Asaph, to Sir Julius Cæsar; concerning a cause pending between the dean of St. Asaph and Mr. Gabriel Parry respecting the vicarage of Henllan; 1611.

Salutem in Chr'o. My duetye unto y'r honor remembred: May it please you (of your accustomed clemencie) to give me leave to certifie my knowlege in a cause w'ch (as I crediblie heare, and verilie beleeve) yo'r ho. doth christianly tender. The vicaridge of Henllan I meane, w'ch is nowe in quæstion betweene Mr. Gabriell Parrie pl' and Mr. Thomas Banckes deane of St. Asaph def.¹ Henllan is a very spacious parish wherein are many recusantes (God amend them) where there is great want of a good preacher resident. Yo'r ho. and others have so far prevayled as that Mr. Deane is content to allowe fortie markes a yeere unto a curate, w'ch is far more then [than] lately hath bene given. The stipend though it be increased is scarce sufficient, and can not be p'petuall. Scarce sufficient, because there is a fresh complaint made by divers for want of service read in a chappell thereunto belonging: besides that the parish of Llanvaire (out of w'ch the vicar of Henllan had a liberall portion) may justly expect and doe much want some preachinge. Not p'petuall, because neyther decree against Mr. Deane, nor promise made by Mr. Deane can bind his successor, beside the collusion that may be in the meane tyme betwene Mr. Deane and his curatt, where some alleadge that it is more beneficiall to the parish to have a curate then a vicar by reason that the vicar may be no' resident, beside the tie of lawe there is a bond of oath that bindeth the vicar to p'sonall residence; the curate is free from both. In my poore diocese I wish and purpose the remove but of one vicar, but I cold willingly spare most of the curates. I doe presume in this cause the rather to write unto y'r honor, not onely because I take the suppression of this vicarige to be prejudic'all, but alsoe because this case may prove a leadinge case to the destruction of manie vicareges, and so become p'nicious unto the church. In this litle diocese wherein are but about 120 churches there are, beside Henllan, 28 vicariages belonginge to impropriations, of the endowment of anie one whereof (God is my record) though I have somewhat p'used [perused] the recordes I doe not thinke there can be any sufficient prooffe. If againe the consent of byshop deane and chapter may lawfullie consolidate them unto impropriate rectories, I have little hope but that w'thin short time manie resident and painefull vicars shalbe turned to gaddinge and beggerlie curates. The b[ishop] and archdeacon may gaine 250*li* p' ann' if he love lucru[m] in arca and feare not damnu[m] in con'cia. The deane and chapter may have a dividet of 100*li*. p' annu', one p'bendarie may have 90*li* p' annu' and another 30*li*. Some honorable and othc' p'prietars of note may by such a shuffle increase their revenues by 1,000*li* p' annu'. If the church may receive so great damage in this poore corner what mischeefe may be done through the whole kingedome, who can but take notice of what passeth before y'r honours. Out of my love to the p'ties, my desire of peace, and feare of this daunger I did about the end of Michelmas terme obtaine of the counsell of the pl' and p'swade what I cold w'th the deft and some of his counsell to refer the cause to anie one 2 or 3 bishops of the kingdome. Understanding by the pl' his counsell y'r ho. desire of peace I did eftsoones (findinge the pl. conformable) send my Chauncellor and register to p'swade the deft to refer the cause to some indifferent frinds in the countrie, but Mr. Deane upon reasons best knowne unto him self wold not hearken therto. Cravinge p'done for my bowldnes and referringe the cause to y'r ho. wisdom and justice I com'end yo'r honor in my praies to the protecc'on of the Almightye, and rest at your ho. comaund, RICHARD ASAPHEN. A portion of Edward Lwwhyd's correspondence has been printed in Archæologia Cambrensis.

Salkeld Nov. 7, 1700.—Dear Sir,—Most extremely welcome was your last letter. All your northern friends were in pain for you. I had last week a repeated enquiry from Edinburgh what was become of you; and yours came (most seasonably) to enable me to make a reply. Mr. Sutherland tells me that what you wrote to sir R. Sibbald and himself (dated Ap. 2) came not to their hands till September, having laid, all that while, with the Scotch merchant to whose care you entrusted it. I have not yet gotten Dr. Leigh's book; but I find (by the the monthly account of the works of the learned) that the criticks are upon him. It seems he writes with greatest respect on (Mr. Ray's province and yours) the vegetable kingdom; but is far more free with Dr. Woodward and his minerals. The antiquity part was I believe chiefly drawn out of Dr. Keurden's papers; which, as I am told, are in his possession. Dr. Woodward had lately two missionaries in this country; the one a B. of A. of Cambridge, and the other a London apothecary. They landed at Hull and coasted it down to New Castle; examining all the cliffs on the shore, the colepitts, alummines, &c., and made weekly returns of their discoveries. From Northumberland they came (by the lead mines on Aulston Moore) to this place; and I directed them, the best I could, to what was worth their seeing here. From hence they went to Ingleborough and Pendle Hills; where, as the Dr. tells me since, they find Dr. Richardson's account of those two mountains (in his letters to you) to be very faulty. They found plenty of conchitæ of sev'l kinds on both of 'em. They were more fortunate than ever I was on our other hills: though I must confess I knew not why we should not (now and then) meet with such spoils there; since we have sometimes beds of limestone, which rarely want a mixture of such shelly appearances, near the tops of the highest of 'em. I have not yet published anything in defence of my English Library. I wrote a letter in answer to the scurrilous reflexions of the animadverter, which I expected would have been printed (four months ago) with Dr. Wake's reply. But the Dr. has enlarg'd his foundations so much that his work is not like to appear before Midsummer at soonest. By that time I hope to have finished my Scotch Library; and then my apology for my former books will appear best in the introduction to this. I am little concerned in the main controversy, which (as I take it) is far from being understood by either of the combatants as yet. However the cause is like to be effectually searched into; and several heads are at work to make our convocations of more use than they have been formerly. I am well assured that a Bill is ready drawn (to be offered to the next session of Parliam't) providing against the slavish dependency of the ecclesiastical Hierarchy on the civil magistracy for the future. That to this end whatever Bishoprick falls vacant in the summer it shall so continue till the parliament meet in the winter. Being met the lower house of Convocation shall agree on six persons to be nominated to this B'prick. Out of these the upper House shall chuse four; out of them the Abp of the province chooses two; and lastly out of the two the king names one. And because Deans and Archdeacons are numerous and may influence the first choice, 'tis provided that none of these shall hereafter be appointed by the King or the Bp as heretofore; but shall, on every respective vacancy, be chosen by the clergy of the diocese. I dare not undertake that all these fine liberties will pass both Houses and have the Royal assent. Your acc't of the Dance Mein in Cornwall is (you'll believe) agreeable enough. I hope you will meet with nothing of that kind in France where the Normans were not masters: For, if you sh'd hear of their being plentiful in Normandy I hope you'l think that a strengthening of my opinion. My cousin Archer went not to Cambridge the last summer. An extraordinary distemper at Kendal and multitudes of patients forced him to defer the taking his degree. All happiness and safety to you at sea and land! I am ever, yours most sincerely, W. NICOLSON.—I should be

A volume of letters from Thomas Hearne, the antiquary, to James West, of London.

Amongst these letters are a few upon subjects of interest to Welsh antiquaries.

- (a) f. 15. 4 June 1725; refers to the life of St. Wenefred in Cotton, Claudius A. v [which see] (not A. ii, as printed in Museum catalogue).

Hearne states that the late bishop of Ely (Fleetwood) when writing of S. Wenefred¹ had no recourse to that Ms., and continues: "his lordship told me his design was to hinder superstitious pilgrims from making fruitless journeys to the holy well; but, indeed, when his book came out it had a contrary effect. For upon reading it, and hearing it read, many more flocked thither than there did before. And many persons of good judgment concluded, upon weighing what had been alledged by the publisher, that most of his proofs against the being of such a lady as St. Wenefred were very weak, and that he had been highly injurious to the memory of Robertus Salopiensis whom he makes a great villain, whereas, on the contrary, he was a very religious, conscientious, good man, and so was also Elerius the Britain that likewise writ about her."

¹ The Life and Miracles of St. Wenefrede, together with her Litanies and some historical observations made thereon; London, 1713. The Cotton Ms. (Claudius A. v) is ascribed to Elerius as well as to Robert of Shrewsbury (see facsimile in Cambro-British Saints, opp. p. 198). In a note on p. 529 of the last-named work, Elerius is turned into Clericus.

(b) f. 23. 30 Dec. 1726.

Extract: "I thank you for your notes from Sir Thomas Sebright's catalogue. But I am inclined to think that this catalogue contains only such books as belonged to Sir Roger Twysden Since that, Sir Thomas purchased Mr. Badger's books, as also the MSS. of Mr. Edward Lhuyd. I looked over Mr. Badger's study I also looked over Mr. Lhuyd's old MSS., as I did likewise many of his own writing, tho' I think several of Mr. Lhuyd's papers were not among those MSS. when I had the view of them."

(c) f. 45. 1 Aug. 1727.

Extract: "Clunok vaur, a cistercian abby in Caernarvonshire, was dedicated to St. Benow. The sine-cure of it belongs to the Principal of Jesus College, being given by the earl of Pembroke, who perhaps may have old writings relating to this old abbey, about which I know very little."

This is followed, f. 17*b*, by a catalogue of the British historians that have been printed, and by

(b) f. 18. Books printed in Welsh.

The latter list contains no information that is not already known, but the writer ends this section as follows: "The scriptures were translated into 32 languages before they were translated into Welsh. By the care and industry of Bishop Handmere [Hanmer, of St. Asaph], about 50 yeares agoe there were but two men that preached in Welsh, neither could the com'on people at the first understand them, the scripture phrases and dialect being grown out of use, but by him restored. Dr. Gouge, he procured a new and very faire impression of the Bible, and the Litturgie of the church of England in the Welsh tongue in 8vo. to the number of 8,000. And I am informed that the learned Dr. Lloyd, bishop of St. Asaph, has corrected the former translations of the Bible, and that his pious intentions is for erecting a Press in his diocess for the new reprinting of the Holy Bible and other Godly bookes, for the benefit of the natives of that country."

[218] 828.

- A volume of the collections of capt. John Stevens for his continuation of Dugdale's Monasticon.

The compiler seems to have been in the king's service in Wales, having his residence in [Welsh] Poole, with his duties extending over the counties of Montgomery and Merioneth. At f. 10 is an interesting memorandum of the state of public feeling in Wales during the revolution of 1688. At his departure from home for a short period during that year he left the Welsh well affected towards the government of James, but upon his return he found a great change, which he attributes chiefly to the influence and exertions of bishop Lloyd of St. Asaph, one of the seven bishops who had refused to read James's Declaration of Indulgence. Some rioting took place, and the houses of those who were believed to favour the deposed dynasty suffered slightly. The narrator received warning that he had better clear out of the country, which he at once did.

- (a) ff. 55-6. The statute for the foundation of the Hospital of Swansea, A.D. 1332 ; late 17 or early 18 cent. copy.

Another copy is in Harl. 1249, f. 204, with the appropriation of Oystermouth at f. 161. Translations of these documents are in Arch. Camb., 4th Ser., vii, 3 and 10.

Speculum Christiani; by John Morris, a Welshman; 15 cent.

For this tract and its author see Archæologia, xxxix, 375 (J. O. Halliwell-Phillipps). In a little work entitled The Connexion of Wales with the Early Science of England, Mr. Halliwell-Phillipps refers to his article in Archæologia as having proved John Morris to have been a Welshman, whereas he had merely quoted the above ascription of Casley who drew up the catalogue of the Royal MSS.

[246] 10. B. xiii.

A tract entitled Detectio Calumniarum Dialogi Papistici dicti Deus et Rex ; by David Owen¹; 17 cent.

The full title of the pamphlet is as follows :—Detectio calumniarum sophismatum et imposturarum anonymi papistæ qui dialogo sub ementito titulo Deus et Rex. Conatus est astruere potestatem populo papalem ad coercionem et depositionem Regum. Authore Davide Owen Monanensi sacræ theologiæ professore honoratissimo comiti de Holderness a sacris.

The dedication, which is in English, shows the author to have been an extreme advocate of the divine right theory. It runs thus :—To the right Ho'ble Sir John Ramsey knight, baron of Barnes and Kingston, viscount Hadington, earle of Holdernesse, one of the ho'ble gentlemen of his Ma'tie's bedchamber, my singular good lord. S'r. Whilest I attended yo'r honor the last parliament I was perswaded by some freindes to answere a seditious pamphlet published by an English papist, by the name of God and the Kinge, against God and the kinge; w'ch booke hath bine out twoe yeares unanswered. The drift of the pamphleter beinge to w'thdraw the kinge's subjectes to error, schisme and disloyaltie. When I had yo'r leave to returne to my cure at Easter I tooke the booke home w'th me, and (in six weeke's space) gave yt (I hope) a plaine and a full answere. Wherin I manifest that his proofoes are as weake as his doctrine is wicked. I knowe (my lord) that the prerogative of a kinge is noe fit theame for a diviue, nor matter of discursè for a subject, but the sacrelegious impiety of papist and puritan, who expose kinges to the censure of the pope, peares ore people (as this dialogist doth) hath enforced many grave divines (whose steppes I trace) to handle that argument, and to make evident demonstration from the word of God, the lawes naturall, nationall and municipall of regall states, the report of historie, and the generall good of commonwealthes, That sacred kinges in respect of soveraigne ma'tie are free from all humane censure, for theyre power beinge immediat from God, established for God over all men, and only under God, may not be questioned by man, w'thout offence against God. I am directed by my superiors to give this booke unto the kinge; w'ch I humbly desire yo'r lo'pp to doe for me. The God of heven prosper you in all yo'r wayes. Yo'r honor's chaplayn, humbly devoted, DAVID OWEN.

¹For this David Owen see the Dic. Nat. Biog. The writer of that notice states that the dedication is dated the 21st July, 1621, but, as will be seen, this is not so. Llyfr. y Cymry, under the year 1642, art. 13 (not 12 as indexed), gives the title of a printed pamphlet by the same David Owen, and erroneously terms him a Merionethshire man. This was the reprint of a tract originally issued in 1610, the manuscript of which is also in the Royal collection (see 18. B. v.).

The dissent [descent] of the most victorious and chrysten prince K. Edward the sext, that goeth lynally to Brute and agreith with the best chronycles in Welsh. The abbot of Llynegwestill, maister doct'r Even Pole, Syr John Lyaff, Griffyn [Gutyn] Owen, Rob't ap Hoell ap Thomas, John King &c. &c. hath founde and proved this good and true lyneige.

At the end of the MS. are the words "p' me Davidi Hollandi off Ruthyn," and at the beginning is the autograph of Humphrey Lloyd.

The finding of the commission, said to have been issued by Henry VII to Sir John Leiaf and others to set forth the king's descent from the kings and princes of Wales, was printed in Dr. David Powel's Historie of Cambria (ed. 1697) without reference to the source whence it was derived, and it was again printed in the 1774 edition of the History. Sir S. R. Meyrick, whilst including it in his introduction to Lewis Dwn's Heraldic Visitation of Wales, refers to the absence of authority for it. There is no doubt that, as in the case of the Historie, Dr. Powel made extensive use of the manuscripts of Humphrey Lloyd which had come into his possession, altering the originals to suit his purposes (see remarks upon Cottonian, Caligula A. vi, p. 8 ante). The present MS. is much fuller than the print, and contains a number of interesting details which Powel has omitted.

(a) ff. 58-65*b*. Returns of the services, mizes, rents and perquisites due to the Crown from the principality of Wales; early 17 cent.

Returns drawn up by an officer of the crown of the profits derived from the principality of Wales at the commencement of the reign of James I. They are too long to be given here in their entirety, but are well worthy of publication.

Extracts (notes to statement of mizes due from the different counties): it is to be humblie offered to the considerac'on of the prince his councell, whether a termor for yeares of a lo'p marcher shall have mizes therein, or the prince his highnes, for in the lo'p of Arustley¹ ten'nt for yeares claymeth the mize, for which cause in 3tio [tercio] of his Ma'ties reigne it was set in sup'. And so was likewise sett in sup' in the beginning of the late queene's time. If this shall so fall out it will prejudice the prince in his mize £300.

There doth not appeare in the records of Southwales any reason wherefore there was not answered some mize out of Glamorgan-shire, both in tertio of his Ma'ts reigne and alsoe in the beginning of the late queene.

¹ The name of the tenant has not been inserted.

In the return of the crown parks, forests, and chases, Snowdon forest is said to extend into the counties of Carnarvon and Merioneth, and to contain some few red deer.

The note to the return of Cymortha is interesting: This is a duty (which [is] titled [entitled] in the records consuetudo voc' comortha) which is answered to the prince in many parts of Southwales, but not in Northwales.

It is paid in some Lo'ps every second yeare, and in some Lo'ps every third yeare, and in some every fourth.

Theis comorthaes are of two kynds, viz. :-	In some places the record menconeth a certein number of cattell, viz. :-	In the L'p of Brecknock the tennants paie for a comortha lv li., xv js. vii jd. de precio 136 vaccarum exeun' de ball' forinc' de Brecknock every second yeare.
		In the lo'p of Buelt the tennants paie iiij li. xv js. xd. , pro comortha de precio 10 vitulorum in Southirvon every second yeare.
	In other places the record menconeth only a certeyne som'e of money.	In the county of Carm'then the tennants of Llanecrois paie iiij li. xv s. ij jd. every third yeare for a comortha. And in the same county the tenn'ts of Goithgrejde [Gwyddgrug] paie every third yeare vj li. xs. for a comortha.

Whether is it at the prince's elecc'on to take (in some lo'ps) the cattell in specie and leave the money. Whether doe not the bayliffs of his highnes manno'rs which paie comorthaes take the best [? beasts] to themselves, and answer the mony only to the prince.

There is not any comortha paid at this daie out of any shire in North Wales, as is above menconed. But yet it apeareth by auncient record that in some manno'rs there were comorthaes paid, but it seemeth those lands were long since p'chased awaye.

To the return of mines and quarries is appended the following note: The prince's highnes hath a speciall p'rogative in North Wales that if there be any quarries of stone in any of his freeholders grounds within his principaly it is the prince's, which apeareth by theis words of records, viz. (then follows an extract from the records in the exchequer of Carnarvon). But how far this prerogative will extend to any other mynes of coale, lead, and iron, I humbly leave to be considered of.

(b) ff. 66-93b. A discourse concerning the principality of Wales; 17 cent.

A copy of Sir John Doddridge's work.

[273] 490.

- ff. 32-37. Copies of correspondence between the earl of Pembroke, lord viscount Mountstuart, lord North and lord Camden concerning the grant of the barony of Cardiff of Cardiff Castle ; 1776.

The point that arose upon the grant of the barony of Cardiff of Cardiff Castle to viscount Mountstuart in 1776 cannot be better stated than by an extract from the first letter in this collection. The earl of Pembroke writes "I am sorry to be under the necessity of interfering with your Lordship in the choice you have made of the barony by which I hear you are to take your seat in the house of peers; but as I am in possession of that barony, the king cannot, I am assured, grant it to another person, nor could I resign it, was I inclined to do so. If, therefore, your lordship claims to sit by that barony, I flatter myself that you cannot blame me, if, in justice to myself and family, I protest against it; and I beg leave to submit it to your consideration whether, in case your present patent is not altered, you may not be forced to have a new one of later date than the present creation." The title remained with viscount Mountstuart, whose descendant the present marquess of Bute is also baron Cardiff of castle Cardiff.

Church Briefs.

This is a collection of letters patent issued under the great seal in accordance with 4 and 5 Anne, c. 14, by virtue of which the indiscriminate begging for the restoration of parish churches and other structures was regulated and brought within bounds. The collection, which was made by Mr. John Stevenson Salt, and obtained by the Museum in 1829, covers only the period 28 Geo. II—8 Geo. IV. The documents are interesting as setting forth the condition of the edifices to which they relate at the under-mentioned dates, and fix the periods when "restorations" were effected. The following list comprises the Welsh briefs. It will be observed that they chiefly concern the diocese of St. Asaph, and the History of that diocese, by the Ven. Archdeacon D. R. Thomas, should be consulted in connexion with them.¹ Mr. W. A. Bewes, whose Church Briefs (London, 1896) is the standard authority upon the subject, observes that "from the middle of the 18th century the only counties of Wales in which the briefs were usually laid were Flint, Radnor and Denbigh, for the reason probably that collection in the other counties was unremunerative" (p. 49).

[285] A. i. 2.

For rebuilding the steeple of the church of Ruthin²; 28 Geo. II.

¹ This method of raising money was shockingly extravagant, as Archdeacon Thomas has already pointed out (History of the Diocese of St. Asaph, 136, note). In 1819 a House of Commons' return was printed of all Briefs issued since Michaelmas, 1805. For the rebuilding of a mill at Llwynymaen, near Oswestry, destroyed by fire in 1814, the loss upon which was estimated at £304 10s. 6d., there was collected £533 os. 10³/₄d. The expenses in obtaining the patent amounted to £103 6s. 5d.; the cost of collection was £326 16s. 8d.; which left only £102 17s. 9³/₄d. for the object of the subscription. A second patent was obtained in 1819, the loss being then estimated at £362 4s. 10¹/₂d. The amount collected was £549 6s. 5³/₄d.; the patent cost £97 16s. 2d., the expenses of collection were £326 19s. 4d., and the net proceeds £124 10s. 11³/₄d. The system of briefs was done away with by 9 Geo. IV, c. 42.

patent issued in the case of Welshpool (see above list) is given in Mont. Coll., xv, 344. It will therefore be unnecessary, as regards Ruthin, to print here the formal portions of the document, but to merely quote the following passages :—

Whereas it hath been humbly represented unto us as well upon the humble petition of the inhabitants of the parish of Ruthin in the county of Denbigh [as] also by certificate under the hands of our trusty and beloved Edward Thelwall and Thomas Price esquires and the reverend Hugh Jones clerk our justices of the peace for the said county of Denbigh assembled at the general quarter sessions of the peace held at Ruthin in and for the said county upon Tuesday the fourteenth day of January in the twenty-eighth year of our reign That the steeple and part of the parish church of Ruthin aforesaid being a very ancient and large structure containing twenty-four feet square on each side and ninety feet in length all built with stone and having a flat roof covered with lead is become so ruinous and dangerous to the lives of the inhabitants notwithstanding they have laid out great sums of money to repair the same the said steeple and part of the said church must be taken down and rebuilt That the truth of the premisses hath been made appear to our said justices in their open sessions of the peace aforesaid not only by the said inhabitants but also upon the oaths of several able and experienced workmen who have carefully viewed the said church and steeple and have made an estimate of the charge of pulling down and rebuilding the said steeple and part of the said church which upon a moderate computation amounts to the sum of One thousand three hundred and twenty pounds and upwards That the said inhabitants are burthened with a numerous poor and their annual charges to maintain them being very great they are not of themselves capable to rebuild the said steeple and part of their said church unless assisted by the charitable contributions of well-disposed christians They have therefore most humbly besought Us to grant unto them our most gracious letters patent, &c. . . . ² The inundations are said to have been occasioned by the overflowing of the rivers Severn and Verniow [Vyrnwy], owing to excessively heavy rains in June, 1781, June, July, and August, 1782, and June, 1783. The damage was estimated at £5,205 14s. 11d.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

THE contents of the Harleian Collection of British Museum manuscripts, so far as they relate to Wales, vary considerably in character and in value, numerically the most important being the heraldic and genealogical collections of Randle Holme and Griffith Hughes for North Wales, and of George Owen and Hugh Thomas for South Wales. The full indexes of the families included in their collections will, it is hoped, enable them to be more easily consulted than they have hitherto been. Of strictly historical manuscripts of early date relating to Wales, the Harleian Collection is singularly deficient. But a capital exception is No. 3859, perhaps the most important single MS. for Welsh history that exists, and one that has been edited to perfection by Mr. Egerton Phillimore in the ninth volume of Y Cymmrodor. No. 3725 is a manuscript written in one of the Welsh religious houses that, although printed many years ago by the Camden Society, has not received the critical attention it deserves from Welsh scholars. No. 696 (and its alternative copy, No. 4776), produced by the old Record Commission under the but half appropriate title of "The Record of Caernarvon", was, so far as its important place- and personal-names are concerned, so inaccurately printed that the Government ought long ago to have been called upon to do it over again. No. 6869, the statutes of the chapter of St. David's, would form a worthy addition to the Cymmrodorion Record Series as a companion volume to its edition of The Black Book of St. David's. No. 6998 is an instance of an unlikely source contributing the most interesting and unexpected information. The notes I have supplied to these and other volumes must not be regarded as in any way exhaustive or definitive ; as a matter of fact they are no more than adumbrations of my own speculations, which are intended to fall upon the ear, and so catch the attention of scholars who, I hope, will work out the hints that alone I am here able to contribute.

ff. 392b-403. Articles of arraignment of Sir John Perrott, 27 April, 1592 ; a transcript of the early 17 cent.

[314] 66.

A volume of early 17 cent. transcripts.

(a) ff. 144, 144b. Charter of the priory of Goldclive (co. Monmouth), 15 Ed. II.

Taken from the patent roll of that year, part 2, dorse. Not in the Monasticon.

(b) f. 146. Grant conferring the title of prince of Wales upon the Black Prince.

Transcribed from the memoranda rolls of the Exchequer, 17 Ed. III, rot. 6. Another transcript made at or about the same time is in Royal MSS. 18. A. lxxvii, ff. 6-7 (which see).

(c) f. 147. Grant of the principality of Wales to the Black Prince.

Taken from the memoranda rolls of the Exchequer, 17 Ed. III, rot. 14.

(d) ff. 154-156b. Charter of creation of Henry, son of James I, as prince of Wales and earl of Chester ; 4 June, 8 James I.

(e) ff. 157-179b. Letters patent conferring the crown lands in Wales upon the prince of Wales, son of James I ; n.d., but probably a few days later than the preceding patent.

Returns of the auditor of the court of Augmentations of the value of the benefices in (England and) Wales in the king's hands ; c. 1540.

Original Documents (issued with Archæologia Cambrensis), i, xxiii. Co. Glamorgan also in Clark, Cartæ, iv, No. 1349; and co. Montgomery in Mont. Coll., vii, 241.

The total net receipts for North and South Wales is £446 6s. 4d.

A volume of Cheshire collections.

(a) f. 34b. Descents from Llewelyn, prince of Wales.

Drawn up by Lawrence Bostock, the Cheshire genealogist, in the 16 cent.

Of no importance.

(b) f. 132. Note of an inquisition taken upon the death of Ann, duchess of Exeter, into her right to the castle of Hope and lordship of Hopedale, 16 Ed. IV (1476); 17 cent.

(c) ff. 195-6. Pleas of the abbot of Basingwerk in a suit relating to the advowson of the church of West Kirkby (co. Chester), A.D. 1286; 17 cent. extract.

See Arch. Camb., 1st Ser., i, 108. Another transcript is in Harleian 2072, f. 18.

(d) ff. 218-222b. An historical account of the lords of Powys; 17 cent.

Said to be taken from a Welsh chronicle, "very bygge, about ij inches thicke, and in 4^o", in the possession of John Manley, of Pulton in the county of Chester, and at his request translated into English.

[317] 141.

(a) ff. 1-27. A treatise entitled "a description of the dominion of Wales (i.e., chiefly as to the rise, authority and government of the lords marchers)" &c.; 17 cent.

A copy of Lansdowne 216, ff. 2-45b (which see). The author was George Owen, the historian of Pembrokeshire.

- (b) ff. 28-85. A dialogue of the present government of Wales, A.D. 1594; 17 cent.

A copy of a tract also by George Owen, the Pembrokeshire historian; included in Mr. Henry Owen's edition of George Owen's writings, ii, 1.

- (c) ff. 86-91*b*. The state of the cause concerning the lord president and council in the marches of Wales; early 17 cent.

A copy of Lansdowne 216, ff. 46-50*b* (which see).

See also Harleian 1220, ff. 82-120*b*. The leaves of this tract have been bound out of order.

Y Cymmrodor, xiv. (Henry Owen).

318] 154.

A volume of pedigrees. Amongst them (f. 47) are those of a few Welsh families, taken from Powell's Historie of Cambria; 18 cent.

- (a) ff. 23-36. The instructions given to Sir Henry Sidney, lord president of the council of the Welsh marches, June, 1574; 17 cent. transcript.

See also Lansdowne 155, f. 222*b*, and Harleian 7020, ff. 221-251.

- (b) ff. 37-46*b*. A treatise written to show that the counties of Gloucester, Hereford, Salop & Worcester are no parcel of Wales, or of the marches of Wales; 17 cent.

A number of interesting points are adduced in connection with the dispute respecting the extent of the jurisdiction of the council of the Marches; at f. 37 reference is made to a writ of quære impedit addressed to the sheriff of Salop against the bishop of St. Asaph (3 Edw. III), and to which the defendant replied "that the church, [? of St. Asaph] was in the marches of Wales where the writ of the king cometh not."

- (c) f. 115*b*. The names of the forts, castles, and seaports in the several counties of the realm; 17 cent.

The Welsh counties are included, but the lists contain no topographical forms of importance.

(d) f. 137*b*. An extract from the instructions issued to the earl of Pembroke, president of the council of the Welsh marches, to see to the defence of the principality, A.D. 1599; 17 cent.

(e) f. 166. An abstract of the trained men in the several counties, A.D. 1588; 17 cent.

Includes (ff. 170*b*-171) the counties of Denbigh, Flint, Carmarthen, Radnor, Anglesey, Montgomery, and Pembroke, the last incomplete.

(f) f. 172*b*. An abstract of the numbers of armed men of every sort in the marches of Wales and the English shires annexed; partly illegible; 17 cent.

(g) f. 173. An abstract of the number of lances and light horse in the various shires for the period 1574-1589; 17 cent.

[320] 200.

f. 141. The descent of Arthur, king of the Britons, from Joseph of Arimathæa.

A paragraph of five lines in a hand of the late 15 cent.

[321] 225.

ff. 3-78. Historia Regum Britanniae: Geoffrey of Monmouth; end 12 cent.

Hardy, Descr. Cat., i, No. 828.

Ward, Cat. of Romances, i, 222.

A few Welsh entries occur.

[323] 245.

f. 162. Genealogy of the family of Fitzhamon.

An extract from the heraldic collections of R. Glover, Somerset Herald (1544-1588), made in the year 1600.

(a) f. 108. The grant of the honour of Brecon to Milo, earl of Hereford.

An English translation of an unspecified document, made in the late 16 or early 17 cent.

(b) f. 187. The rents and services of the tenants of the lordship of Oswaldestre (Oswestry); a transcript of the 16 cent.

A single remaining sheet of a longer account.

[325] 251.

f. 104*b*. Divers tables touching the value and fineness of gold and coin, foreign and English; taken out of the book of Hugh Owen ar., in com. Penbroke, 12 January, 1609.

The author of this short tract was George Owen, the historian of Pembrokehire. The original is in his common-place book, called by him The Taylor's Cushion (part i, p. 28), now in the Cardiff Free Library.

f. 120. The prophecie of Mervey, or Merlin, as found in Holt house in a walle, written in Welch, in gould letters, and translated by Owin Floyde, and brought by John de Kirbye, lord of Holte; which translation is this under-written out of Latyne by me Thomas Gee; 17 cent.

Following the above title is this note: "N.B.—Thomas Gee found this prophecie in Medborne church, in a hole in the altar, written in Latyne, translated by Owin Floyde, scholemaster there."

f. 121 is a note by Sir Simonds D'Ewes concerning the discovery.

Another copy is in Harleian 1576, f. 131*b*.

f. 25*b*. A brief note of the case between Sir Thomas Middleton and Sir John Price; 17 cent. Imperfect.

Extract: The charge is That Sir John Price should leave the house [of Commons] without license and live in the king's quarters, furnish the enimie with the magazine of the county, accept a com'ission for military service from them, be in person with them at a siege of Wem: sitt in the anti-parliament at Oxford, and as is reported kept intelligence with the enemy, being governor of Montgomery castle, to betray the same to them.¹

Names of the sheriffs of the different counties of England, collected from the pipe rolls by the rev. John Allington; temp. James II.

f. 141, co. Monmouth, 32 Hen. VIII to 4 Ch. I. This valuable compilation has been superseded by the List of Sheriffs published by the Public Record Office.

A volume of collections relating chiefly to the county of Chester, made by or for Sir Simonds D'Ewes (1602-1650).

(a) f. 77*b*. The names of the abbots or priors of Basingwerk (co. Flint).

Only one entry: A. abbas temp. Ph'i Orreby, justic[iarius], et Hugonis abbas Cestr.

A Philip de Orreby was justice of Chester in A.D. 1390, but the abbot of Chester at that date was named Henry.

(b) f. 157. A brief statement of all the parishes, preachers, communicants and recusants, certified within the several dioceses of the provinces of Canterbury and York, A.D., 1603.

- (a) f. 153. Letter from the bishop of Bangor (John Capon, 1534-1539) respecting the vexations to which his clergy in the deanery of Dyffryn Clywd were subjected; 20 December, 1537? Original.

Steward. I commende me to you and I will in eny wise that you do repaire to maister Wrythesley upon the sight herof, and to shewe unto hym how one Sir John Vechan prist (whiche somtyme was beneficed in Sowthampton and resigned the same for a small benefice in Diffryncloyd w'thin my dioces of Bangor called Llanechan—I thynke you do knowe the said prist). So it is the said Sir John Vechan obteyned a com'ission of David ap Res and one Vaughan whiche had obteyned a com'ission to viste my dioces autoritate regis, and so the sayd Sir John Vechan by vertu of theyr com'ission dothe visite in Diffryncloyd w'thin my sayd dioces and there doth vex and trowble the clergie. Notw'thandyng that both the sayd David ap Res and Vauchan be clerely inhibited by the l'res of my lord pryvy seale directed in to my dioces, Nev'theles I am credibly informed that the sayd David ap Res and Vauchan dothe repayre towards my lord pryvy seale, and surely doth make theyr avaunte that they will obteyne a new com'ission and so to procede and visite my sayd dioces. And upon this presumption the said Sir John Vechan will not surcease his medlyng and vexyng of my clergie in Diffryncloyd as afforsayd. Wherfor in consideracion that doctor Ellys dyd visite my sayd dioces the last yere immediatly passed autoritate regis, and there levyed upon the clergie xxli ov[er] and besyds gyfts of horses and other pleasures amountyng to the some of other xxli, as by theym of my dioces I am credibly informed. And now yf they shuld happen to be visited agayne thus sodeynly whiche trowble upon trowble myght cawse to growe moche inconvenience amongs theym. The dioces is very pore and nedy, and by theym of the same contrey borne, they ben hyderto and always have bene sore vexed and trowbled. Ffor the nature of a Walshe man is ffor to bere office and to be in autorite. He will not let to ru'ne [run] thorow [through] the fyèr of hell and to sell and geve all that he can make of his owen and of his ffrends for the same, and also they be very tycle of theym sealfs. Thus are thyngs well consydred and wayed. I pray you to info[r]me substancially Maist'r Wrythesley, besechyng hym most hartely to devise a remedy by his discrete wisdom and staye the sayd contrey in a conformite, and for the said ordre and quietnes therein to be had. Thus fayle ye not to do, as my trust is in you. And fare you well. At Hyde, the xxth day of Decembre. Yo'r JOHN BANGOR'.

(a) A collection of miscellaneous papers; 16-17 centt.

The early papers in the volume are lists of persons suspected by reason of their religious opinions, imprisoned priests and recusants. The list at f. 49 of persons convented (? convened) before the commissioners for causes ecclesiastical, who are allowed to remain abroad upon bonds, contains the name of "William Watkyns, of Brecknockshire, in Wales."

Amongst those then in Newgate prison (f. 51) are John Hughes, gent., James Morgan, gent., and Thomas Harrys, but no further particulars are given.

The list at f. 67 of the papists in the diocese of Chester is really a list for the county of Kent.

- (a) f. 1. Certain unreasonable exactions by the clergy of the dioceses of St. Asaph and Bangor; 17 cent.

Here ensueth certayne unreasonable exactyones by custom of long tyme used to be taken of bothe poore and riche by the curates in the dyossyes [dioceses] of St. Asse and Bangor.

It is the custome in the said dyosses that every mane and woman when they shalbe maryed shall yeld unto the curate the xth parte of all their goods, aswell the woman as the man, or else to fyne therefore, and this as often as a man or a woman shall happen to marye. As yf a mane chaunce to bury his wyfe or the woman her husband aboute mydsomer, and then payeth all his tythes belonginge to herveste, as of haye and corne, and then incontynente after herveste happen to marye, bothe the man and woman shall paye the tent[h]s agayne, notw'thandinge their late tyt[h]ynge at herveste. And besydes all this they shall paye a certayne some for their bodyes the daye of their maryage, but who so lyst to lyve in adultery there, his fyne is but ijs. by the yeare to the ordinary, the w'ch causeth matrymonye to be litle sett by and muche refused in those quarters. It is sayd lyke customes to be used in some places in the dyosses of St. Dd. and Landaffe, wherof I am not well assured, but I will dillygently enquire therof, and after enforme yo'r mastershippe in maner as may be justefyed.

Abstracts of the records of inquisitions post mortem in the court of Wards and Liveries, made by Thomas Cole, an officer of the court; 17 cent.

Cole's abstracts relate to the inquisitions post mortem sent into the court of Wards from the Chancery, and are described by Mr. Walter Rye as "very valuable matter" (Records and Record Searching, 88). The entire series comprises Harleian 410, 411, 756, 757, 758, 759 and 760. An index to this collection has been printed by Sir Thomas Phillipps.

Abstracts occur of inquisitions into lands in Wales, and as these are of the highest importance to the genealogist, I have extracted them.

A register of grants and other documents passing the privy seal, the royal signet, or the sign manual during the reigns of Edward V and Richard III; compiled in the latter half of 15 cent.¹

The volume is said by Humphrey Wanley, who catalogued this portion of the Harleian Collection, to have belonged to lord Burghley, having probably been drawn up for an earlier minister of state. Many of the entries are full copies of the instruments; others are mere abstracts. The different deeds are entered upon the patent, close, or other rolls of those reigns, but as these are for the most part unindexed (except the patent rolls for Ed. V and Ric. III, which are calendared in the 9th report of the Deputy Keeper of the Records), the present volume is of value. Additional MS. 11,269 is a transcript of this volume made in the first half of the present century. The following are the entries relating to Wales. Where the instrument is entered upon the patent rolls, I have added the reference to the entry within brackets.

¹ The following are the remarks of Mr. Gairdner upon this volume (Letters and Papers illustrative of the Reigns of Richard III and Henry VII. Edited by James Gairdner (Rolls Series), preface xiv, xv):—"The volume appears to have been a docket book kept by Russell, bishop of Lincoln, of all the letters and documents that passed through his hands in his official capacity as Chancellor during the reigns of Edward V and Richard III. considered as divided into two sections. The larger consists of copies or minutes of formal documents, such as the grants and warrants which passed the Great Seal, the Privy Seal, or the king's Sygnet; the other is a letter book, containing copies of the correspondence of Richard with foreign sovereigns, instructions to ambassadors, proclamations, and other papers relating to affairs of State. . . . The historical importance of such a MS. requires no comment. The volume is well known, and has been often referred to by historical writers, though few of the entries have hitherto been printed entire. It is said to have belonged to the great lord Burleigh; at a later period it was the property of Strype. It is described by Wanley in the Harleian Catalogue at much greater length than any other MS. of the collection. Several of the letters it contains will be found in Rymer, some in Ellis, and other more recent publications. Mr. Nichols has edited for the Camden Society such of its contents as belong to the Reign of Edward V. But many of the most important papers of Richard the Third's time have not been printed till now, some having apparently escaped notice altogether." A few of the entries relating to Wales are included in Mr. Nichols' volume for the Camden Society, but none are given by Mr. Gairdner.

Memoranda, mainly genealogical, relating for the most part to the counties of Chester and Hereford, but with some notes respecting the Welsh borders ; end of 16 cent.

There are a few interesting notes, of which the following appear to be the most important.

f. 3. On the east side of Flint, after the river of Dee, is a small river, and an old cross, which place is called Adecross [Atiscross]. Where in ancient tyme stode a town so named, and now utterly defaced, no ruyn thereof or monument appearing. Flynt is supposed to have byn bylt of the ruines of Adecross, and some think that first it was named Flyt of the said fleting or removing of Adecross.

South east and by south of Potvary on the great hill there is a moniment of a huge trenche, which place is called in Welsh Maes mennon [Maesmynan], and, as some suppose, it hath the etymologie to signifie the court of the prince.

f. 7. Inscriptions and heraldry from the windows of Gresford church.

f. 9. Note of a visit to Wrexham church : In the south syde by the chauncel lye Robert ap Edwards and Margaret his wife, which Robert died a'o 1481, and Margaret a'o 1492¹. Simon ap Meredith, Jenet his wife, and John his sonne, dyed a'o 1494.

¹ Mr. A. Neobard Palmer, in his History of the Parish Church of Wrexham, 185, quoting from Lloyd's Powys Fadog, ii, 121, gives the date of Margaret Edwards' death as 1528.

f. 10b. At Prestene, 1574, August 30. Mr. Nicolas ap Rhise ap Meredith ap Ll'n Du and Richard ap Meredith unkle to the said Nicolas, reported to me, and also the common report there is, that Griffith ap Bedo du which dwelt at Pilleth (in Bryttysh Pylale called) two myle from Prestene toward Mynachty, at the christening of a sonne of his, wold not have the same to be christened (as the manner is) with water; uppon \mathcal{A} prowde stomak caused the water to be voyded out of the font, and filled it with wyne, and so caused his sonne to be therin chrisened. After which it is noted by the cuntry how he and his grew to decay in substance and credit, and his race extinguished. This was told me in the presence of Mr. Jenkin Gwyn and Owyn Gwynnedd.

f. 23. Arms from Gresford church.

f. 24. At Ruabon is one old monument on a hill called the Garden [Y Gaerddin], dubble trenched, which might seeme to have byn a strong castell, and is in Bromfeld.

By Wrexham w'thin a quarter of a myle toward Ruabon, in park glyn, standeth the ruynes of a castell great which somtymes was the chief howse of the prince of Bromfelde.

A little on this side Bangor bridg is an old monument of a castell called Port [Porth] Huggan. It hath byn for defence. This standeth also in Bromfeld.

There is one other monument on the other side the river, abowt a myle above Bangor bridge, called Port [left blank].

Bishops' returns concerning the state of their dioceses; 1563 and 1603.

In the 5th year of Elizabeth, the bishops were directed by the privy council to return answers to certain interrogatories, the precise nature of which we learn from the returns for the diocese of Bangor, where they are set forth at length. The questions were:—

- i. How many shires or counties doth your diocese contain, or into how many doth it extend.
- ii. Into what manner of "regyments" is the same divided. Whether the same be into archdeaconries or deaneries or such like. How many the same be, with their definite names. Who occupy the "rowmes" at this present, and where they [the occupants] are, to your understanding.
- iii. What exempt or peculiar places are there within the circuit of your diocese where you have not full jurisdiction as ordinary, and what are the names thereof, and who hath the ordinary jurisdiction thereof at this present.
- iiii. How many churches are there within every such archdeaconry, deanery or other "regyment" which be parochial. How many of them have parsons, vicars or curates; and where, as the parishes are so large as they have divers chapels of ease which have or ought to have curates or ministers in them, to certify how many be of that sort in every such parish, with the names of the towns or hamlets where the same churches or chapels are situate.

- v. How many householders are within every parish, or within any such member of any parish that hath such churches or chapels of ease.
- vi. Wheresoever any exempt places be within the circuit of your diocese wherein you have no such jurisdiction as you can not presently make sufficient answer to these former articles, her majesty wills that you should in writing copy out so much of the substance of the former articles as shall seem convenient for your purpose, and with speed send to such persons as hath the jurisdiction of those exempt places, or to their deputies.

The returns from the dioceses of St. Asaph and Bangor are in the present volume; those for Llandaff and St. David's are in volume No. 595.

The replies to the fifth interrogatory from St. Asaph and Llandaff, if ever made, are not now with the rest, the omission being probably explained by the difficulty of discovering, with any degree of accuracy in the limited time allowed, the number of householders in each parish. The returns for the dioceses of Bangor and St. David's were also at first submitted without replies to this article, but they were sent back to the respective bishops with directions that the information must be furnished. Accordingly, supplementary returns from those sees accompany the others. These are of the highest importance, as they afford the only reliable data from which the population of the principality at this period may be estimated.¹ Moreover, in the St. Asaph return the names of the clergy are given; in that of Bangor it is only said that the parish is served by a parson, vicar or curate, as the case may be.

The returns are too elaborate to set forth here. It will be observed that they do not follow each other consecutively in point of date. Their order and place in the volume are as follows:—

(a) ff. 1-15. St. Asaph; 1563.

(b) ff. 18-27*b*. Bangor; the supplementary return to article v; 1563.

(c) ff. 29-35*b*. Bangor; the returns to the remaining articles.

(d) f. 37. The certificate of Humphrey Morgan, commissary of the bishop of Bangor, that he had enquired into the number of parishes, communicants, non-communicants, recusants, &c., in the deanery of Arwistli (co. Montgomery); 20 Sept. 1603.

(e) f. 38*b*. The return accompanying the above certificate.

Total number of communicants	...	4,477.
" " non-communicants	...	nil.
" " recusants	nil.

(f) ff. 39*b*-40*b*. A similar return for the archdeaconry of Bangor.

Total number of parishes	37.
" " communicants	...	9,294.
" " non-communicants	...	7.
" " recusants	26. (1)

There are 8 impropriations.

Arthur Williams is returned as holding two benefices, the rectories of Llan Eigan [Engan] and Llan Bedrock.

Humphrey Robinson was holding the rectories of Aber and Llanbedr, and the vicarage of Caerhun.

¹ One man and 3 women in the parish of Llanbedrog, 5 men and 4 women in Llannor, 2 women in Clynnog, 2 women in Llanbeblig, 1 woman in Bangor, 2 women in Llanllechid, 1 woman in Y Gyffin, 2 in Trefrhw [Trefriw] cum capellis de Bettws et Llanrhwhwin, and 4 in Llangelynin. This makes 27.

- (g) f. 42. The certificate of Edmund Meyrick, archdeacon of Bangor, as the bishop's commissary ; 8 Oct. 1603.
- (h) f. 43. The certificate of John Williams, professor of theology, for the deanery of Dyffryn Clwyd and Kymmerch ; 10 Sept. 1603.
- (i) f. 44*b*. The return for the deanery of Dyffryn Clwyd and Kymmerch ; 10 Sept. 1603.

Total number of communicants	...	4,909
„ non-communicants		2 (women). ¹
„ recusants	...	10 (4 men and 6 women). ²

John Williams, D.D., is returned as a "double-beneficed man", holding Llanfwrog and Llanfair, "being qualified by his degree of doctorship".

Robert Morgan, M.A., holds the rectories of Llangynhafal and Llanbedr.

David Gwyn, M.A., holds the rectories of Clocaenog and Llanychan.

The above are additions to the lists of incumbents in Thomas's St. Asaph.

Bishops' returns of the state of their dioceses ; 1563 and 1603.

- (a) ff. 1-8*b*. Llandaff ; 1603.

Clark, Cartæ, iv, No. 1383, co. Glamorgan entries only. It is surprising that Mr. Clark did not print the infinitely more interesting document that immediately follows this one.

The bishop's certificate, dated 18 Dec. 1603, still bears a fragment of the episcopal seal.

- (b) ff. 10-17*b*. Llandaff ; 1563.

To article v, respecting the number of householders in each parish (see remarks upon the preceding volume), the reply is— "it is so greate a matter, and of suche difficultie, and the tyme so shorte that I nor my officers are able to certyfye yo'r honors therof w'thout conferens hadd w'th the p'sons, vicars, curats and some honest men of ev'y paryshe or hamlete."

¹ One in the parish of Llanynys, and 1 in the parish of Llanfair.

² One woman in the parish of Ruthin, 1 woman in Llanrhaiadr, 1 man in Llanelidan, 1 man in Llanynys, 2 men and 2 women in Llanfair, 2 women in Llangynhafal.

(g) ff. 79-92. Return of the state of the diocese of St. David's; 1563.

Article v is answered as follows: "The fyfte article, that is howe many household[er]s are w'thin ev'y p'ishe, etc., is not possible to be answered unto at this tyme for that it requireth both a longere tyme and also painfull inquisi'ons and diligent co'sultaco'ns w'th the p'son, vicare or curate of ev'y p'ishe, whiche cannot be donne so shortly as I am required t'ansvere, as I doubte not but yt y'r hono'rs dothe well considere and weyghe."

However, the bishop, like his learned brother of Bangor, was again called upon to furnish the desired information, and at f. 84 commences a list of the parishes in the diocese arranged under archdeaconries and deaneries, with the number of householders set against each. This list is more perfect than the first, as it shows separately the parishes that were annexed to others. The totals for the diocese are:—

[There is no reference to this family in Clark's Genealogies of Glamorgan, but in the same writer's account of the parish of Llancarvan (Arch. Camb., 3rd Ser., xii, 1) an abstract of a deed is given which shows that the grange of Llanveithin had departed from the family of Griffith of Penmark (Clark, Genealogies, 146), having been purchased by Hugh Sandford, of Wilton [co. Wilts], probably the Hugh of the above pedigree. Llanveithin afterwards passed to a branch of the Bassetts, but the history of the transfer was unknown to Mr. Clark.]

Edward, aet. 7 ann.

[Mr. Clark's pedigree of the Lewises of Van (Genealogies of Glamorgan, 44-53) agrees with the above marriages and descents, but, strangely enough, after correctly giving the date of the death of Sir Edward Lewis as 10 Oct. 1630, and that of his wife, Anne, as 25 Sep. 1664, he adds "they had: 1. Edward, b. 1669, died 1670". The above inquisition shows Edward to have been 7 years old in 1630, and therefore to have been born in 1623; the error has been caused by confusing the second and third Edward's of the above table.]

Thes were not litigitimate, but begotten on Jane Orewell, his concubine, as it soe appears by the inquisition and will.¹

f. 177; lands in Trewerne and Burgedinge, pasture in Gwern Trewerne and Keven y coed.

¹ This will is set forth at length in Mont. Coll., i, 348 (taken from Testamenta Vetusta by Nicholas, itself drawn from other authorities, which are mentioned). An excellent account is also given in the same article of the disputes which arose concerning the barony of Powys. The inq. p. m. of the 18 Feb. 3 & 4 P. & M. is referred to and quoted from by John Kynaston, one of the claimants (Mont. Coll., i, 375). Lewis Dwn (Visitation, i, 301) mentions six children of Edward Grey by Jane Orwell, and Burke (Extinct Peerage) gives four, but both are manifestly wrong, as this pedigree from the public records for the first time makes clear.

[Pendabad does not appear in the index to the volume, but three other names, Pennyvell, Llanganie and Llysdynmaell, are indexed as relating to this inquisition, though they are not mentioned in the abstract itself. Pennyvell, without doubt, stands for Penyfed, one of the townships of the parish of Llangwm; and a document in Eyton's Shropshire, quoted in Thomas's Hist. of the Dioc. of St. Asaph, 554, mentions a church of Llangaenia. Townan appears in the manuscript Extent of the lordship of Denbigh, A.D. 1335 (Harleian 3632), as Tuennan, and a place within the same vill is called Pentarader.]

f. 22. The names of the abbeys and priories in [England and] Wales whose heads were summoned to Parliament, and the dates when they were first summoned; end of 16 or commencement of 17 cent.

Only one Welsh entry, that of Basingwerk abbey— 1 Ed. II.¹

¹ The abbot of Basingwerk was summoned to the celebrated parliament of 1295, and upon several other occasions prior to 1 Ed. II.

[387] 781.

A register of petitions to king Charles I, while prince of Wales, from 14 Nov. 1617 to 20 Feb. 1624-5.

A volume of abstracts of petitions presented to the chancery of the prince of Wales, or to the commissioners of his revenues. They relate to divers matters. A few entries of Welsh petitions occur, but as the volume is unindexed they are difficult to meet with, and the results are not commensurate with the trouble involved in the search.

On f. 3*b* is a petition from the burgesses of Holt, co. Denbigh, complaining of the "usurpation" of two fairs by the neighbouring town of Farndon.

On f. 9 is the following entry of a petition from Robert Win ap Thomas :—That whereas the towne of Dolbenmen in Wales was leased unto one Blowfield to his use, and to assign the same to several tenants for 31 years, who refuseth to assign unto the petitioner his part, according to the letters patent; he prayeth that a suit which hath been started in the Exchequer may receive a speedy end, and that he may be allowed to have some of the tenants examined as witnesses. The order, which is dated St. James's, 13 May, 1618, is that the Chancellor and Commissioners shall take such order therein as they shall think fit.

f. 87. A few genealogical notes concerning the different tenants of the castle of Denbigh from Henry de Lacy to the reign of King Ed. IV; 17 cent.

A tract written by or for Ralph Brooke, York herald (1553-1625). Of no value.

[389] 785.

(a) ff. 83-85*b*. Proceedings de quo warranto against the prior of the hospital of St. John of Jerusalem respecting the lands of the order in Wales.

(b) f. 86. Placita de quo warranto against the burgesses of the town of Crukyng [Criccieth, co. Carnarvon].

(c) f. 87. Charter of Edward, prince of Wales, to the town of Newborough (co. Anglesey), 31 Ed. I.

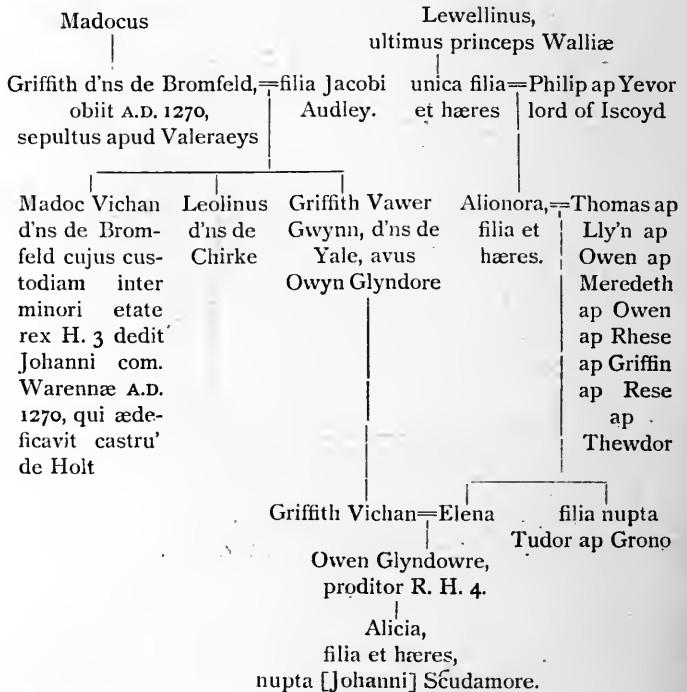

17 cent. transcripts, possibly taken from Harleian 696 (which see). They will be found amongst the pleas contained in the volume printed by the Record Commissioners under the title of The Record of Caernarvon, at pp. 295, 195, and 177, respectively.

A volume of pedigrees compiled by R. Glover, Somerset herald ; 16 cent.

f. 94^b. The descent of Alice, daughter of Owen Glendower.

As this pedigree differs from the unsatisfactory table and still more unsatisfactory explanations given in Ashton's Gweithian Iolo Goch, 155, I append it:—

[391] 829.

(a) f. 111. The general musters taken throughout [England and] Wales; temp. Eliz. or James I.

(b) f. 113. The number of parish churches in every county of [England and] Wales; temp. Eliz. or James I.

The details for Wales are given under the several dioceses,¹ as follows:—

St. David's	850.
Llandaff	160.
St. Asaph	177.
Bangor	92.

[392] 838.

(a) ff. 92-93*b*. Prophecies of Merlin; early 16 cent. Imperfect.

Ward, Cat. of Romances, i, 302.

(b) ff. 96-114*b*. Chronicon Cambriæ; late 14 or early 15 cent.

Hardy, Descr. Cat., iii, No. 396.

A copy of Ms. B. of the Annales Cambriæ (Rolls ed.)

(c) ff. 114*b*-117*b*. Chronicon Cambriæ.

A transcript of the chronicle attached to the volume known as the Exchequer Domesday (see Cotton, Claudius C. iv, ff. 258-258*b*), in the same hand as the preceding article, which it follows without break. The original has been edited by the Rev. J. Longueville Jones in Arch. Camb., 3rd Ser., viii, 272.

Hardy, Descr. Cat., iii, No. 467.

ff. 42-48*b*. The Statutum Walliæ; a transcript of the late 14 cent.

¹ In the report by the Historical MSS. Commissioners upon the manuscripts of Lord Montagu of Beaulieu a document is calendared (p. 84) which is evidently either a duplicate or copy of the one described above. The number of the churches in the dioceses of Llandaff, St. Asaph and Bangor are the same in both lists, but the Commissioners' Report shows the figures for St. David's as 85. Both 85 and 850 must be wrong.

[394] 862.

A collection of instruments issued under the canon law ; originals and transcripts ; various dates.

- (a) ff. 78*b*-79*b*. Two documents relating to a tithe dispute between the provost of the collegiate church of St. Kebi [Holyhead, co. Anglesey], in the diocese of Bangor, and David ap Cynwrig, A.D. 1420.

A transcript of the 15 cent. from the registers of the consistory court of Canterbury.

- (b) f. 209. The bill in the cause of Gervase, bishop of Bangor (1366-1370), against the executors of Thomas de Ringstede, his predecessor in the see, temp. Ed. III.

A 15 cent. transcript, in the same hand as the former article, and probably drawn from the same source.

[395] 891.

Pedigrees ; a collection by Ralph Brooke, York herald ; end of 16 or beginning of 17 cent..

At f. 43*b* is a pedigree of the Mansell family ; at f. 48*b* the family of Gwyn of Llansannor ; and at ff. 50*b*, 51, are descents from Brochwel Ysgythrog, Rhys ap Tewdor and Elystan Glodrudd of the families of Hoby and Price of Badlond : Lewis Dwn appears in the course of these descents.

A volume of the journal of Richard Symonds (1617-1692) ; 1645.

The writer was of the royalist party, and was engaged in many of the military operations of the civil war. His journal, which (in order of chronology) is contained in Additional MSS. 17062, Harleian 939, 911 (the present volume) and 944, has been edited for the Camden Society by Mr. C. E. Long. It is a contemporary document of great value upon the details of the struggle between the king and the parliament. Symonds was with the army on the eastern borders of Wales, and was also in garrison at various royalist strongholds in North Wales. Being possessed of antiquarian tastes he has jotted down many interesting notes relating to the places he visited ; these are sometimes accompanied by rough drawings of the highest interest and value, which have not been reproduced in the Camden Society's volume.

ff. 209-221. Excerpts from Giraldus Cambrensis' Itinerary and Description of Wales; 15 cent.

[398] 944.

Another volume of the journals of Richard Symonds (see No. 911).

[399] 955.

- (d) f. 128. An English translation of the letters patent granting the lordship of Dyffryn Clwyd (co. Denbigh), to William Chiffinch, 10 Aug., 28 Chas. II.

The following clause gives interesting particulars respecting the devolution of the lordship: "Whereas our late grandfather king James of famous memory by his Indenture or letters patent under the great seal of England and the seal of the duchy and the seal of the county palatine of Lancaster bearing date the 10th day of January in the 14th year of his reign Did demise and grant unto Sir Francis Bacon knt., Sir John Dacombe knt., Thomas Murray esq., Sir James Fullerton, knt., John Walter and Thomas Trevor esqrs., the lordship of Diffriinclloyd cum Ruthin vill' with the appurtenances in the county of Denbigh for 99 years from Michaelmas before the date of the said letters patent In trust for our late dear father of blessed memory king Charles the First being then prince of Wales Which said lordship and premises by mesne assignments became afterwards vested in Thomas lord viscount Savage, Francis, lord Cottington, Sir Francis Crane, knt., Sir Thomas Trevor, knt., Sir Walter Pye, knt. and Sir John Banks, knt., upon the trust aforesaid for the remainder of the said 99 years And whereas the said Thomas viscount Savage, Francis, lord Cottington, Sir Francis Crane, Sir Thomas Trevor, Sir Walter Pye and Sir John Bankes, by their Indenture bearing date the 20th day of June 1634 assigned the premises to Sir Edward Baesh and John Beauchampe their executors and assigns for the residue of the said term of 99 years then to come and unexpired at and under the yearly rent of £243 8s. 2½*d.* payable at Michaelmas and Ladyday by equal portions the reversion of which said premises was afterwards by letters patents of our said dear father dated the 27th. of November in the said year of our Lord 1634 granted unto Sir Francis Crane, knt., and Richard Crane, esq., their heirs and assigns for ever under the said yearly rent of £243 8s. 2½*d.* payable to our said late dear father his heirs and successors from and after the expiration of the said term of 99 years at Michaelmas and our Ladyday by even and equal portions the first payment to be made at such of the said feasts as should next happen after the end of the said term which premises were afterwards by virtue of a writ of extendi facias issued out of our exchequer seized into our hands for non-payment of the said rent And Whereas our trusty and wellbeloved servant William Chiffinch, esq., hath humbly besought us that we would be graciously pleased to grant unto him the said several and respective rents in consideration of his many good and faithful services done to us which we being willing to condescend unto Now Know ye that we of our especial grace certain knowledge and mere motion for the considerations aforesaid have given and granted and by these presents for us our heirs and successors do give and grant unto the said William Chiffinch the said several and respective rents of £243 8s. 2½*d.*," &c.

Liber Niger de Wigmore; early 14 cent.

This well-known volume, though in the main intended as a press-list to the deeds and evidences of the abbey of Wigmore, contains full copies of many of the documents. These are arranged according to the particular abbatial properties to which they relate, and as the convent had estates in Wales—in Chirkland, the commotes of Gwarthreinion and Maelienydd, in Kerry (co. Montgomery), and at Usk, as well as, of course, at other places along the Welsh border, a number of the documents have direct relation to Wales. The Chirkland entries are at ff. 49-50*b*, and those connected with Gwarthreinion and Maelienydd at ff. 57-59*b*. The first entry in this section is the transcript of a release by Llewelyn ap Griffith ap Llewelyn,¹ quondam princeps North Walliæ, to Ralph Mortimer and Gladusa his wife, of all his lands in those commotes. The witnesses are John Lestrange, Walter de Clifford, Thomas Corbet, Brian de Brompton, Henry de Mortimer, Philip de Mortimer, Ralph de Araco, Godred fil. regis Manniæ, Tudor ap Madoc, Kynwrick Seys, Eygnon ap Cradoc et multis aliis. The deeds of the Kerry, Cedewen and Cwmdauddwr estates come at ff. 67-68*b*; those relating to Presteign at ff. 69*b*, 70; those relating to Elvael, Uwchmynydd and Builth at ff. 71-72; and those relating to Usk at ff. 86-89.

A release (at f. 57) by Llewelyn ap Griffith ap Llewelyn to Roger de Mortimer, consanguineo nostro, of lands called Keuenarayloyd are thus delimited, "a loco illo ubi nant glascum cadit in Woyam usque ad capud [?] eiusdem rivuli Et de Blaynglascum per Keuenforth Keuenarayloyd usque ad fossa ubi occidebatur Guyn ap Keuhelin Et de eadem fossa [?] directe descendendo usque Cinlas Et de Cinlas usque Teleuh Et de Teleuh sursum usque Reydgorn ubi escop cadit In Teleuh et sic per Escop usque Aberwenbran."²

² The lands here described are situated in the parish of St. Harmon, co. Radnor, and possibly extend over the border into the parish of Llangurig in the neighbouring county of Montgomery. Bryn Cenarth (which I take it represents the Keuenforth of the charter) and Cefn-r-ailwd are so marked upon the old one-inch ordnance sheet; Glascwm is several hundred yards within the parish of Llangurig; the river Tylwch is a tributary of the Dulas, which itself falls into the Severn. "Cinlas," "Reydgorn," "Escop" and

f. 109. Heraldic notes from Oswestry church.

"Note, there were in the church of Oswestrie, an'o 1584, seav'all coates in the windowes and elsewhere, though nowe defact [defaced], wherof these three the owners named." Rough drawings of four coats of arms follow, together with this note: "Note, that one Richard Stanney, the elder, and Jonett his wife, daughter to Howell Draper, were owners of these three coates [specified], beinge then there named." The fourth coat is said to be that of John Draper, mercer.

The Statute Book of the see of St. David's: a late 17 or early 18 century transcript.

This transcript has been so poorly executed that it cannot with confidence be used for the forms of place and personal names which it contains. As its original, however, is not known to be in existence, its value, as a record of capitular acta, is considerable;

"Aberwenbran" I cannot trace. The Rev. Jonathan Williams, in his History of Radnorshire, 239, (Arch. Camb., 2nd Ser., iv, 547), writing of the parish of St. Harmon, observes: "On the moor which divides the parishes of St. Harmon and Llangurig, or that separates the county of Montgomery from that of Radnor, was slain in one of those bloody and violent commotions which too often agitated the ancient inhabitants of Wales, and contributed to ruin the country and destroy its independence, Gwynne, the brave son of Llywelyn ab Iorwerth, prince of North Wales." The reverend gentleman was, no doubt, echoing popular tradition, as Gwyn, son of Llywelyn ap Iorwerth, is not otherwise known to the historian. The above entry, however, proves the value of tradition in the remote districts of Wales, and at the same time, affords an instance of the care with which it should be accepted. It was, of course, historically known that Llewelyn ap Iorwerth had been connected with the parish of St. Harmon. Cuhelyn was sufficiently like Llewelyn in sound to admit of easy transference, and so, for St. Harmon (since the relationship does not seem to have been generally accepted), prince Llewelyn ap Iorwerth was provided with an otherwise unknown son, Gwyn. The charter of Llewelyn's grandson (which is dated Radeneure, on the day of St. Dionysius, 9 Ed. I) settles the matter.

more especially, since a copy in possession of the dean and chapter is almost, if not quite, as recent in date (Jones and Freeman, The History and Antiquities of St. David's, pref., x). Its contents have been fully recorded by Wanley, and his account is considered to be sufficient for the purposes for which the volume is likely to be consulted. It has therefore been adopted, with a few alterations.

At the commencement of the volume are two notes, the first of which, addressed "To Mr. Wanley, library keeper to the most hon'ble the Lord High Treasurer [Harley]," runs as follows: "Sir, my lord treasurer having been pleas'd to tell me I might call to you for the Statutes of the see of St. David's now in his lordship's library, I desire you will deliver it to the bearer the bishop of St. David's servant, and I will take care to have it return'd. I am, Sir, your most obed't servant, E. Lewis. Whitehall, Jun. 11, 1714." Beneath is written, "Delivered 67. C, 14 [the number of the volume when in the Harley library] accordingly to John Gomery, servant to the bishop of St. David's, this 12th day of June 1714." The second communication is as follows: "Queen's Street, Westm'r, June 25th, 1729. My Lord, I return your lordship abundance of thanks for the favour of your Statutes of St. David's; which I would have sent back before now, if my cause, depending in the court of Arches in order to oblige the canons of St. David's to residence, had been brought sooner to some determination. That cause is now very near its decision; and therefore I repeat my humble thanks, and am, my Lord, your lordship's most obedient humble servant, RIC. ST. DAVID'S. P.S.—Y'r lordship will please to order that the note under my hand which I gave upon the receipt of your book, be returned. (Addressed) To the right honourable the earl of Oxford in Dover Street."

- (a) f. 22. Grant of arms made to Sir Henry Williams of Gwernevet in com. Brecon, by Sir William Segar, garter king at arms, 12 May 1627.

Granted by way of difference, and to distinguish the gentleman and his posterity from other families issuing from the same common stock [i.e. Einion Sais].

- (b) f. 24. Grant of arms (upon the like occasion) to Sir Thomas Price of Brecknock by Sir Richard St. George, clarenceux, 20 June 1632.

- (c) f. 25. Grant of arms and crest to Jeffrey Jeffreys of Abercunrick, co. Brecon, by Sir Richard St. George, clarenceux, 13 Dec. 1632.

[431] 1309.

Claims in respect of services to be performed at the coronation of Richard II; vellum; 17 cent.

f. 11. The claims of John, son and heir to John de Hastings, late earl of Pembroke, viz., to bear the great gilt spurs before the king; and in right of the castle and town of Pembroke, the castle and town of Tenby, &c., to bear the second sword before the king.

Reports of trials in the court of Star Chamber, and in the court of King's Bench ; Eliz.—Chas. I.

A Welsh appeal of murder, Dorothy Sentler v. Price (King's Bench, Trinity term, 7 Chas. I), is reported at f. 56. The prosecutor brought an appeal de mort sans baron in the neighbouring English county. The prisoner appealed on the ground that as the crime was committed in Wales it could not be brought to trial in England. Counsel's arguments are given, in the course of which a number of cases on the validity of the king's writs in parts of Wales are quoted.

f. 163. Arms of Lloyd of Brecknockshire ; 17 cent.

[434] 1370.

(a) Coats of Arms of different Welsh families ; 17 cent.

A copy of vol. 1143 (ante). Of the portion commencing at f. 80, Wanley says: This Tract is somewhat different from that at the end of MS. 1143 [at f. 28], but that containeth much more than this [the present MS. is incomplete].

(b) f. 88. The arms of David Powell of Penkelly, co. Carnarvon ; 17 cent.

In trick by John Withie ; co. Carnarvon should be co. Brecon, unless Pwllheli is meant.

ff. 27-33. Arms of the founders of Welsh Families ; 17 cent.

Wanley says that as few of the arms had the names of their bearers written against them, he had supplied the deficiencies from MS. 1143, where they are put down in colours, but in a different order. This collection, though imperfect, contains the arms of many families that are not in MS. 1143.

Pedigrees ; early 17 cent.

- (a) f. 56*b*. Descent of de Braos, lord of Gower and Brecknock, with the matches of two of his co-heirs to Moubray and Mortimer.
- (b) ff. 121, 121*b*. Descents of the early kings and princes of Wales.

Heraldic ; late 16 or early 17 cent.

- (a) f. 16. Arms of Williams of Wales.
- (b) f. 31. Arms of Morgan, painted on vellum.

Pedigrees ; early 17 cent.

- (a) ff. 1-6*b*, 57. The pedigree of Grey, lord Powys.
Two tables, one showing the descent from Cadwaladr, the other from Owen Cyfeiliog.
- (b) ff. 124*b*-126. Descents from Caradoc Vraichvras, Milo earl of Hereford, Gwyn vara Dyvoa [Gwynfardd Dyfed], Rees ap Tewdwr, and Jestyn ap Gurgh [Gwrgant], with arms.
Seem to be the beginning of some pedigree copied by John Saunders.
- (c) f. 135*b*. Arms of Sir John Vaughan.
With quarterings, as set forth at his funeral A.D. 1674, with collections from his pedigree (shewing to whom each of the said quarterings belonged) as the same was made for Mr. Jevan Vaughan of Comvoddion, by John Moythey [Sion Mawddwy] A.D. 1615.
- (d) ff. 136*b*-138*b*. Pedigree of the family of Stedman.
Derived from Calcarba, duke of Arabia, and set forth with arms and Welsh descents, A.D. 1628.

[439] 1417.

Pedigrees ; early 17 cent.

(a) ff. 12-13*b*. John Gray, lord Powys, from Cadwalladr, with notes.

(b) f. 55*b*. The Vaughans of Gower.

ff. 43*b*-54*b*. Of the kings and princes of Wales from Idwal to Llewelyn ap Gruffudd ; Latin. Early 17 cent.

Historical memoranda of no value; the arms in some cases inserted in trick.

[441] 1422.

A splendid collection of coats and crests ; early 17 cent.

f. 128*b*. Morgan.

Heraldic ; 17 cent.

(a) ff. 14-38*b*. The arms of the Welsh Gentry.

Much as in vol. 1143, but not in the same order. That copy is much older than this, but this is better written, and much better painted: moreover, the arms in this copy are all expressed in blazon (Wanley).

(b) f. 39. Arms in trick of some Welsh families, with their crests.

Griffith of Cardigan.

Meirick of Pembrokeshire, reader to the Middle Temple, 1641.

Owen Hughes [Beaumaris].

Vaughan.

Captain Meirick.

(c) f. 163*b*. Arms of Morgan of co. Monmouth, in trick.

[443] 1453.

Pedigrees ; for the most part tricked and written by Nicholas Charles, Lancaster Herald ; early 17 cent.

f. 61*b*. The arms of Sir John Perrott.

Heraldic ; a 17 cent. collection.

(a) f. 129. Confirmation of arms and crest unto Roger Williams of Langbie-castell [Llangibby castle] co. Monmouth, by Robert Cooke, clarenceux, dated 16 March 1575.

The trick of the achievement is omitted.

(b) f. 130. Grant of arms and crest unto William Thomas of Llanthomas, co. Brecon, by William Hawley, clarenceux, dated 1 Feb., 6 Edw. VI.

The trick of the achievement is omitted. Another copy is in Harl. 1507, f. 435, where the year is given as the 5th Edw. VI.

f. 91*b*. Abstract of a grant by king Henry VII to the chantry in the house of Grey Friars of Carmarthen, in Wales, of eight pounds per annum out of the revenues of St. Peter's, Westminster, for daily mass and perpetual anniversary to be kept for the soul of Edmund, earl of Richmond, the King's father, whose body lieth there buried ; 19 Hen. VII.

The volume containing this memorandum is a notable example of the period, and Wanley's account of it and its contents should be read.

[446] 1499.

Pedigrees ; early 17 cent.

f. 239*b*. Descents of the lords of Powys, from Cadwallader.

[447] 1500.

Pedigrees ; early 17 cent.

- (a) ff. 32*b*, 33. The pedigre and ofspringes of Ideo surnamed Wylt, lord of Lliwel [co. Brecon], and second sonne to Sutrick of Wigley head kinge of Diving [Dublin] and the best part of Ireland.

The title continues: "And how that David Pres ap William of the Lower Rydodin is descended from the same Ideo, and from many other auncient and noble houses of the Brytys race ; as this pedigree mencioneth, sett forth by me Thomas Jones. Finished at Fountayn-gatte, the last of June 1593."

To the entry of this article in the printed Harleian catalogue, of which the above is a copy, Wanley, the compiler, makes the following note:—"I have heard that this Jones of Fountayn-gatte was in his time a notable forger of Welsh pedigrees", an observation that is warranted by the above concoction.

- (b) ff. 49*b*, 50. The pedigree and achievement of Cadwalader Gwynne ap Hugh ap Owen of Kelmot [Celynog] in the parish of Lann-raydor, and county of Montgomerie ; drawn by Rees Cain of the town of Oswestry, anno 1602. Together with the pedigree of his wife Jane, daughter of John ap William.

Wanley adds: "These large descents are copied by Mr. Sampson Lennard [blue mantle]; and have received some damage by mice."

[448] 1506.

Heraldic ; late 16 or early 17 cent.

- ff. 1-8. The arms of Brute, Camber, Bellinus, Uterpendragon, Arthur, Cadwallader, &c., painted or tricked perhaps by Sylvanus Morgan, the painter-stainer.

Worthless.

[449] 1507.

Heraldic: a miscellaneous collection; 17 cent.

- (a) ff. 180*b*-181*b*. Alteration of the arms of Hugh Midleton of London, goldsmith.

The title continues: "Whom the king had made a baronet for these following reasons and considerations. 1.—For bringing to the city of London with excessive charge and greater difficulty, a new cutt or river of fresh water, to the great benefit and inestimable preservation thereof. 2.—For gaining a very great and spacious quantity of land in Brading Haven in the Isle of Wight out of the bowells of the sea; and with bankes and pyles and most strange defensible and chargeable mountaines, fortifying the same against the violence and fury of the waves. 3.—For finding out, with a fortunate and prosperous skill, exceeding industry, and no small charge, in the county of Cardigan, a royal and rich mine, from whence he hath extracted many silver plates which have been coined in the Tower of London for current money of England. By William Camden, clarenceux; dated, 1 November 1622."

- (b) f. 207. Grant of arms and crest unto William Thomas of Llan-thomas in the county of Brecknock, gent., by Thomas Hawley, clarenceux, dated 1 Feb., 5 Edw. VI.

[450] 1510.

- f. 31. Copy of a letter of the Lords Commissioners for Prizes to lord Bulkeley; 5 March 1665.

Concerning a French ship put into the port of Beaumaris (co. Anglesey), and seized by his lordship as a prize.

[451] 1576.

A miscellaneous collection of transcripts.

- (a) f. 131*b*. The prophecy of Mervey, or Merlin, found in Holt house in a wall, written in Welsh in gold letters, and translated by Owin Lloyd, and brought by John de Kerby, lord of Holt; 17 cent. copy.

See Harleian 252, f. 120.

- (b) ff. 214-219. Arguments in the cause respecting the jurisdiction of the council of the marches over the four shires of Gloucester, Hereford, Salop and Worcester; 17 cent. transcript.

Other copies are in Harl. 1853, and Harl. 6797.

[452] 1590.

A legal common-place book ; early 17 cent.

Under the heading of 'Wales', at f. 205, are a number of references to statutory enactments relating to the Principality from 12 Ed. I to 27 Eliz. c. 9.

ff. 1-42*b*. Chanson de Brut ; 13 cent.

This MS. consists of detached fragments of a metrical translation of Geoffrey of Monmouth; but seemingly with occasional additions (Hardy, Cat., i, No. 837).

Ward, Cat. of Romances, i, 272.

Liber Pacis, anno 1625.

Includes (ff. 87-104) the Welsh justices of the peace.

Harleian 1933 (which see) contains a list of the Welsh justices in 1620.

An English-Welsh Dictionary ; early 17 cent.

A volume described by Wanley as follows : A book in fol. being the autographon of the author, who prefixed a title thereunto, before he had finished the work he undertook ; over which he afterward pasted another leaf wherein the same title is set forth in print, viz.—

A Dictionarie in English and Brittish, commonly called the Welsh tongue; very necessary for all such Englishmen as doe inhabite the confines of Wales, or such as have any commerce with the people of that country, or cary any affection to that language, &c. Whereunto is added a little Treatise of the true and naturall sound of the letters in the Brittish tongue, and of the meanes how an Englishman may come to the right pronunciation of them. Gathered together by Richard Lloyd, parson of Stoke-Newington in Middlesex, &c.

Wanley adds: The Dictionary is incomplete; and the other Treatise (if he ever wrote on the subject) is not here.

The work, which has no original value, is based mainly upon Salesbury's Dictionary and the Welsh translations of the Scriptures. A large number of the English words after the letter L have no Welsh equivalents. A biographical notice of the author is in the Dict. Nat. Biog., but no mention is made of this work, nor of his incumbency of Stoke Newington.

ff. 303-312*b*. Descriptio Cambriæ: Giraldus Cambrensis; late 16 cent.

Hardy, Descr. Cat., ii, No. 610.

The pedigree of Oliver Cromwell, derived from Adam through the British kings of Geoffrey of Monmouth to his father Robert Williams alias Cromwell; 17 cent.

Wanley rightly describes this as "fabulous," and adds: "This pedigree is, in one respect, modester than some other Welsh pedigrees that I have seen; for it goes no higher than Adam."

[459] 1791 (bound with 1789).

A list of the knights, citizens and burgesses elected to the parliament of 1701; 18 cent.

[460] 1796.

(a) f. 1. A note by Nicholson, bishop of Carlisle, of five copies of the Welsh laws contained in the (British Museum) Cottonian collection; end of 17 or commencement of 18 cent.

Unimportant.

(b) ff. 1-39. The Laws of Wales: Latin; 13 cent. Imperfect.

The third Latin MS. in Owen's edition of the Laws and Institutes of Wales.

On p. 40 is—istu' libru' Tho. Powel Joa'ni Da. Rhæso Med. doctori dono dedit mense Augusto 1600.

A volume of transcripts made by John Burrus, keeper of the records in the Tower of London ; 18 cent.

[468] 1867.

A volume formerly belonging to the Rev. Moses Williams. and by him given to the earl of Oxford.

(a) f. 1. A copy of a letter of Edward Lhuyd to Nathaniel Lloyd, LL.D., 29 Nov. 1708; Latin.

On points of natural history.

(b) ff. 59-130. A collection of Welsh Proverbs, with Latin equivalents, in the handwriting of Dr. Davies, Mallwyd; 16 cent.

Wanley observes: "This collection is not only larger than that which he printed; but also far exceedeth that in this library inscribed No. 541, which he wrote with his own hand and sent to Sir Simonds D'Ewes, from Malloyd in Merionethshire, A.D. 1640."

Following this are a few more proverbs by Dr. Davies, and short pieces such as "câs ddynion selyf ddoeth", "y pedair camp ar hugain", and the like.

(c) f. 135. Some additional Proverbs, Welsh-Latin; written by Mr. Edward Lhuyd.

(d) ff. 136b-137. Some other Welsh Proverbs, phrases and notes.

Collected by the Rev. Samuel Williams, rector of Llangynllo, co. Cardigan, father to Mr. Moses Williams, apparently taken from a MS. known as Y Casgliad Didrefn or (as it is called here) y Didrefnyn, now the property of Sir John Williams, Bart.

A miscellaneous collection.

f. 30*b*. A statement of the forces mustered in A.D. 1591.

The total number of men available from Wales is 23,296.

A note written on the leaf upside down.

[470] 1884.

A volume of docketts of the several grants that passed the royal signet from June to Nov. 1660.

Entries of a few Welsh grants occur. One (on f. 38*b*) is "the Office of governo'r of the ffort and garrison of Hollyhead in the island of Anglesey granted to S'r John Carter during his mat'ies pleasure".

[471] 1898.

A volume of papers mainly relating to fiscal matters; 17 cent.

(a) f. 7. An account of the public revenue in the several counties of [England and] Wales.

The charge and discharge of the Welsh counties are as follows (f. 13*b*; a second copy commences, for the Welsh counties, at f. 22*b*):—

		Charge.			Discharge.

The year to which the return relates is not stated, but it apparently applies to the close of the 17th cent.

- (b) ff. 110-116. A certificate of the public revenue arising from the principality of Wales in the year 1689, with the charges thereon.

This is a most elaborate statement, showing under each county the Crown revenue arising therefrom, particulars being given of every item of receipt, the names of the tenants or fermors; and, on the other hand, the discharges of the several sheriffs. The return is an exceedingly valuable one.

At f. 116*b* is a rough draft of the same particulars for co. Radnor.

The collection of the Randle Holme family, of Chester.

The Dict. Nat. Biog. contains notices of four generations of Randle Holmes, viz., R. H. I (1571-1655); sheriff of Chester, 1615; mayor, 1633-4; deputy to the college of arms for Cheshire, Shropshire, and North Wales.—R. H. II (1601?-1659); sheriff of Chester, 1633-4; mayor, 1643-4; seems to have been professionally connected with his father's work as herald from 1632.—R. H. III (1627-1699); acted as deputy-garter for Cheshire, Shropshire, Lancashire, and North Wales; author of the very rare "Academy of Armour"; the principal contributor to the collection of MSS.—R. H. IV (d. 1707); continued the family collection of MSS. to A.D. 1704; fell upon evil days and parted with it to Edward Harley, earl of Oxford; m. daughter of Griffith Lloyd, of Llanarmon.

So far as Wales is concerned, from which point of view alone they are here considered, these volumes are of great, though unequal value; the training and official positions of the first three members of the Holme family giving a high degree of authority to their collections of pedigrees. These are confined, for the most part, to Flintshire and Denbighshire families, though Anglesey, Carnarvon, and Montgomery are well represented. South Wales families are included only incidentally. Collections compiled by earlier Welsh heralds of more or less official pretensions came into the possession of the Holmes, and were by them adapted, continued and indexed, in many cases provided with dates from deeds and evidences, and inserted in their own volumes. (See some observations on Harl. 1969 in Notes and Queries, 16 Feb. 1901.) Those collections are themselves derived from still earlier collections, but in no instance does the original appear to have been written before the middle of the sixteenth century, and, as they are here preserved, are from fifty to a hundred years later. The larger number of volumes (though hardly one is destitute of pedigrees in a more or less rough form) is made up of papers of all sizes and conditions, many being originals, but more transcripts, drawn together or copied by various persons and at different times for genealogical purposes. As such, they are of varying value, but the transcripts and extracts from minor private documents are of importance in view of the probable loss or destruction of most of the originals. Unfortunately the Holme transcripts are often described as merely copies of copies, with perhaps even a still further remove from the source, so that one of the main objects for which the originals would in these days be prized—the place-names contained therein—is considerably discounted. Some of the Welsh pedigrees and memoranda have been printed in various publications, but no effort has been made to produce them as a whole, as has been done with Lewis Dwn's more comprehensive but less reliable collection. Lloyd's Powys Fadog (6 volumes) contains a larger number of extracts than any other printed work, but these have not been carefully made, and collateral descents are frequently omitted. Wanley, the compiler of the Harleian catalogue, though particularising with sometimes unnecessary minuteness almost every separate note or memorandum and many of the extracts, has contented himself (as indeed he could not well do otherwise) with describing the volumes of pedigrees merely by the county to which they respectively happen to relate. This summary method was clearly not satisfactory, and it was necessary to adopt a plan whereby the contents of this valuable collection, so far as it has relation to Wales and Welsh families, could be set forth with sufficient, yet not excessive detail. To most of the volumes containing pedigrees, whether compiled by the Holmes or by others, careful indexes have been made of the names of the families to which they relate, and as a general rule a second index, according to residences, is also given. With either one of these indexes it is easy to find what pedigrees are contained in the particular volume, and their precise location therein. The personal rather than the place index has been thought the more generally useful. It has been reproduced here in the case of the volumes containing a corpus or county collection of pedigrees. A difficulty arose in connection with the paging shown in these indexes, for this, of course, represents the paging as it existed at the time when the various indexes were formed. As explained in the Introductory Note to part I of this Catalogue, the pagings here adopted are those of the Museum authorities, often very different to the original. To adapt the references given in the indexes made by the Holmes to the new pagings of the Museum would involve much time and trouble, and be of no greater utility than the existing indexes. The rule just mentioned has, therefore, been departed from in these instances. It should be noted, too, that the indexer, for facility of reference, frequently divided his page into three, denominating these sub-divisions by the letters of the alphabet, as 5a, 5b, 5c, &c. The number at the head of a page is sometimes also made to cover two or more succeeding pages, the alphabetical sub-divisions being then carried on, as 5d, 5e, 5f, &c. These sub-divisions greatly facilitate the finding of a particular branch or descent.

A volume of historical collections.

This volume, which is in different hands of the 15 and 16 centuries, appears to have been compiled by or for some officer of the exchequer at Carnarvon. It contains transcripts of the same documents as are found in the Record of Caernarvon, but the arrangement is different, and it includes several pieces drawn from the archives at Carnarvon, which are not in Harleian 696 or Harleian 4776. Its contents are as follow:—

(a) ff. 2-4. Forms of wills.

(b) f. 4b. Declaration by Nicholas Bolnehylle, escheator of the county of Carnarvon, that he had liberated certain tenements to Jevan ap Griffith ap Hoell, 22 Hen. VI.

- (c) ff. 6-9*b*. Regulations respecting Weights and Measures, and assises of Bread and Ale, &c.

These regulations are practically identical with those in the Record of Caernarvon, 242-244, but are not in the same order.

- (d) ff. 10-31*b*. The Statute of Rhuddlan.

Rec. of Caern., 119.

- (e) ff. 32-39*b*. Welsh petitions, 33 Ed. III.

Rec. of Caern., 212-4.

- (f) ff. 39*b*-43*b*. Escheators' interrogatories.

Rec. of Caern., 240-2. The last folio is indistinct.

- (g) ff. 44-48*b*. Regulations for the government of the principality.

Rec. of Caern., 131-2. This MS. contains several additional articles.

- (h) ff. 49-51. Services and customs to be rendered at the castles of Carnarvon, Conway, and Criccieth.

Inquisitions taken 48 Ed. III.

- (i) f. 52. Proceedings before J[ohn] de la Pole, justiciar of North Wales, Michaelmas term, 6 Ric. II.

The Rec. of Caern., 210, contains the proceedings before the same justice in the Easter term of the following year.

- (j) f. 52*b*. Brief addressed to the mayor and burgesses of Beaumaris touching a complaint of the men of North Wales, 1358.

Rec. of Caern., 238.

- (k) f. 53. The assize of meat.

Rec. of Caern., 244.

- (l) f. 53*b*. Charter granting certain rights to the town of Beaumaris, 39 Edw. III.

- (m) f. 54. Note of a similar grant to the towns of Carnarvon and Conway.

- (n) f. 55. Brief of novel disseisin against Tudor ap Meredith.

For unlawful seizure of a tenement called Mayngoran.

- (o) ff. 56-57. Writ to the escheator of the county of Carnarvon to deliver seisin of certain lands in the townships of Dynorwyk, &c., to Howell, David, and Meredith, sons of Meuric ap Gruffith ap Cad[waladr], 21 Hen. VI.

- (p) ff. 57*b*, 58. Demise by Nicholas Bolnehulle, escheator, of the profits of his office in the commot of Creuddyn to Llewelyn ap Madoc ap David, for four years, 22 Hen. VI.

- (q) f. 59*b*. Writ to the escheator of the county of Carnarvon to apportion dower to Gwladus, wife of Howel ap Meuric ap Griffith, 21 Hen. VI.

[479] 1961 (bound with 6122). Heraldic ; late 16 cent.

A volume obtained by one of the Holmes, who beneath his own name has written "Will'm Kyn'all lib. an'o 1580: William Kynmall his book, 1580."

- (a) ff. 3-45*b*. The maternal ancestors of various Welsh families, with their coats of arms roughly coloured.

- (b) f. 46. A short note on the purposes of heraldry.

[480] 1968.

A collection of transcripts made for genealogical purposes ; 17 cent.

The transcripts contained in this volume coming within the purview of this Catalogue relate to the counties of Flint and Denbigh. Most of them have been printed by Mr. E. A. Ebbe-white, F.S.A., in Arch. Camb., 5th Ser., x, 112, &c., and xii, 250, &c. The third R. Holme has provided an index ; his paging, which commences at 540, shows that this is only part of a much larger collection.

A collection of pedigrees; 16-17 cent.

This volume contains two separate collections of pedigrees. The first and most important was compiled by Griffith Hughes, for whom see Notes & Queries for 16th February 1901. The original paging proceeds with occasional breaks (though it does not appear that any of the manuscript has been lost) from 1 to 620, when a gap occurs, the numbers re-commencing at 929 and going on to 1,063 with the pedigrees of Herefordshire families. The latest date I have found to any descent is 1637. The second collection, which is of earlier date, shows the various descents by the primitive method of a series of circles. It has a separate pagination, commencing at 13 and ending at 86. The third Randle Holme indexed both collections, and as his index to the second body of pedigrees does not contain a reference to an earlier page than 13, it is obvious that this collection was in its present imperfect condition when it came into the possession of the Holmes.

The index nominum to the Welsh pedigrees of both collections is given below, the reference being, as already explained, to the original paging of the collections, not to the Museum paging. I have endeavoured to give the names of the residences their modern form, but where they are not known to me I have followed the indexer.

A volume of miscellaneous transcripts by different hands of the late 16 and early 17 cents.

(a) ff. 2-11*b*. Ministers' Accounts of the palatinate of Chester, 10 Hen. IV to 4 Hen. V.

Said to be copied from an old parchment book formerly kept in St. Werburgh's abbey.

(b) ff. 12-25 (18 blank), 27*b*-29. Ministers' Accounts of the county of Flint, temp. Ed. IV and Ric. III.

(c) ff. 26-27. The distribution of the mise, and the incidence of certain assessments on the counties of Chester and Flint.

(d) ff. 31-32. A letter of the lords of the Council to the earl of Bridgwater, president of the council of Wales; 27 April 1635.

Concerning the trained bands within his jurisdiction.

(e) ff. 32*b*-33. The president of the council of Wales to the deputy-lieutenants of Flintshire; 4 May 1635.

Upon the same subject.

(f) f. 33*b*. The names of all such clergymen and ecclesiastical persons within the county of Flint and diocese of St. Asaph as are charged to find horses or arms.

(g) ff. 34-59. A heraldic treatise, consisting of brief descents and coats of arms, in narrative form.

This transcript is said to have been made by Thomas Chaloner from the book of Gettyn Owen, written in his own hand; and Wanley in his printed catalogue adds under the date of 9 Dec. 1718, "the original book of Guttan Owen is now in the possession of my worthy friend, Mr. Moses Williams."

(h) ff. 60-68*b*. Arms of Welsh families.

The same list as in Harl. 1143, but the arms are merely tricked.

(i) f. 70. Pedigree of Captain Richard Owen, A.D. 1652.

(j) ff. 70*b*-72*b*. Extracts from various evidences concerning the family of Beake of Carnarvon, temp. Eliz.

(k) ff. 75*b*, 76. Deeds relating to Abenbury, 20 Hen. VIII ; Bangor, 1526 ; Bromfield, 21 Hen. VIII ; Fabrorum, 32 Hen. VIII ; with rough drawings of the seals where appendant.

(l) f. 76*b*. Pedigree in Welsh of a Denbighshire family.

(m) f. 77*b*. Petition to queen Elizabeth by the gentry, ministers, and freeholders of co. Flint praying her to maintain the privileges of the realm and the protestant religion.

Wanley terms this petition "pretended," but there is nothing in the document to throw doubt upon its genuineness.

(n) ff. 78-91*b*. Court rolls of the lordship of Oswestry ; 6 Ric. II.

Copied by Randle Holme in 1651 from the original lent him by Mr. Arthur Kynaston.

Though the name of the lordship nowhere appears, it is apparent from the particulars given that the rolls were of the lordship of Oswestry. The lordship appears, for administrative purposes, to have been divided into three parts, of which the present transcript contains the records of but the second and the third. Of the second part the members here enumerated are Bryn, Blodwell vawr, Blodwell vechan, Llwyn Tudemon, Cruketh, Llencis, Treflegh or Greenlegh, Trefonen, Truclaud [Tre'r clawdd], Soughton, Sweeney, Llanforda, Weston and Cotton, Mersbury, Osleston, Sandford, Twyford, Aston, Hidesland, and Wotton. The personal names in these manors are mainly Welsh. In the third part (which in the transcript comes first) are Dudleston, Ifton, Weston, Wiginton, Bron y garth, Treprennoll, and Middleton. The members of the lordship of Oswestry given in Powys Fadog, vi, 340, may be compared with the above.

(o) f. 93*b*. Note of a severe tempest at Llanrhaiadr on 26 July 1556.

(p) ib. A Note on the duties of the stewards of the lordship of Oswestry.

(q) ff. 95, 95*b*. Notes from various documents.

They relate to Gwersyllt and Gresford, 3 Hen. V ; Burton in Bromfield, 15 Hen. VI ; Gwersyllt mill, 29 Hen. VI ; Burton in Bromfield, 7 Hen. VII ; Gwershull (Gwersyllt) in Bromfield, 8 Hen. VII.

- (r) f. 96. Petition of Robert Dolben of Denbigh, for a grant of certain lands ; 18 Hen. VII (? VIII).

Powys Fadog, iv, 170. See Patent Roll 20, Hen. VIII, p. 2, m. 12.

- (s) ff. 97*b*, 98. Extracts from the receiver's account of the lordship of Denbigh ; 18 Ed. III.

Powys Fadog, iv, 171.

- (t) f. 99*b*. Extract from a deed relating to Kilken, comot of Counsillt in Englefeld ; 31 Ed. III (1357).

Powys Fadog, iv, 173.

- (u) f. 100. Notes from documents relating to Backeley (? Buckley) in Englefield ; Hen. VIII and Eliz.

- (v) f. 100*b*. Extract from an extent of Stansty ; 8 Ed. II.

Taken from a copy made 10 Hen. VI.

- (zw) ff. 100*b*-111. Copies of and extracts from deeds relating to the manor of Stansty ; Ed. II—Eliz.

On f. 100*b* is a grant by Iorwerth ap Iorwerth ap Madoc to David ap Meiler et Iorwerth filio suo of a messuage in Stansty abbatis in loco qui dicitur groydd yr ynys.

On f. 101*b* is a grant of yr Erw duy inter viam que ducit de Rosduy versus clawdd Wade in Stansti Issa.

Where the seals existed and were visible drawings are appended.

Most if not all of these transcripts have been utilised by Mr. A. N. Palmer in his History of the Country Townships of the old parish of Wrexham.

On f. 106*b* is a copy of the will of Robert ap Jankyn, 1520; also a copy of the will of Margaret v'ch Griff' wife of Robert ap Jankyn de Stansty, 1520. (For these see A. N. Palmer's History of the Parish Church of Wrexham, 195.)

These copies and extracts seem to have been made from documents belonging to John Edwards, of Stansty (see note on f. 109*b*).

- (x) f. 109*b*. Descent of Janet, wife of John Edwards, of Stansty, and of Peter Ellis, of Wrexham (A.D. 1636), from Piers Stanley of Ewloe.

F. 111 also contains brief notes of the ancestors of the Edwards' of Stansty.

(y) ff. 112b-115. A fragment of the original court roll of the lordship of Hope Regina (co. Flint), 2 Ed. IV.

(z) ff. 117-118. The high sheriffs and deputy-sheriffs of the county of Flint from 32 Hen. VIII to 1638.

Arch. Camb., 5 Ser., xiv, 182 (E. A. Ebbelwhite). See also the List of Sheriffs published by the Deputy Keeper of the Rolls.

A volume of pedigrees ; 16-17 centt.

This is the first of two volumes (the second being the one immediately following), forming a collection entitled "Flintshire, Denbighshire, and other North Wales pedigrees." The original paging is continued from one volume to the other, but the volumes have separate indexes of persons and residences. There are gaps in the paging which appear to have existed when the volumes were indexed. On the other hand, a few papers have been inserted, but as they are placed next to the pedigrees to which they relate they are not separately described here. The latest date I have noticed is 1687, though Wanley states that some of the pedigrees are brought down so late as 1705. The following are the names of the Welsh families represented in the present volume; the references, taken from the index at the commencement of the volume, are to the original pagings. I have verified a large number, but not all, of the references, and found them in the main correct. For an explanation of the method of indexing adopted by the Holmes see p. 248 of this work.

A collection of pedigrees; 16-17 centt.

This volume is for the most part devoted to the pedigrees of Anglesey and Carnarvonshire families, with their ramifications. Separate indexes of persons and places exist for each county; there are indeed two sets of indexes, the one compiled by a prior owner to the Holmes, the other by the second Randle Holme. The indexes of persons are as follows, it being understood that the references are to the original pagings in ink.

¹ An original letter from John Williams, of Rhodogeidio (Rhodwydd Ceidio), is inserted at f. 83 (old paging) wherein he cites the book of Extent or Survey of North Wales taken before Sir John de Delves in the 26th Edw. III. This gives Wanley the opportunity of adding a note to the entry of this article in his Catalogue of the Harleian Collection that the Survey alluded to was then in the Harley library, having formerly been in the possession of bishop Stillington. It is now Harleian 696 (which see).

The volume also contains the following articles :—

- (a) ff. 12-14 (modern paging). Topographical details respecting the county of Anglesey.

Its division into cantreds, commotes, parishes, the number of rivers, bridges, &c.

Following the first list is a second, arranged according to the divisions given in the Record of Caernarvon, with the number of "weles," or carucates, which many of them still contained.

- (b) f. 20. A list of the sheriffs of Anglesey from 32 Hen. VIII to 43 Eliz.

With a few later entries by R. Holme.

- (c) f. 21. The incidence of an assessment upon the principal inhabitants of the county of Anglesey ; no date, but probably beginning of 17 cent.

- (d) f. 22. A list of the justices of the peace for the county of Anglesey, A.D. 1620.

- (e) f. 23. A similar list for the year 1601.

With shields of arms, several of which are not filled in.

- (f) f. 103. A list of the justices of the peace for the county of Carnarvon, A.D. 1601.

In the same hand as the previously recorded lists.

- (g) f. 106. A list of the justices for co. Carnarvon for the year 1620.

As in the preceding list for Anglesey.

- (h) f. 106b. The incidence of an assessment upon the principal inhabitants of the co. Carnarvon.

[487] 1975 (bound with 1976).

Pedigrees ; 17 cent.

The first portion of this volume contains the pedigrees of Pembrokeshire and Carmarthenshire (1-18*b*), Glamorganshire (22*b*-40*b*), Breconsire (44*b*-63*b*), Carmarthenshire (64-73*b*), Cardiganshire (74-83*b*), Monmouthshire (84-91*b*), and Herefordshire (92-110*b*) families, arranged generally, though by no means absolutely, in that order. Its index comprises not only the names of persons and families, but also of residences. I have not thought it worth while to exclude the latter, as they often provide a means of identification not always afforded by the personal names. The references to the English pedigrees are also retained, as the English families included in the volume are for the most part those resident upon the Welsh borders who had become connected with Welsh houses. The South Wales pedigrees in the Holme collection, as already stated (p. 261), are not anything like so extensive as those of North Wales. The references, as in the previous cases, are to the original pagings in ink.

Following immediately upon this extensive body of pedigrees is another small and apparently imperfect collection. The modern Museum pagination of this article is from folio 107 to 134, in direct continuation of the preceding pedigrees, but the original paging, which runs from 1 to 28, shows it to have been an altogether independent manuscript. The descents comprised are the following:—

Co. Carmarthen.

[488] 1976 (bound with 1975). Heraldic; 16-17 centt.

A miscellaneous collection, the most bulky portion consisting of a body of pedigrees for the most part of English families, but with a number of Welsh houses intermixed. The volume has been started from both ends, and the articles (which possess little if any merit) have been entered without method or arrangement. An index to the pedigrees was compiled after it had passed into the hands of the Holmes. Though now bound with the volume immediately preceding it in Wanley's catalogue, this probably did not take place until after its purchase by the earl of Harley, as the original paging is not continued from one volume to the other. The items falling within the scope of this Calendar are as follows; beginning at one end :—

ff. 8-14. Various indexes to the pedigrees and coats of arms which follow.

- f. 17*b*, 18. Descendants of Griffith ap Beli, dominus Kegidva.
- ff. 32*b*-33*b*. The Salisburys of Llewenny.
- f. 37*b*. Gregory Price of co. Cardigan from Gwaethfoed.
- f. 38*b*. Mansell.
- f. 39*b*. William Penryn from Iorwerth Benfras.

With rough sketch of arms, viz., a chevron inter three roses, "it is not knowne what cullers."¹

¹ This interesting inscription is not now in existence (see the list in A. N. Palmer's History of the Parish Church of Wrexham). But on p. 194 of that work is an abstract of the will of Guttyn ap Meredydd which is dated in 1494, the year in which he died. His wife is therein styled Erthelad [Erdlylad] for which Janet was intended to serve either as a synonym or as a name of endearment. He was a descendant of Sir Robert Pounderling, and nephew to David ap Robert=Lleucu, d. and co-heiress of Lewis ap William of Llewellyd. He is styled Simon ap Meredith in Harl. 472 (which see ante, p. 152), but this is certainly a mistake. Guttyn's son John had a daughter Anne=Lancelot Hanson of Holt, with three other daughters and four sons who are not named.

- f. 224*b* (Museum)—letter from John Jones, Halkin, 6 Nov. 1657; correcting errors in R. Holme's pedigree of the Jones' family.
- f. 226 (Museum)—descendants of Llewelyn aurdorchawg to Edward Lloyd of Llanarmon in Yale, "now 1697"; in the hand of Robert Vaughan of Hengwrt.
- p. 151 (old; Museum f. 238)—copy of grant by Henry St. George, norroy, of coat and crest to Edward Evans, sometime sheriff of Chester, son of David Evans of Chester, son of Evan ap Rêes of Rhydordy.
- p. 187 (old; Museum f. 259)—note by Randle Holme to Robert Davies of Gwysaney requesting his assistance in certain pedigrees. The reply is in the hand of Griffith Hughes (of whom there is question in Arch. Camb., 6th. Ser., i, 126), who calls Mr. Davies his "master"; undated.

In addition, the volume contains the following articles relating to Wales:—

- (a) f. 9. Verses in praise of the leek.
Six lines of doggrel.
- (b) ff. 12-20*b*. Arms of the Welsh nobility and gentry.
248 coats in trick.
- (c) ff. 21-24*b*. Another collection of arms.
A similar list in trick to that in Harleian 1143 (which see).
- (d) ff. 25-27. Arms of Flintshire and Denbighshire families.
In the same hand as the tract on ff. 12-20*b*.
- (e) ff. 34, 34*b*. Arms of the Welsh bishoprics, lords president of the council of the marches, chief justices of great sessions; and princes of North Wales, South Wales, Powys and Glamorgan.
In pencil, and now indistinct; of no value.
- (f) f. 34*b*. The fifteen tribes of Wales.
- (g) ib. The names of the six counties of North Wales, with the knights inhabiting the cos. of Merioneth, Carnarvon and Anglesey.
- (h) f. 269. Part of the pedigree of a family named Jones.

[490] 1978.

Heraldic, 17 cent.

Indexes to the contents of the volume will be found at the end.

- (a) ff. 3-51. The arms, in colours, of certain Welsh houses and families, and of certain English families who have come into Wales.

A similar list to that in Harleian 1143 (which see), but in different sequence. Some of the cognizances are likewise blazoned, and some are accompanied by pedigrees.

- (b) ff. 52-85. Another collection of arms, mostly tinctured, comprising at

(i) f. 103b. The descent of Robert Davies of Gwissaney from Ednowain Bendew.

¹ For an interesting description and drawing of The Tower see Arch. Camb., 1st. Ser., i, 55. It is there inferred that "the building is of the fifteenth century, and probably dates from the earlier portion of it," but the writer was not aware "of any documentary evidence as to its precise date."

[491] 1979.

Heraldic ; 16-17 centt.

A volume commenced by the Chaloners, and continued by the last two Randle Holmes, with a number of memoranda inserted. It opens with a series of pedigrees, mostly of English families, but with a few Welsh interspersed. There are indexes of the pedigrees and heraldry.

(a) f. 44. The sheriffs of [England and] Wales, A.D. 1627.

(b) ff. 48, 50, 51. The pedigrees of John Price and William Lloyd.

As certified by Evan Lloyd of Erethlon, co. Denbigh.

(c) f. 200. The amount received from the estate of Sir John Perrott, attained.

Extracts from the accounts of the receiver of South Wales.

[492] 1980.

A discourse of the ancient and modern estate of the principality of Wales, &c. ; 17 cent.

A transcript of Sir John Doddridge's work ; for other copies see the index to this and the former part of this Catalogue.

[493] 1981.

A volume relating to the town of Oswestry, co. Salop, with references to places in the vicinity along the Welsh border ; 1635.

Wanley gives a detailed account of this volume, which was compiled for Thomas, earl of Arundel, by John Davies, who writes "from my poore house at Midlton, neare Oswestrie, the 15th of December 1635." To folio 27 it is printed in Powys Fadog, vi, 301-332. The remaining portion is made up of transcripts of Oswestry charters.

Heraldic ; 17 cent.

Several tracts relating to heraldry. One at ff. 130-150*b*, in the handwriting of Thomas Chaloner, is a series of pedigrees of Shropshire families having Welsh connexions.

[495] 1988.

f. 1. A list of the royal officers in Wales, with their respective fees ; a late 16 or early 17 cent. transcript.

[496] 1992.

Genealogical ; 17 cent.

- ff. 39-40. Kings of Britain, according to Geoffrey of Monmouth.
- f. 47. Trevor (? of Trefalun), with quarterings.
- f. 48. Sketch pedigree of Jeffreys of Acton, 1658.
- f. 99. John Williams of Rhodogeidio, co. Anglesey, "finished by himself", 1671.

[497] 1993.

Genealogical ; 17 cent.

- f. 75. Descendants of Rees Merchan of Cliud (?) to John David.

A rough pedigree written at the end of a collection of English heraldry.

[498] 1995.

Heraldic.

- f. 3. A roll of arms, mostly of Herefordshire families; end 16th or beginning of 17th cent.

Towards the end are the arms of a few Welsh families, mainly those of Flintshire.

[499] 1997.

Genealogical ; 17 cent.

- (a) f. 91. A collection of pedigrees.

Contains a few Welsh: the descendants of Tudur Trevor, &c. crossed out, probably denoting that they are entered elsewhere.

- (b) f. 124. The pedigree of Peeke (or Peake) of Llewenny green, co. Denbigh.

- (c) ff. 125-144*b*. A collection of arms.

Contains the arms of the families of Bulkeley, Holland, Thelwall, Roydon of Bromfield, Conway, Eyton, &c. Not struck through, but a note of R. Holme II states them to be for the most part entered in some other of his books.

- (d) f. 147*b*. The names of the conquerors of Glamorgan and Brecknock-shires.

ex liberis, Lewis Dune et D. Powell.

- (e) ff. 148-166. Another collection of pedigrees.

Contains a few Welsh, amongst them the families of Conway, Kinaston, &c. Either crossed out, or noted as being entered elsewhere.

[500] 2002.

Transcripts; 17 cent.

- (a) ff. 4-6. Letters patent dated 18 Nov. 11 James I, leasing the minerals in the hundreds of Counsillt and Rhuddlan, co. Flint, to Richard Gwynne, for 21 years.
- (b) ff. 16, 16*b*. An abstract of the same, made in 1629 in order to a new lease; and the warrant for the issue of such new lease.
- (c) ff. 17-20. Letters patent dated 6 Dec. 1637, appointing Robert Brerewood one of the justices of the North Wales circuit.
- (d) ff. 21-27. An assignment dated March 1633 to John Wich, of London, of the remaining term of years in a lease of the minerals in the lordship of Bromfield and Yale, co. Denbigh, by William Colly, executor of Richard Grosvenor.
- (e) ff. 28-35. Rough draft dated 13 March 1633, of a deed declaring the uses of the above lease.
- (f) ff. 36-41. Conveyance dated 8 Chas. I, to Francis Gamull, Thomas Barud and William Colly, of the fee simple in the minerals in the hundreds of Counsillt and Rhuddlan, co. Flint.
- This was part of the enormous grant to Collins and Fenn, who are parties to the conveyance.
- (g) ff. 42-50. Re-grant dated 12 March 1633, by John Wich to William Colly, of the minerals assigned to the former by the deed at ff. 21-27.
- (h) ff. 52-60. Conveyance dated 12 August 1634, of the minerals in the hundreds of Counsillt and Rhuddlan, co. Flint, to uses (specified).
- (i) ff. 61-67. Deed dated 9 June 1637, setting forth the trusts of the above conveyance.
- (j) ff. 153-158. Rough draft of conveyance dated 6 July 1629, by Sir Richard Grosvenor, of certain lands in

[co. Chester and] co. Denbigh, in trust for the payment of his debts.

The lands in question were situated in the parishes of Burton, Gresford, Gwersilt, Brymbo, Bersham, Acton and Esclusham.

(k) ff. 159-167. Charge levied by Sir Richard Grosvenor upon the profits of the minerals in the hundreds of Counsillt and Rhuddlan, co. Flint; 18 June, 12 Chas. I.

Transcripts and extracts; early 17 cent.

f. 13. Extract, "copia vera, et corrigitur", from a lease of 29 May, 5 Edw. VI, from Sir William Norreys to Johan ap Johan of certain lands in the township of Burton, in the lordship of Bromfeld and Yale, co. Denbigh.

Wanley observes, "it is incorrect enough", the above note notwithstanding. The lands are not particularly specified.

f. 143. The jury panel of the counties of Flint, Denbigh [Cheshire, &c.]; temp. Jas. I.

ff. 144-154. Commission dated 29 August, 5 Jas. I, for the repair of the embankments of the river Dee.

The jurisdiction of the Commissioners extended from Hillbrye upwards, within land, along the river unto Newe Bridge, near the castle of Chirke, in the countie of Denbigh. The names of the Commissioners are given on f. 154b; and the article is followed by a large number of papers relating to the condition of the river.

Chamberlain's accounts of the counties of Chester and Flint; 21-35 and 38 Hen. VI. Originals, or contemporary duplicates.

These do not seem to have been used for Taylor's Historic Notices of Flint.

[503] 2006.

Pedigrees; 17 cent.

f. 54b. Young of co. Salop from many Welsh families. The pedigree is continued on the backs of the succeeding folios.

ff. 84-96. William Hughes of Llewellyd, co. Flint.

A miscellaneous collection of transcripts and extracts ;
17 cent.

At f. 103*b* are a few unimportant references from the public records relating to the lordship of Mold.

[505] 2009.

A similar volume.

(a) f. 15. How justices of the peace came to be instituted in cos. [Chester] Flint, and Anglesey, 27 Hen. VIII.

(b) ib. That the original seal of Chester shall be also the original seal of Flint.

Unimportant extracts by R. Holme II from the Acts 27 Hen. VIII, c. 5, and 34-5 Hen. VIII, c. 29.

Pedigrees.

A heterogeneous collection of pedigrees, amongst which are—
f. 22. The family of Tanat ; 17 cent.

f. 52. Sir Thomas Moston of Moston, set forth by Thomas Jones, of Tregaron, and fynished at Founteyne Gate the 9th March 1604.

Wanley adds: "This is noted by old Randle Holmes to be false; and as to the general character of this Jones of Fountain Gate, I think I have remarked somewhat in one of the former volumes of this catalogue"—see Harleian 1500 (ante).

f. 57*b*. Eaton of Pentre madoc.

f. 85. Sutton of Gwersyllt, co. Denbigh.

ff. 96*b*-98. Wynne of Caervedwen.

f. 99. Another pedigree of the same family, arranged (as Wanley says) in a circle, according to the fancy often used by the Welsh bards or heralds.

f. 100. Thelwall of Bathafarn.

Historical collections by the second and third Randle Holme ; circa 1656.

Wanley's remarks on this volume are as follows: "It is only part of a rough draught of some larger work, which seems to be the history of the city of Chester ; in order to introduce which, it was thought fit to premise somewhat touching the antient history of Great Britain in general, and of England in particular." It is impossible not to echo Wanley's concluding observations: "This work, notwithstanding the marginal and other citations, is almost wholly collected from books printed in English; and 'tis much pity that those two industrious men had not learning, judgment, and experience sufficient in the several parts of this their undertaking. Which, if they had persevered in to the end (notwithstanding all its defects) might have afforded us notices of many things that now may not easily, if ever, be retrieved." The chapters relating to the Britons, the Roman occupation, &c., are, of course, of no historical value. Chapter 6 of the intended work has got separated from its predecessors, being now Harleian 2052. This chapter deals with "the several religions practiced by the people inhabiting this our county and city of Chester", and though of no present value, the remarks upon the ancient Britons are decidedly good for the period when they were written.

Heraldic.

f. 83. Arms in the church of Oswestry, in the year 1586.
Powys Fadog, v, 72.

Collections by the third Randle Holme for his "Academy of Armour"; 17 cent.

f. 376. The descendants of Thomas Mostyn of Mostyn.

Intended as an instance of the marshalling of coats of arms. See the acute and interesting remarks of Wanley upon this scarce work prefixed to his notice of the preceding manuscript volume.

[512] 2038.

Historical memoranda, drawn for the most part from the archives of the city of Chester; 17 cent.

Scattered throughout the volume are copies of a number of deeds relating to the adjoining districts of Wales. At f. 119 is a copy of an indenture of 15 Edw. IV, to which the abbot and convent of Basingwerk are parties, with a drawing of the abbey seal. There are good indexes of persons and places.

Arch. Camb., 1st Ser., iii, 139, from a MS. of A.D. 1640 in the Wynnstay library. I have never met with nor seen reference to the mediæval vita or historia of S. Monacella (Melangell) from which the transcripts of Bostock and William Maurice were mediately or immediately taken. Rees, Welsh Saints, 269, gives the date of her festival as May 27. Mr. Baring Gould, Lives of the Saints (ed. 1898), xvi, 225, in his brief notice of the saint, the source of which is not specified (but which almost certainly is Pennant, Tours, iii), adopts this date, adding that "in the Welsh calendars she is also commemorated on January 31 and on May 4th." I cannot find any authority for the former day, but the latter (if it really occurs in any Welsh calendar) is due to a confusion with S. Monica, the mother of S. Augustine. No life of S. Monacella appears in the Acta Sanctorum. The present MS. does not seem to have been known to the writer of the parochial history of Pennant Melangell in Mont. Coll., xii.

question. That some gentlemen of the partes of Wales having milles within 4 or 5 miles of Chester, and grounds upon the river side doe now (after 600 years) earnestly labour to destroy the same. To this purpose they procured a commission of Sewers to themselves and others, which (upon pretence of some annoyances supposed to be occasioned by the said milles and cawsey) they doe soe vyolently prosecute as to impannell juries and receive verdicts in forrayne counties; that in the Cittie, which is the proper countie (where the pretended nuisance is) being against them. That the said commission did not extend unto the said milles and cawsey. That at the last sitting of the said commissioners, being the 17th of December [1606] they did forbear to make any order, and absolutely adjourned the court until the Saturday in Easter week; notwithstanding which some of the said commissioners of Wales, fearing a [writ of] supersedeas, very lately, in private, met together again, and contrary to the express direction of the lord treasurer of England, and their own agreement, they made an absolute decree for the destruction of the said cawsey and millnes, and published the same. Whereby the Welsh people are so encouraged as to threaten to come very speedilye to Chester, with great multitudes, to put the said decree in execution. So that the memorye of that antient enmitye and hostilitye which was sometyes betwixt the English and the Welsh is revived, and the myndes of the peaceable-affected much disquieted."

At f. 25 are the arms in trick of Williams of Anglesey, and the volume may contain the coats of a few other Welsh families, but it possesses no importance.

Pedigrees by Hugh Thomas ; 18 cent.

Wanley observes of this volume : " A collection of the pedigrees of Welsh families made, partly from MSS. in this noble library, with the consent of my late noble lord and master, and partly from other authorities. This book was one of those which the said Hugh bequeathed to that noble lord by his last will, and for all which, his brother was gratified, being very poor. This hath no table or index."

It would appear that the principal, if not the sole authorities for the pedigrees compiled by Hugh Thomas were the volumes of the family of Holme, which have been already dealt with (1920-2180, see p. 261) and the collection of Lewis Dwn. To many of them he has prefixed or appended a reference to the source whence they were derived. After some trouble I have been able to discover the original entries, and have compared Hugh Thomas's transcripts with these in a number of cases. The results are not reassuring, for I have found several instances of the omission of collaterals and of the dropping out or transposition of descents. This may have been occasioned by the (usually) cramped and untidy scrawls of the Holmes, while Hugh Thomas, evidently aiming at clearness and neatness, sacrificed the younger members of a family and branches of a stem to the amiable desire for legibility. He, however, in most cases continues his pedigrees down to his own day, and it is this feature that gives the volumes written by him their value. Unfortunately none are indexed, and for reasons based upon the facts above mentioned, I have not considered it necessary to compile them for the purposes of this Catalogue.

A volume of Hugh Thomas's collections, written by him ; end of 17 and commencement of 18 centuries.¹

Contains a large collection of Brecknockshire pedigrees, which have probably been worked into Theophilus Jones's history of that county. Intermixed with them are divers pedigrees of Welsh families in other cos.

[573] 2299.

Pedigrees ; 17 cent.

This, though a volume of the Hugh Thomas collections, is not in his autograph. At the commencement has been inserted the following letter:—

Peniarth, Towyn, Merioneth. Hengwrt MS. 359. This MS. is marked No. 14 in one of Mr. Aneurin Owen's quarto catalogues of the Hengwrt MSS., wherein he gives a separate list of the MSS. purchased by the late Lt.-Col. Salesbury of Rûg, or his brother, Lt.-Col. Vaughan of Hengwrt, from the Sebright collection; of which this and its fellow volume were part. They were numbered 1232 in the sale catalogue, and sold for £20. These volumes form about two-thirds of a transcript of the valuable folio volume of pedigrees in the autograph of the antiquary Robert Vaughan of Hengwrt, who died in 1667, in this collection. The remaining part of the transcript is in the British Museum, Harl. MS. 2299. There is some confusion in the paging of Hengwrt MS. 96 which the writer of this MS. has adopted, so that it would appear there are several pages wanting between the Harl. MS. 2299 and this; but it is not so. The index is perfect in Harl. MS. 2299, and refers to Hengwrt MS. 96 (in which it is somewhat imperfect), and also to the three volumes of the transcript of it. Hengwrt MS. 359 is part of the great Hengwrt collection of MSS. bequeathed to me by my friend and kinsman Sir Robert Williams Vaughan, the last baronet of his ancient house, in 1859. Hengwrt MS. 359 concludes with page 1391, the Brit. Mus. vol., with page 544. (Signed) Wm. W. E. Wynne of Peniarth. Peniarth, June 30, 1873.

It is certain that this is the first volume of a collection of which the second and third are at Peniarth. But on the point of whether these are copies of Hengwrt 96, and whether they and their supposed exemplar are in the hand of Robert Vaughan of Hengwrt, see Notes and Queries, 18 Nov. 1899 and 10 Feb. 1900, and Arch. Camb., 6th Ser., i, 126. There is an altogether inadequate index to the entire collection in the present volume, but as the greater portion of the entries relate to volumes in a private library it is not reproduced here. It may be said that though very roughly and confusedly written, the pedigrees are better furnished with dates than is usually the case.

The Hengwrt collection has been renumbered, and is now known as the Peniarth collection. (Vide Report on MSS. in the Welsh Language: Part II—Historical MSS. Commission.) The description of the volumes here in question by the Historical Manuscripts Commissioner has not at the present time (March 1902) appeared.

Pedigrees ; 17 cent.

Another volume of the Hugh Thomas collection. It at present consists of two independent manuscripts, one only of which is in the hand of the Brecknockshire genealogist. This consists for the most part of the descents of Carmarthenshire families, and is largely drawn from the Holme collection already noticed, but brought down to Hugh Thomas's own date. There is no index. The other collection consists in the main of pedigrees of English families with a few Welsh houses intermixed. It is so imperfect as to be of little value.

(a) Genealogical. Welsh ; late 16 cent.

A volume mainly in the handwriting of Llewelyn Sion, imperfect at beginning. A brief chronicle in a late 17th century hand has been bound with it at the end. It consists of genealogical memoranda and brief descents, for the most part of Glamorganshire families. Notes have been made here and there by a writer of the latter half of the eighteenth century, and on f. 24, in another modern hand, is "llyma lyfyr Llewelyn Sion o Langewydd, per me Gulielmu' David".

Its principal contents are—

- f. 1 (f. 6 of the original paging). Aches ap Meirig ap Tewdrig ap Taithvulch.

[581] 3325.

A volume of Hugh Thomas's collections (see 2218 ante).

f. 1. blank, with a few scribbings, and the names of Thomas Jones and John Jones.

(a) ff. 1*b*-12*b*. A history of Britain. 18 cent.

"Of no value" (Hardy, Descr. Cat., i, No. 1135, where it is erroneously referred to as Harleian 3225).

Opens with a list of kings, Beli mawr, Afflech and the like; commences the history proper with the events of the year 688, and continues to 936, where it ends imperfectly. It is not in the handwriting of Hugh Thomas, and has no connection with the remaining contents of the volume in which it has been bound.

(b) ff. 13-22. Inscriptions in the chancel of the priory church of Brecon.

Copied by Hugh Thomas, 20 April 1700. The earliest dated inscription in this part of the priory church of St. John's is that of John Games, 30 April 1563, which is closely followed by that of Edward Games, legis peritus et pater patriæ, 9 Sept. 1564. On f. 19*b*. of the MS. is recorded a Welsh inscription to Thomas Lewis mab Llewelin mab Morgan mab Davidd mab Howell ychen mab Howell mab Davidd, who died 19 March 1586.

(c) ff. 22-32. Inscriptions in capel Havardid [the Havard chapel] within the priory church of Brecon.

Copied by Hugh Thomas, 1 May 1700. The earliest is to Ludovicus Havard, generosus, 10 Oct. 1569.

(d) ff. 32*b*-36. Inscriptions in cappell y Battell [the Battle (abbey) chapel] within the priory church of Brecon.

Copied by Hugh Thomas, 21 June 1700.

(e) ff. 37-48*b*. Inscriptions in capel y Cochied within the same priory church.

Copied by the same, 24 Aug. 1700.

(f) ff. 49-64*b*. Inscriptions in the nave of the same priory church.

Copied by the same, 5 Sept. 1700. On ff. 57*b*, 58, 60*b*, are three mediæval inscriptions which Hugh Thomas could but imperfectly decipher.

(g) ff. 65-66. Inscriptions in the Weaver's chapel within the same priory church.

[581] 3325 (continued).

- (h) ff. 66*b*, 67. Inscriptions in the Tucker's chapel within the same priory church.
- (i) f. 67*b*. Inscription in the Glover's chapel within the same priory church.

That to Howell ap Jevan ap Rosser and Gwenllian his wife, who died (obierunt) 14 April 1592.

A number of the inscriptions from the priory church of St. John's are given in Jones's History of Brecknockshire.

- (j) ff. 68-117*b*. Inscriptions taken from various Brecknockshire churches.

ff. 69-71, Llanvrynach; ff. 72-76, Llansantffraid (in the churchyard is that to Henry Vaughan "Siluris"); ff. 77, 77*b*, Llywel; ff. 78-80, Llanveugan; ff. 80*b*-89*b*, the collegiate church of Brecon; f. 89*b*, chapel Obriad or Awbryed [the Aubrey chapel] within the same church; ff. 90-93, St. David's, Brecon; ff. 93*b*-95, Devynnock; ff. 96, 96*b*, Llanspyddyd; ff. 97, 97*b*, Llanddew; f. 98, Talachddu; ff. 99, 99*b*, Aberyskir; ff. 100, 100*b*, Trallwng; t. 101 Cantref; f. 102, Llanfihangel nant Bran; f. 103, Vaenor; ff. 104-105, Llanhamlech; ff. 106, 106*b*, Llangasty Tal y llyn; ff. 107*b*-109, Llanthely [Llanelli]; f. 109*b*, 110, Llangynidr; f. 110*b*, 111, Crigladarn [Crickadarn]; ff. 111*b*-114, Llangeneu, Crickhowell; ff. 115-117*b*, miscellaneous inscriptions, some at least of which are amongst those previously recorded.

Three of these inscriptions, one from Llanvrynach and two from Llansantffraid churches, are printed in Cambro-Briton, ii, 309.

- (k) ff. 121-151*b*. Genealogical memoranda. Welsh; late 16 cent.

This is a totally independent article; marginal notes and additions have been made by former possessors. It is improperly arranged, the modern (museum) folios 121-124 being really the end and not, as at present, the beginning of the MS. On the outside margin of f. 131 is the name of David Probert.

ff. 125-127*b* are three leaves from another manuscript written in a hand contemporary with the MS. in which they have been embedded. They form the opening portion of an English tract, comprising semi-historical, semi-heraldic notices of North Welsh princes; how far it was intended to extend is of course impossible to say. It has no title, but starts in such a manner as to show that we probably have the commencement of the MS. or of this particular article. Its first words are: Llywelyn ap Ierwerth drwyndwn, p'ins of Wales, his cote armo'r, &c.; and it ends imperfectly with: the coronet of cept'o [? or sceptre] of Dinevwr in Sowth Wales. The scribe mentions the death of Llewelyn ap Gruffudd in 1282, leaving a daughter who professed as a nun after the death of her father; Owen Goch ap Gruffudd who died a prisoner in Bristol castle without issue, and David who was beheaded at Shrewsbury leaving no issue; and then proceeds (f. 126*b*) "and so Rodry ap Gryffyth had a son whiche son was calyd Thomas ap Rodry whiche Thomas had a son calid Owen lawgo3 and died in Fraunce wt'out issew, whiche Owen lawgo3 had too susturs be on [by one] fathur and mothur, whith'r they have issew or not is unknowen".

f. 128, brief genealogical notes in Welsh under the heads Meilienydd, Elfel is mynydd, Aberedwy yn Elfael uwch mynydd, Elfel uwch mynydd, Byellt, ach brenin Dyffryn klwyd, gwehelyth Kadelling o Gegidfa, gwehelyth Powys, Meilienydd, and these are followed by more general memoranda.

The following passage furnishes a date for this portion of the MS. :—f. 138*b*, Gwraig Ieu'n ap Ll'n vychan oedd Wenllian merch m'reud' vychan o Veilionydd o v3 Madog ap Hoell ap Madog vychan i mam o v3 Kydwgan ap Hoell o Elfel imam. ff. 146-ult., short notes of maternal ancestors, the continuation of which is on ff. 121-124.

Genealogical. Welsh ; late 16 cent.

A roughly written volume of 134 folios. On the first folio is the date Jann. 1580, after which come the words "llyvyr gohelyth Hyw Havart o Aberhodny y mrychinog." The rest of the leaf is made up of three verses of doggrell address to the volume in English. Overleaf is "mwynhawent sakrme't a fydd ar genau," and the lines:—

Or gwenith ar gwinwydd
mwynhau Krist sy ddirystydd ai gorph ai waed a gwir fydd ;

next follows: viij sortes of lions, passant, rampant, gardant, saliant, segant, cowgeant, regardant, dormiant ; and scribblings of Rees Phee [? Phillip] and David Rees.

A volume of Hugh Thomas's collections (see 2218 ante).

The volume is formed of three independent manuscripts; the first, in a hand of the 17 cent., consists of brief genealogical memoranda; the second, commencing at f. 28, is made up of coats of arms with brief notices of their owners, also in a 17 century hand; the third portion, commencing at f. 72, comprises sketches of Brecknockshire churches and family residences, monumental inscriptions, and memoranda of a genealogical character. This is in the autograph of Hugh Thomas, and was probably compiled at the commencement of the 18 cent.

The contents are as follows:—

(a) Genealogical.

- f. 1. Note of the issue of Cadwalader, kinge of greate Bryttayn.

- f. 58*b*. Ieuan ap Morgan (to Sir Richard Williams alias Cromwell).
- ff. 62*b*-71*b*. Pedigrees in a fragmentary condition.

Rough pen-and-ink and pencil drawings of Brecknockshire churches, family residences and inscribed slabs; monumental inscriptions, &c. Compiled by Hugh Thomas, the Brecknockshire antiquary.

- (c) f. 72. Pen-and-ink drawing of the house of William Phillips, esq.

Near the village of Llanvrynach, which his father bought of Lison Thomas, whose ancestors are said to have enjoyed it above 1000 years before.

- (d) f. 73. Pen-and-ink drawing of the parish church of St. John the Evangelist, or the priory church of Brecon.

65 yards in length, in breadth $19\frac{1}{3}$, the length of the cross $33\frac{2}{3}$, the breadth of the chancell $9\frac{1}{8}$, the length of the chancell $20\frac{1}{2}$ [yards].

- (e) f. 74. Pen-and-ink drawing of St. Mary's chapel, Brecon.

- (f) f. 75. An unfinished pencil drawing of the priory church of St. John's, Brecon.

- (g) f. 76. A rough pencil drawing of the collegiate church, Brecon.

- (h) f. 77*b*. A pen-and-ink drawing of the monumental slab of Thomas ap John ap Thomas ap John ap Rosser ap John ap Ieuan ap Philip ap Howell Gam in the church of Llanvrynach.

- (i) f. 78. A pen-and-ink drawing of the church of Llanvrynach.

(j) f. 79. A pen-and-ink drawing of the church of St. David's, Llanfaes, Brecon.

(k) f. 80. A pen-and-ink drawing of the collegiate church of Brecon.

54 yards and $\frac{1}{3}$ and only 22 now standing, the chancell being 8 and a $\frac{1}{2}$ broad, the body of the church reare 42 lack[ing] 3 inches.

(l) f. 81. A pen-and-ink drawing of the east window of an unnamed church.

(m) f. 82. A rough and unfinished pencil sketch of the castle of Brecon.

(n) f. 83. A few genealogical memoranda and pedigrees.

(o) f. 83*b*. An inscription in verse in the church of Llandeivalley to the family of Boys.

(p) f. 83*b*. Arms in the hall at Wielaston.

f. 84. An English pedigree.

(q) f. 84*b*. An extract respecting the family of Chandos.

Taken "from Mr. Broome's collections, out of the leger bookes of Llanthony, now in the custody of my lord Scudamore."

f. 85. The members of parliament for Herefordshire.

(r) f. 86*b*. The inscription upon the Maen Illtud in the parish of Llanhamlech, co. Brecon.

"The stone was carried off[f] by Mr. Walbieff; there is still to be seen Ty Illtud, viz., 4 unwieldy rude stones, one at the end, two on each side, and one on the top for a cover: the two stones on the side are carved with very old geometrical figures et. gr." [then follows a second copy of the "inscription"]. See Hübner, Inscr. Brit. Christ., No. 43.

(s) f. 87. Pen-and-ink drawings of two inscribed stones.

(1) The Victorinus stone at Pentre Ysgythrog in the parish of Llansantffraid, co. Brecon.

(2) A shaft with circular head, inscribed with a cross and lettering.

Hübner, Inscr. Brit. Christ., Nos. 45 and 53. Edward Lhwyd's drawing of the latter stone (copied by Hübner from Gibson's Camden), shows the cross as possessing two transverse arms, but Hugh Thomas figures only one. The stone is not now in existence.

(t) f. 88. A pen-and-ink drawing of a Roman inscribed stone.

The [Valer]ianus stone. (See Hübner, Inscr. Brit. Lat., p. 45, No. 152.)

The following note is interesting:—This stone now lies under the west gate of the Priory at Brecon; it is 2 foot 8 inches broad, and 4 foot 7 inches long. Mr. Roger Williams of the Gare dug up this stone out of his own ground adjoining to his house, where formerly stood a Roman town, as also many Roman bricks, of which he made a present to Mr. Thomas Price of the Priory, and shortly after S^r Jeffrey Jeffreys bought the Priory of Mrs. Flower his agents placed it for a step where it now lies. (See remarks in Jones's History of Brecknockshire).

(u) f. 89. Rough pedigree of the Thomases of Michaelchurch in Ewyas land, Mary sole heiress of William Phillips, and John Price of Michaelchurch; from John Griffith.

ff. 90-96. Brief genealogical notes of English and Scotch families.

ff. 97-111 (ult.). A tract, in another hand, entitled The Genealogie of the familie of Maxwell.

An extent of the lordship of Denbigh, taken 8 Edw. III; 14 cent.

This valuable Ms. has not been published in extenso, but the earlier portions were utilised for Williams's Records of Denbigh, and Dr. F. Seebohm has printed certain sections in the Appendix to his Tribal System in Wales. The present Ms., though of the same century as that in which the survey was taken, is a transcript of a little later date than 1335. An "original copy" (by which it is presumed is meant a strictly contemporary copy) is stated by Dr. Seebohm to be in the library of Colonel Howard of Wigfair.

The chartulary of Welbeck abbey.

- (a) f. 18*b*. Decree of 13 Edw. I, subjecting the abbey of Talley, co. Carmarthen, to the 'paternal jurisdiction' of the abbot of Welbeck.

Arch. Camb., 5th Ser., x, 233 (Edward Owen), from the original entry on the Charter Roll, 13 Edw. I, No. 129.

- (b) f. 127*b*. Abstract of a similar decree, 21 Edw. I.

[589] 3648.

Historical collections; 17 cent.

- (a) ff. 6-8*b*. Genealogical memoranda extracted from the chronicle of the priory of Llanthony juxta Gloucester.

- (b) ff. 17-19*b*. Similar memoranda relating mainly to the families of Bigod, Verdon, and Lacy, out of the chronicle of Tintern abbey.

- (c) f. 19*b*. A brief memorandum from the chronicle of the priory of Llanthony in Wallia.

Similar transcripts to those in Cottonian Cleopatra C. iii, and Lansdowne 447 (both of which see).

The Survey of the lordships of Bromfield and Yale, co. Denbigh, by John Norden, A.D. 1620.

This well-executed MS. once belonged to a Thomas Brown, who presented it to the earl of Oxford. The greater portion has been published in Original Documents (Archæologia Cambrensis), and after a fashion, in Powys Fadog, but in both cases entries appear to have been omitted. Two coloured drawings of the castle of Lyons alias Holt on ff. 5 and 6 are figured in Powys Fadog, i, pp. 360 and 386; and that of Glynn Park at f. 57 is the frontispiece to vol. iii of the same work. The following plans have, however, not been reproduced:

f. 44, Holt Great Park or Mersley Park.

f. 54, part of the manor of Hewlington.

f. 58, park y Cunnig [Cwning].

f. 82, part of Doddleston moor.

Sloane 3241 is a transcript of that portion of the Survey relating to Yale.

ff. 40b-65b. The Register of the abbey of Aberconway; 14 cent.

Camden Society, Miscellany, vol. i (ed. Sir H. Ellis).

The portion of this volume relating to the Abbey of Conway commences in the middle of folio 40b, where it follows immediately upon a chronicle of the abbey of Hayles in Gloucestershire. Spaces are left at the commencement of each paragraph for rubricated initial letters, but these have not been supplied.

Though entitled a Register of Aberconway, this Ms. was almost certainly not compiled in the abbey of that name, but was probably drawn up from a monastic register which circulated to the Gloucestershire abbey of Hayles. It seems to be fairly established that the monastery of Strata Florida (with which the house of Conway was in close and intimate communication) possessed its chronicle, of which Ms. B of the printed Annales Cambriæ (Rolls Series) is considered to be a copy.¹ And in addition to this Latin chronicle, a much fuller Welsh chronicle is supposed to have been kept at Strata Florida or Conway. Robert Vaughan, the antiquary, in his British Antiquities Revived, several times refers to "the Book of Conway," and the writer of the preface to the Rolls edition of the Brut y Tywysogion considers that the original text of Ms. A of that edition (which is taken from the Red Book of Hergest) was the Welsh chronicle compiled at one or other of those monasteries. The present Ms. cannot, however, have been compiled from the original of the Latin chronicle in the Annales Cambriæ, or (even assuming that a sister monastery on the Welsh border might contain a scribe who understood Welsh) from the original of the Welsh chronicle in the Brut y Tywysogion, since it contains certain particulars of both the Conway and Strata Florida abbatial properties which could only have been obtained from those houses, and a few historical notices which are not in the chronicles written within their walls.

The present Ms., though a register rather than chronicle or cartulary, contains brief notices of historical events and copies of a few charters relating exclusively to the house of Conway. Immediately following the entry recording the foundation of the monastery in 1186 comes the charter of a Welsh prince whose name has been erased and the blank space left unfilled (Ego Kynan filius Northwalliæ princeps), but whom we may upon fairly probable grounds take to have been Llewelyn ap Iorwerth. The witnesses are given as Owen ap Ednywan, Teg' ap Robert, Cadwen Leweryth¹ filio, Howelo Ydrys filio et multis aliis. The date has also unfortunately been left blank, the words running Datum apud Porthaethay Anno ab incarnatione domini Millesimo C . . . mense Junii. Dugdale (ed. 1655, i, 918; ed. 1825, v, 682) has printed a charter of 1198 from an inspeximus of 6 Edw. III, in which the grantor, Llewelyn ap Iorwerth, adopts the style totius Norwalliæ princeps. This is the document usually quoted as the foundation charter of the monastery, but careful examination proves it to be subsequent in date to the charter copied into the monastic register now under consideration. The latter, indeed, may be suspected to be the true foundation charter of the monastic house of Aberconway, for the following reasons: The valuable register of the dates of foundation of the various Cistercian houses throughout Europe in the British Museum Cottonian Collection, Faustina B. vii, f. 36 (printed by Dr. de Grey Birch, Journal Brit. Arch. Assoc., xxvi, 282), gives the date of foundation of Aberconway as the second of the ides of June, 1186. This is the same month as that of Llewelyn's charter in the manuscript with which we are now dealing, and twelve years earlier than the charter given in Dugdale, and in Williams's History of Aberconway. It is also important to note that the charter confirmed to the monks by Edward the First upon their acquiescence in the King's transfer of the monastery to Maenan was not Llewelyn ap Iorwerth's comprehensive grant of 1198, but, as careful comparison will make clear, the more modest charter of what I suggest was June 1186.² And there can be little doubt in the minds of those who have studied the motives and workings of the monastic orders in their constant endeavours to obtain the favour and patronage of the sovereign power, that the reason why the monks of Conway put forward the latter grant for confirmation at the period when they were being moved to a new foundation, was the fact that this was the document which had called them into corporate existence, and was the origin of their endowments.

² It should be observed that Edward's charter of the 23 Oct. 1284 does not purport to inspect and confirm Llewelyn's charter, but runs as though it was an altogether fresh grant, the departure from the customary method being, no doubt, intentional. For the same reason the attesting and dating clauses in Llewelyn's charter were also omitted, to our discomfiture, as their presence would have settled the question which the blanks in the crucial portions of the transcript in the register of the abbey have made insoluble. But, if the boundaries of the properties as given in both charters are compared with each other, no doubt can remain that they are really copies of the same original document.

The historical passage chronicling the death of Llewelyn ap Gruffudd, in 1282, both by reason of its tone and its instructive inaccuracies, could hardly have been written at Aberconway or Strata Florida. It was most probably copied by the monk of Hayles from a circulating chronicle of the type of that of Waverley abbey.¹

After the strictly historical entries, and introduced per saltum, comes a list of the Conway abbatial properties with their values, which are not the values of the Taxatio of 1291, and, with the drop of a slight space, similar information respecting the possessions of Strata Florida immediately follows. These lists come half-way down folio 45, the remainder of the page, together with the whole of folio 45*b*, being left blank, as though left for further statistical information respecting them or another house. The contents of the remaining portion of the register are arranged without order of date or of subject, proving that the entire manuscript was drawn up at one period and from divers documents which may have been brought to the Gloucestershire monastery by a monk who did not relish the disciplinary measures which must have affected the regular as well as the secular clergy of Wales in the years immediately following upon the Edwardian settlement. These miscellaneous entries comprise the writ of protection to the abbey granted by king John in 1202; a few historical data to the death of David in 1283, and the removal of the abbey to Maenan by Edward; several grants and confirmations; the whole winding up with an imperfect and incomplete copy of the proceedings instituted against the abbot and convent under a writ of quo warranto, of which there is a fuller version in the Record of Caernarvon, p. 144. The account given in this Ms. ends abruptly at the fourth line on folio 65*b*, in the middle of the charter of Llewelyn ap Iorwerth, which had been pleaded on behalf of the abbot.² The rest of the page is covered with 15 cent. memoranda of no importance.

² The proceedings on the quo warranto as recorded in the Record of Caernarvon are interesting. Two charters of Llewelyn and one of the first Edward are spoken of as having been pleaded by the abbot. The latter is the one to which I have referred as being a re-grant (not a confirmation) of Llewelyn's original donation; but it was pleaded from an inspeximus of the third Edward, reciting and confirming a charter of the second Edward. The first of Llewelyn's charters quoted in the proceedings is that of 1290, as recited in the same confirmation of the third Edward; and the second is a declaration of privileges and exemptions for which there appears to be no other independent documentary testimony.

A collection of letters written to Humphrey Wanley (1672-1726), librarian to lord Harley, and compiler of the earlier portion of the Catalogue of Harleian MSS.

(a) f. 66. Mr. Baker, Cambridge, to H. Wanley; n.d., but noted as received 17 Sept. 1714.

Enquires (i.a.) whether he shall send on bishop Vaughan's life by bishop Williams (from the MSS. of the late Mr. Paul).

(b) f. 68. The same to the same; 27 Sept. [1714].

Has sent off (i.a.) bp. Vaughan's life by bp. Williams, which is such a youthful essay that when my Lord [Harley] sees it he will think it only fit to be lodg'd in the founder's own library.

(c) f. 160. Dr. John Baron, Balliol College, Oxford, to John Anstis; 6 March 1715-6.

"Dr. Lancaster never wrote to me concerning Mr. Lhwyd's MSS., and to the best of my remembrance Dr. Gardiner told me that Mr. Wanly would have treated for them by the lord Oxford's order, if a large folio of Hergest could be recovered out of Jes. Col. library; that this could not be done, the donor of that book having signified to the Bp. of St. Asaph that he gave it to the Coll., not to Mr. Lhwyd.¹ Thus much the Bp. affirmed to me; and no further offer being made by Mr. Wanly, I thinke the books are sold to Sir Tho. Sebright as the highest bidder."

This letter was forwarded to Wanley by Mr. Anstis with the note, "I am now sorry that I had not at first bought these MSS., which I could have had very cheap, which you know that I omitted out of respect to my lord."

¹ The donor of the Red Book of Hergest to Jesus College was the Rev. Thomas Wilkins of Llanblethian. For a note confirming his gift to the College, and for a full account of the MS., see Dr. J. Gwenogvryn Evans's Report on MSS. in the Welsh Language (Hist. MSS. Commission), vol. ii, part i.

(d) f. 161. Dr. John Baron to H. Wanley; 22 March 1715-6.

"I perceive by your letter of the 11th that you have seen what I wrote to Mr. Anstis. Having been very little concerned about Mr. Lhwyd's MSS., I desired Dr. Gardiner to answer your letter, and I presume Mr. Anstis will communicate to you one which Mr. Jones of All Souls, who has long since had possession of the MSS., wrote at my request. Were it in my power I should be glad to serve my lord Harley. If you are inclined to try whether Sir Thomas Sebright will release the books, I conceive your application would be most properly made to Mr. Jones of All Souls, who has been acquainted with this matter from the beginning."

(e) f. 162. Dr. John Baron to H. Wanley; 26 April 1716.

On his return to Oxford after two weeks' absence found the MSS. had been removed from the museum, but did not know where to. "I never had any authority to make any demand for these MSS., for long before I entered on my office they were sequestered or condemned to pay what Mr. Lhwyd owed to Mr. Lewis Thomas and some other private persons, the printed books being adjudged to the University to discharge what became due for printing, &c."

[595] 3778.

Another volume of Humphrey Wanley's correspondence.

f. 239. Doctor Bernard Gardiner to H. Wanley; 19 March 1715-6.

Referring to the failure of negotiations for the sale of the Lhwyd MSS. to lord Harley. "I must needs confess that since I perceivd Jesus College had an undoubted right to the Red Book of Hergest as well as the possession of it, I never did imagine that my lord of Oxford or any one for him did intend to have the rest of the MSS. w'thout that Book. . . . Now, S'r, since the donour of Hergest has affirmed that he gave it to Jesus College and not to Mr. Lhwyd, neither the Vice-Chancellor nor myself, nor any one that I know of expects the Book should be restored and consequently, it did not seem to me to be your intention to have 'em. However, upon Mr. Vice Chancellor sending for an account of the process of the Court in the affair of Mr. Lhwyd's debts, it was found that the manuscripts were condemned to the use of Mr. Lewis Thomas, the printer, and other creditours, and the printed books to the use of the University. So that Mr. Thomas might, and seems had disposed of 'em to Sir Tho. Seabright, or has made some contract about 'em, and how far he or Sir Tho. may be prevailed on to relinquish 'em to my lord Harley I cannot tell."

Another volume of Wanley's correspondence.

- (a) f. 15. Dr. J. Baron, Balliol College, Oxford, to H. Wanley; 12 March 1715-6.

Enclosing the following Memorandum, dated 2nd March, from Mr. Bar[tholomew] Jones of All Souls, respecting the Lhwyd MSS.

f. 14. "In obedience to Mr. Vice Chancellour's command this comes to give you some satisfactory reasons why he is not at liberty to oblige either my lord Harley or yourself with Mr. Lhwyd's manuscripts. It is now near two years since I obtained a decree from the judge of the Chancellours's court for the sale of Mr. Lhwyd's books and MSS. for the payment of his debts. Soon after, I did hear my lord of Oxford's name mentioned for a purchaser, but never any proposals heard of till now. Mr. Thomas, the printer, gave me a hint as if the bishop of Carlisle and several others had some thoughts of buying the MSS. But nobody (as I find) was in earnest till Mr. Hern lately made some offers, which I was unwilling to accept of, because I knew Sir Thomas Sebright had (as well as myself) a very great regard for the memory of that worthy man, and was very desirous to have them in his library, in order to preserve them entire, since neither the University nor Jesus College would be purchasers. Another good reason I had for disposing of them to Sir Thomas Sebright was, that I knew he would give more than any other person in order to satisfy Mr. Lhwyd's credit'rs. Mr. Parry (whom you mention in your letter) is dead, and I am unwilling to charge his memory with any neglect as to Mr. Lhwyd's affairs. But if due care had been taken, I believe Mr. Lhwyd's debts would not have required the sale of his books. And then they would have gone as he always, to my knowledge, design'd them—some to the University, and some to Jesus College. I need onely add that the printed books are in the possession of the University, and the MSS. have been in my hands ever since Christmass for the use of Sir Thomas Sebright, as being the best purchaser."

- (b) f. 74. W. Lancaster (agent for lord Harley) to Wanley; 3 April 1716.

Respecting the Lhwyd MSS.

- (c) f. 76. The same to the same; 19 May 1716.

Had called upon the vice-chancellor in respect to the Floyd [Lhwyd] MSS., reminding the latter that a promise had been given that lord Harley should have their refusal; to which the vice-chancellor replied that Mr. Wanley had subsequently taken the matter out of his (Lancaster's) hands, and had written that his lordship did not value them without the book in Jesus College library which plainly belonged to that college. Thinks Dr. Gardner had not treated him well in first promising the MSS. to my lord and then parting with them without a word.

(d) f. 94. Edward Lhwyd to Dr. Mill, principal of St. Edmund's Hall, Oxford; Swansea, 14 Sept. [16]96.

"Rev'd Sr. I have here presum'd to trouble you with a copy of an inscription, which amongst several others I met with this summer in North Wales. The monument whence I took it was a stately pillar of very hard stone, of ye same kind with our common milstones. 'Twas of a cylinder form; above twelve foot in height seven in circumference at ye basis where it was thickest, and about six near the top where smallest. The pedestal is a large stone, five foot square and 15 inches thick; in the midst whereof there's a round hole 12 inches deep, wherein the monument was placed. Within a foot of the top 'tis encompassed with a round band or girth, resembling a cord; from whence 'tis square to the top, and each square adorn'd with a ring reaching from this band to the top and meeting at the corners. It was erected on a small mount, which seems to have been cast up for that purpose, but in the late civil warres (or sooner) 'twas thrown down and broken in several pieces, whence the inscription is so imperfect. The reason I trouble you with it, is because I remember amongst Usher's letters one from Dr. Langbain to him wherein he writes to this purpose—I have rec'd both the Inscriptions, and shall send you my thoughts of that at Vale Crucis; but for the other, I give it over for desperat. Now this I send you is the Is. [inscription] at Vale Crucis, and I doubt not but the vale received its name from this very stone, tho' 'twas never intended for a crosse. The copy Dr. Langbain received was perhaps taken before the stone was broke, and you may possibly meet with it amongst his papers and letters, if you know where they are lodg'd; or direct me to search for it when I come to Oxford, which will be a month hence at farthest. The Inscription would be legible enough were it entire. It begins Concenn filius Catteli, Cattel filius Brochmali, Brochmal filius Eliseg, Eliseg filius Guoillauc. Concenn itaque pronepos Eliseg edificavit hunc lapidem proavo suo Eliseg, &c. 'Tis remarkable that adjoining to this monument there's a township called Eglwysig, which name is corrupted doubtlesse from this Eliseg; tho' our greatest critics interpret it terra ecclesiastica. Thus, in Caermardhinshire we find this epitaph: Seratur [pro Servator] fidei patrieque semper amator Hic Paulinus jacit cultor pietissimus æqui. The place where the stone lies is called Pant y polion, i.e., the vale of Stakes, corruptly for Pant Powlin, planities Paulini. I find other places denominated from persons buried at or near them; whence I gather they were anciently men of great note, who had inscriptions on their tombs, be they never so rude and homely. But I trouble you too much with trifles, so shall adde no more, but that I am, worthy Sir, your most obliged and humble servant, EDW. LHWYD."

ff. 95, 95^b, is a full copy of the inscription, so far as Lhwyd could decipher it.

¹ Of the two churches dedicated to S. Cynog in the parish of Merthyr Cynog, Hugh Thomas observes that the more ancient was taken down in the reign of Charles I, "as the simple country people tould me, who showed me the ruins of the church then remaining, with the yew trees then growing about it then, and the church dore then to be seene."

² Of S. Lhud or Alud (the S. Almedha of Giraldus Cambrensis), after mentioning the persecutions to which this virgin was subjected, in punishment for which the village of Llanthew was plagued with harlots, "as it is to this day above any other part of the county", the village of Llanvillo by thieves, "as they are to this day above all others", and the village of Lhechvain with envy, "as indeed they are almost continually in contention and law with one another", Hugh Thomas continues—"The day of her solemnity is every yeare celebrated in the same place [a well and chapel at the foot of a hill called the Slough, now Penginger Wall, near the town of Brecknock] the first of August, whereto greate numbers of devout people from far distant parts use to assemble, and by the merits of that holy virgin receive their desired health from divers infirmities." Then, after repeating the account of Giraldus of the wonders wrought by S. Almedha, the manuscript continues—"But since this generall profanation of all holy feasts, and the destruction of her church and altar, where she relieved those whome she chastised, this miracle has seased, but not her indignation or anger. For Mr. James Thomas, now lord of the Slough, who gave me this tradition of the saint's sufferings and martyrdom, tould me this church was under the protection of the monkes of the priory of Brecknock, and that there was settled upon a priest for saying divine service there two medows adjoining to the north side of the churchyard, and his diner every Sunday at the priory of St. John Evangelist, and a can of beare every day, and that when religion went to rack and the land of the priory sould in the time of k. H[enry] the 8th, this went off amongst the rest, and the church stript of all its ornaments and pastor, and left to tumble to the ground; that, therefore, in the time of the parliament's rebellion against k. Charles the first, his father Thomas James of Slough, made it a barne, and built a beast house at the end of it, till he found himselfe almost ruined by an insensible decay of fortune for the punishment of his sacralityd, and that the family had never prospered since that; therefore he cleaned it out, left it empty, pull'd downe the beast house, and often promised to repair it. But the top is now quite fallen to the ground, and the walls will shortly follow it. To this place the young people of the towne did use to come every May day, and have many sports and devertions, I suppose from an abuse of a devout costum of visiting the church in former times; but this is now quite laid aside."

A record of the fines levied before the court of the council of the Marches at Ludlow from 14 Jas. I to 13 Chas. I. Original.

A large folio volume of great importance to the historian of the court of the council of the Marches of Wales. The first entry is as follows:—"Caernarvon. Thomas Edwards of Llandidno comitted for adultery with Elizabeth v'ch William Thomas at the suite of Thomas ap Ie'n [or John] Lewes, relator, £5." The jurisdiction of the court extended over the border counties of Salop, Worcester, Hereford and Gloucester. The fines for the year 1616 amounted to £3,254 12s. 8d., for 1617 to £2,507 12s. 4d., and for 1637 to £1,745 8s. 8d.

The Laws of Wales. Welsh ; late 13th or early 14th cent.

Said by Mr. W. W. E. Wynne, Mr. W. F. Skene, Dr. Gwenogvryn Evans and Mr. Egerton Phillimore to be in the same hand as Peniarth MSS. 2 and 6 (part iv).

Ms. V of Aneurin Owen's edition of the Ancient Laws and Institutes of Wales (Record Commissioners, 1841). The absurd method of jumbling together a number of manuscripts to form the text of the three Codes of that edition renders it almost impossible to collate the print against the manuscripts from which it has been formed. The first folio of the present Ms., though greatly discoloured, is for the most part, if not entirely, decipherable, but Aneurin Owen's alternative readings from it commence only at folio 1*b*. These continue from p. 622 to p. 788 of the printed volume (vol. i octavo edition); but they stop at paragraph XLVI on the latter page, though the Ms. terminates with the triad forming paragraph XLVII, of which it gives the following reading: Tri ardas diuach ysyd, da arotho arglwyd ywr [y wr] ac ade[l] idaw ynteu gan gyfreith. Ada agaffo gwreic gan ygwyr pan gytyto ynteu agwreic [Ms. ends imperfectly].

At the foot of folio 2 are the words "Sum liber Jaspas Griffith" (for whom see the note on p. 2 of this Catalogue), proving that folio 1 was then too discoloured for him to have written his name thereupon; and at the bottom of folio 1*b* is "Liber Humfredi Wanley, A.D. 1714". Folios 4, 5, and 28 of the original numbering were missing, and have been supplied from some other Ms. by a scribe of the late 16th century; old folio 31 was also missing, and so continues. At the foot of fo. 11*b* are four lines of Welsh, apparently an englyn.

A transcript of this Ms. is in Cardiff Ms. 26.

Law Reports and Precedents; 17 cent.

It is impossible to be sure whether the numerous manuscript volumes of law reports in this and the other collections of the British Museum contain notes of cases relating to or arising out of Wales that are not in the printed reports without an enormous and unprofitable expenditure of time and trouble. However, at folio 179 of the present vol. I alighted upon an interesting note of a claim by the countess of Warwick to a mise from her tenants of the lordship of Ruthin upon her entry as into a lordship marcher. The decision (date not mentioned) was against the Countess, on the ground that the lordship of Ruthin was not held of the Crown as a lordship marcher, but as an ordinary estate in fee simple. It is noted that in December of 4th Eliz. a decree of the Queen's Bench was issued in the suit of William earl of Pembroke against his tenants of the county of Glamorgan establishing the earl's right to a mise upon entry, in accordance with the terms of the grant of the lordship marcher to him. Et nota q' sur payment del mise le sur [sieur] doyt faire white bookes, vizt., p[ar]doner touts fines, trespasses, et amerciam'ts, et come ceo intends touts arrerages de rent.

Pedigrees; 17 cent.

This is a poorly executed volume of South Wales pedigrees, for the most part of Brecon, Glamorgan, and Monmouth families. Much has been taken from Lewis Dwn's collection, but the compiler had access to other sources, which he occasionally specifies. He appears to have written between 1615 and 1620, and he may have died or disposed of his collection soon after the latter year, for there are additions to some of the pedigrees in two or three different hands, carrying on the descents for one or more generations. Few of the entries are authenticated by dates or documentary references, and as a rule they are too brief to be of much value. No use seems to have been made of this volume by subsequent genealogists.

A collection of coats of arms. Index, and arrangement under counties. A few Welsh entries.

Genealogical ; late 16 or early 17 cent.

A collection of tracts on genealogical subjects by different authors. That commencing at (modern) f. 117 is probably the work of a Cheshire genealogist. It consists of extracts made for pedigree purposes from Holinshed and other chroniclers, and (at ff. 130-135) lists of North Wales princes and a few rough pedigrees. On f. 149 is the following:—"Heralds in Wales: William Llien of Oswestre, deceased, was the best. Thomas Powell, esquier, of Whittington in Shropshire. Edward ap Roger, gent., of Bromfelde in Denbighshire, the best for Welsh pedigrees."

[650] 5873.

Heraldic ; 17 cent.

A collection of coats of arms, very roughly executed. A few Welsh coats are included, but the particular families to which they belonged are not specified.

[651] 5884.

Heraldic ; 17 cent.

A collection of coats of arms. At f. 19*b*. are the arms of Anthony Lewis of Burton, co. Denbigh, and there may be a few other Welsh coats, but I did not discover any. An index of names at the commencement of the volume.

[652] 5887.

f. 82. Morgan.

[653] 5891.

Heraldic ; 17 cent.

An alphabet of arms. Amongst episcopal arms are those of the Welsh sees. The volume also contains an ordinary of Welsh heraldry.

[654] 6063.

f. 16. The oath of the knights of the Round Table in the time of king Arthur ; 17 cent.

[655] 6064.

A miscellaneous collection.

f. 57*b*. The claim of Henry Vernon to the barony of Powys.

Directions (original) from lord Burghley and the earl of Leicester to the Heralds of Arms (Mr. Clarenceux and Mr. Somerset) to examine the pedigree set forth by Mr. Vernon against the rolls and records in their custody, 22 Sept. 1584; with copy of reply dated 12 Oct. 1584.

[656] 6068.

Extracts from the public records and a collection of pedigrees ; end of 16 or commencement of 17 cent.

In the hand of George Owen, the Pembrokeshire historian (1552-1613), who, at the head of the first article, has written "Geo. Owen of Henllys in Kemes in Pembrokeshire". The title of the volume is as follows—"A collection of records concerning Wales, and Pedegrees of Glamorganshire, Monmouth and others. Sometime the book of George Owen and afterwards distinguished in the office of Arms by the name of the Labell ."

(a) ff. 1-53*b*. Extracts from the public records.

For George Owen's researches amongst the public records see his Description of Penbrokshire, i, 370, edited by Henry Owen, D.C.L. The transcripts in the present volume are, however, mere copies of other copies, being taken from a collection prepared by or for Mr. Broughton, one of the justices of assize for the Anglesea circuit. It is at present uncertain from what rolls they were extracted, or at any rate how many are taken from the patent rolls of Henry III, for which reason they are here separately enumerated.

f. 1. Extracts from the patent rolls of Henry III, taken out of a book written by Richard Broughton, justice of Caernarvon, 1594 :—

Barons of North and South Wales who did homage to the king, anno 29 [Henry III].¹

f. 7. Blank.

ff. 8-9b. Placita coram rege, in sancto Michaelis anno 25 Henr. III quare [G. Mareschall, com. Pembrochiæ] cepit homagium de Maelgoen ap Maelgoen de terr' inter Ayron et Tywy.

Abbreviatio Placitorum (Record Commission), p. 108.

f. 10. Extracts from various charters:—

(1) Charter of Gruffudd ap Cynan to the abbey of Haghemon.²

² It is much to be desired that the authority from which George Owen or Justice Broughton took this surprising entry could be traced. Gruffudd ap Cynan died in 1137, and if he ever granted a charter to Haughmond or any other ecclesiastical corporation or individual it would be the earliest diplomatic instrument issued by the North Welsh princes of which we have record. The connection of Gruffudd and his family with Haughmond is also puzzling, there being no circumstance related in the valuable Welsh life of Gruffudd in the Myvyrian Archaiology to account for it. Yet a connection certainly existed, for the first grant recited in the confirmation charter of 13 Edw. II to the abbey runs as follows:—"Donationem et concessionem quas Cadwaladrus frater Owyni magni, per cartam suam fecit Deo et ecclesie sancti Johannis evangelistae de Hageman et canonicis ibidem Deo servantibus, in puram et perpetuam elemosinam, de ecclesia de Neuyn, cum omnibus pertinentiis suis; et de tota terra quae est inter duos rivulos, inter quos praedicta ecclesia sita est, et de tota terra de Chremhoc [?] Clynnog] cum omnibus pertinentiis et eysiamentis suis. Donationem etiam quam Maduc, quondam rex Ponwissentium [recte Pouwissentium], per cartam suam fecit ecclesie S. Michaelis Blederiis, quam abbas et canonici dictae ecclesie S. Johannis evangelistae nunc in propriis usum tenent, ut dicitur, de quadragintis satis [sic], scilicet de villa quae vocatur Trescemer [recte Tref cymer]. Donationem etiam quam Hoelus, quondam rex Arwistill, per cartam suam fecit ecclesie S. Michaelis de Trenegelus [recte Treuegelus=Tref-eglwys] quae tunc fuit in subjectione Dei et dictae ecclesie S. Johannis de Hageman, de tota terra quae vocatur Brendbedwyn, a fossa cimiterii usque ad Olemant; et de tota terra de Trefkemer, a cruce usque ad Olemant; et de tota terra de Kilgremut cum toto nemore adjacente, videlicet a Nantelyn, usque annem quae vocatur Kerift [recte Kerist] in perpetuam elemosinam." (Dugdale, Monasticon, ed. 1673, ii, 47; ed. Ellis, vi, 109.) Here we have no mention of a grant of Gruffudd, the father of Cadwaladr, but the omission is probably due to the fact that the grant of the son was more generous in terms than that of the

(2) Charter of Cadwaladr, brother of Owen (Owenus magnus), son of Gruffudd ap Cynan, to the abbey of Hagemon; attested by Alice de Clare uxore meæ.

(3) Charter of David, son of Owen, confirming to the convent of Hagemon their lands in the vill of Nevin. Witnesses: John de Barchelton, Ralph de Lega, Einon Seis, &c.

(4) Charter of the same to the same, confirming his previous grant, with the consent of Eme [Emma] his wife and father, and would therefore be the one put forward for later confirmations. It is difficult to conceive why the far distant Shropshire house of Augustinians should have found favour with those North Wales chieftains that were furthest from its influence, but the fact is indisputable. Nevin and its neighbourhood was the scene of several stirring incidents in the career of Gruffudd, and at his death he did not forget its chief religious establishment. His biographer states that "he sent twenty shillings to Christ church in Dublin, where he was born and nurtured, and as much to all the principal churches of Ireland; and as much to the church of Mynyw (St. David's), and as much to the monastery of Chester, and as much to the monastery of Shrewsbury, and more than that to the church of Bangor, and ten shillings to Caergybi (Holyhead), and as much to Penmon, and as much to Celynowe (Clynnog), and as much to Enlli (Bardsey), and as much to Meitod, and as much to Llan Armon, and as much to Dineirth, and to many other of the most important churches (eglwysaw pennadusaf).

Gruffudd's grant to Haughmond is as follows:—"Sciãnt tam presentes quam futuri quod ego Griffinnus filius Conani concessi et dedi et confirmavi Deo et ecclesiæ sancti Johannis evangelistæ de Hagemon et canonicis ibidem Deo servientibus ad ecclesiam eorum de Nevin tres acras [inter] Neuin et Abraham fil' Aluredi sutoris et duos filios Serene scilicet W. et Jo. in perpetuam elemosinam libere et quiete ad ecclesiam sanctæ Mariæ de Nevin et predictis canonicis de Hageman jure perpetuo pertineant." That of his son Cadwaladr runs thus:—"Cadwaladrus frater Oweni magni salutem in Domino. Notum sit universitati vestre quod ego Cadwaladrus pro salute anime mee et omnium successorum et heredum meorum dedi et concessi Deo et ecclesiæ sancti Johannis evangelistæ de Hageman et canonicis ibidem Deo servientibus in puram et perpetuam elemosynam ecclesiam de Nevin. Teste Alic' de Clara uxore meæ," &c.

I have been unable to identify the two rivulets between which the church of Nevin was situated. The donations of Madoc, formerly "king" of Powys Fadog, and Howel, formerly "king" of Arwystli, were situated in the parish of Trefglwys, co. Montgomery. One of the townships of this parish is Maestrefcymmer (spelt "Meestrecymmer" on the old one-inch Ord. map, and "Maestrefgomer" in "A Parochial Account of Trefglwys" in Montgomeryshire Collections, xii, 1). Of the other places and physical features named in the charter, the brook Kerist, or Ceryst, is a tributary of the Tarannon, itself a tributary of the Severn. "Nantelyn" may stand for Nant y glyn, a small stream which falls into the Tarannon, now tautologically called "Nant Gleinant." The writer of the

(5) Charter of Emma to the same. Witnesses: Eino[n] Seis, Rand[ulph]o de Lega.

(7) Inspeximus charter of Edward I (A.D. 1284) of the grant of Llewelyn [ap Iorwerth] to Aberconway abbey, A.D. 1198.²

f. 10*b*. (8) Charter of Rhys, prince of South Wales, to Strata Florida abbey, with note that this charter was confirmed the 11th April, 1 John, at Worcester, and again by Henry III.

A translation of the charter of Rhys ap Gruffudd is in Williams's Cistercian Abbey of Strata Florida, apx. x; the confirmation of John, ib. xvii.

f. 11. (9) Charter of Maelgwn fil' Rhys, Rhys ap Gruffudd ap Rhys magnus (A.D. 1202), Maelgwn vchan son of Maelgwn son of Rhys, and (f. 11*b*) of Cynan son of Meredydd son of Oweyn, to Strata Florida abbey.

Williams's Cistercian Abbey of Strata Florida, apx. xiv-xvii, from this MS. The charter of Cynan is also set forth in extenso in the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records' Calendar of Patent Rolls, 1422-1429, p. 295.

"Parochial Account" above mentioned conjectured that "Nant Gleinant" represented the "Ole Nant" ("Olemant") of the document, but this, I think is a mistake. The land called "Bendbedwyn" seems to be situated in the upper part of the township, and to be the modern Bryn Owen. Close by is Cefn oleu, and a little beyond is Esgair y groes, no doubt the station of the cross mentioned in the charter. The writer already referred to observes that the parish of Trefeglwys contains a reputed manor of Cilceirenydd (or 'Cilceirenwydd' as the name seems to have been pronounced at an earlier date)—almost certainly the Kilgremut [Kilgrenuit] of the charter—which he says, in all probability owed its manorial origin to its connexion with the abbey of Haughmond, and which, he promised, would be "more fully noticed in the chapter devoted to the ecclesiastical history of the parish"; but, so far as I can make out, that chapter was never written. Nevin and Trefeglwys appear in the Valor Ecclesiasticus as churches appropriated to the abbey of Haughmond, but, strange to say, they are entered in the Taxacio of 1291 (and Nevin in the earlier Valor of 1254) without any reference to their dependent condition. Mr. Eyton does not deal with the grants of the Welsh chieftains either in his History of Shropshire, or in a paper upon "The Monasteries of Shropshire—Haughmond Abbey", in the Transactions of the Shropshire Archæological and Natural History Society (Oct. 1887) xi, 101; and a brief notice of the manor of "Cilceirenwydd" in Mont. Coll., x, 45, is unsatisfactory.

The Arms of the Kings of England from the time of Brute to the year 1604.

A fine volume by Sir William Segar, garter king at arms. The arms of Brute, Albanacht, and Camber, Belinus, Uther Pendragon, Arthur and Cadwaladr are given. The latter is credited with a crucem patentem fixam auream in campo cæruleo. Four badges of King Henry VII are represented, one being the red dragon.

[660] 6102.

Arms of Welsh houses; 17 cent.

A copy of Harleian 1143 (which see). After the coat of Bold is the note:—"heare endes the coppie of a Welshe booke of Armes and descentes as you maye see frome Cadwalader unto this Boulde taken by me R[ichard] K[embey], who has added the coats of Vaughan of North Wales, Oliver, and Merecke of Bodorgan, co. Anglesey."

[661] 6108.

A history of the county of Brecon ; 17 cent.

This is probably the "history" referred to by Mr. Hugh Thomas in the note printed on p. 418 (ante) as having been written by his father. Its full title is, "The Historie of Brecon from the time of Meurick, King of Brittain, and sonne to the noble Gweirudh, who forced Claudius Cæsar to flight, untill the yeare of redempti'on 1606." It has been interleaved, and a few remarks have been written here and there on the inserted pages. It is of no intrinsic value, and contains no facts that had come under the writer's immediate cognizance. It extends only to f. 33*b*. On f. 34 is a note by Hugh Thomas on the omission of the author to treat of the issue and posterity of Brychan. At f. 36 commences the tract "On the Winning of the lordship of Glamorgan", which is in the second and subsequent editions of Powel's History of Cambria, with some variations from the printed story. This is continued to f. 52*b*, when it ends incompletely and wanting a leaf. F. 54 has a note on the consequences of outlawry. On f. 9*b* is the name Elizabeth Williams.

Heraldic; late 16 or early 17 cent.

A poor collection of arms in colour. It is incomplete, its present paging opening with what originally was fo. 4, itself erroneously placed before the next folio, which was formerly fo. 3. The paging then proceeds correctly as far as old fo. 103*b*, now 52*b*, except that old fo. 65 comes before old fo. 63. The arms then come to an end apparently quite perfectly. A single leaf next followed, which is now missing, but it does not appear to have been part of the genealogical MS., which now starts (Museum folio 53) with Iachau Owen Tudur. This is only a fragment of one folio, and is followed (with the interval of a blank leaf) by a body of brief genealogical memoranda, and (on fo. 59) by a pedigree of "Y Rhiwlas yn Llansilin", which winds up the volume at fo. 61. Beneath the arms in the first portion are notes of the maternal ancestors of various Welsh families, having no connection with the heraldry. On fo. 24*b* is an englyn commencing "gwraig awnaeth ddolur im"; and on fo. 33, in another hand, is "Ffowc ap William tad y nghyfraith y dyn a lediodd i Rug."

Leland's "Itinerary"; 17 cent.

A transcript in Dugdale's hand. The Museum catalogue states that "after the Index to the Itinerary, commences a new order of pages, extending to 125, and containing divers passages omitted in the copy in the Oxford library, transcribed out of Stow's copy in the custody of Mr. Robert Vaughan of Hengwrt, in Merionethshire, with other supplemental collections." In this portion of the MS. there certainly are passages that are not in the printed edition, though a list of the Welsh cantreys and cwmwds is in both print and manuscript. Passages occur from the lives of Welsh saints; and at f. 317 commence extracts from a chronicle (ex chronico incerti autoris) of the type of MS. C. of the printed Annales Cambriæ (Rolls ed.), but with puzzling variations. Its first entry runs: Post Kereticum Cadwanus Rex Venedotor[um] sublimatus in regem Angliæ. Bellum Cairlegion; and it ends: Henri Turberuil succurrit castra de Cairmardin et fregit pontem de Cairmardin [A.D. 1233]. Then follow some topographical details respecting Carmarthenshire. Cair [Caer] Cennen castle is so named.

On a fly-leaf at the beginning is the following:—"Liber statuaru' eccl'ie cath'lis Meneuen' continens in se folia num[er]o cxj p[ro]ut patet p' num[er]ac'o'em eoru'de[m] fact[o] octavo die mensis Junii anno d'ni 1588, et regni regine n're Elizabethę etc., anno tricesimo, in p[re]sentia. M. Menevensis. Thomas Huett, precentor Meneven'. Richardus Edwardes, cancellarius. Thomas Lloyd, thesaurarius." The first letters of the different articles are roughly rubricated.

This volume was most probably compiled from an earlier collection of documents, or it may be directly from the originals, during the episcopate of bishop Edward Vaughan (1509-1522), and no doubt for the same reason as led to the making of the transcript of the temporalities of the see known as The Black Book of St. David's, now Additional 34,125, recently edited by Mr. J. W. Willis Bund, F.S.A., for the Cymmrodorion Record Series.

From a note in Harleian 7526, f. 113, we learn that it was borrowed from an unknown source by a Dr. Timothy Thomas, who in turn lent it to the first or second earls of Oxford.¹ Once upon the shelves of the Harley library it remained there, and passed in due course into the possession of the nation when the great collection of manuscripts was purchased. The transcript of it, which has been fully described as Harleian 1249, was made before it had been given its present condition and arrangement, as several of its final pages have become transposed, and its originally last folio is now undecipherable. It was probably dilapidated when borrowed by the earl of Oxford, and in its rebinding care was not taken to bring its last pages into consecutive order; a few also had been lost.¹ This borrowing must have taken place after the year 1714, for it is not likely that had it then been in the Harley library its very poor transcript, No. 1249 (then numbered 67, C. 14), would have been produced in a court of law in its place (see the letter annexed to No. 1249, on p. 232 ante). It is also pretty certain that Wanley, who died in 1726, would not have catalogued that volume with such minuteness except upon the idea that he was then dealing with a manuscript that was unique. It has figured in judicial proceedings upon several occasions. A leaf containing the continuation of the statutes of bishop Thomas in A.D. 1254, is missing between modern folios 11 and 12, and was missing when No. 1249 was written, for that MS. at the point of hiatus has the words "nonnulla desiderantur" and drops a slight space, after which it recommences with the opening words of the next folio of its exemplar. Modern folio 37 is an interpolated sheet of paper containing the words, "This book belongs to the church of St. David, and shall be restor'd when I am at liberty to do it. Tho. Baker", evidently written before the volume came into the hands of lord Oxford. The bull of pope Calixtus on (modern) f. 54*b* is incomplete, a space of nine lines being left blank at the foot of that folio. This tends to show that the volume was compiled directly from the original documents, some of which may have become partly indecipherable. It resumes (modern f. 55) with the words "Ego Calixtus catholice eccl'ie ep's", and the dating clause of the instrument. The copyist of No. 1249 takes no note of the gap. Between these original pages has been inserted a sheet of paper (now numbered f. 56) upon which has been written a few references to the contents of the volume, but otherwise blank. A leaf is missing between modern folios 85 and 86. Thus, the commencement of the charter of Vachan ap Kedivor ap Philip is wanting, as are also any other grants that may have come between it and the charter of Richard Symond which now immediately precedes it. The writing on f. 102*b* leaves off in the middle of the page, probably because the scribe discovered that he was transcribing the letter of bishop Chicheley, which he had already copied on f. 101. No. 1249 goes along without hesitation (see the entries on p. 247 of this catalogue). F. 103 is a blank.

¹ It may be gathered from a note in the Black Book that several copies of that volume were made, and it is highly probable that more than one copy of the companion volume of capitular acta was written.

On f. 105*b* is the following separate article:—Grant by William Wylkok, canon residentiary of St. David's, to the chaplains of the chantries of Sir John Wogan, King Edward, and bishop David, before the altar of S. Nicholas in St. David's cathedral, of certain lands for their sustentation, 16 April 1501. In No. 1249 this article has not been sufficiently distinguished from that which immediately precedes it (the statutes of bishop Morgan; see p. 248 of this catalogue), and was accordingly passed over by Wanley and by me. The date to the statutes of bishop Morgan is the 15th April 1501. What appears to be a statute of bishop Pavy has been commenced on the lower half of f. 108*b*, but was left unfinished; and probably for this reason it was omitted by the copyist of No. 1249. The MS. ends with (modern) f. 110*b*, which has always been its termination. At the foot of the page is a Greek phrase which No. 1249 has copied incorrectly. Throughout the volume are marginalia in a hand of the end of the sixteenth century.

f. 32. The lords of Powys.

A few unimportant notes.

[691] 6589.

Heraldic; 16-17 cent.

A collection of transcripts of early heraldic documents. F. 12 is "The copy of a very antient rolle [of arms] made as may bee supposed in the tyme of king Henry III," which contains the name of Llewellyn ap Griffith, with the arms 'escartelle d'or et gules 4 leons de l'un et l'autre.' Llewelyn follows directly after the different kings of Europe, the auntient of the Temple and the auntient of the Hospitall, and at the head of the English baronage. F. 15 is the transcript of a collection of arms in trick, having the arms of Llewelyn as before, the lions being 'statant gardant'; those of David ap Griffith are given as 'or' and 'argent' counter-changed, with 4 lions 'passant gardant'. The transcript of another roll, "ante 43 Hen. III," includes the arms of David ap Griffith, 'or 1 and 4, gules 2 and 3, four lions statant', and Griffith ap Gwenwynwyn, 'or, a lion rampant.' In an ordinary of arms at f. 21, under 'les leons' it is stated that John Musegros and Griffith le fitz Wenowein bear the same arms, but these are not specified. Llewelyn ap Griffith does not appear by name, but under the title "le Prince de Gales" (following immediately "le roy de Angleterre") is given 'esquartelie de goules et d'or a quatre leopards passants de l'ane et l'autre'—evidently intended for the same coat as that of the first list. F. 49 is a list of those present at the tournament of Dunstable, 7 Edw. III, A.D. 1334, which includes the name of "Mons'r Res ap Griffyth de Goules, oue un dance d'argent oue iij merlots de sable, oue 3 leonceaux pass. d'or." (See Collectanea Top. et Geneal., iv, 395; and Foster, Some Feudal Coats of Arms.)

ff. 26-34. Instructions to the president and council of the Marches of Wales, 4 James I: copy; 17 cent.
- [697] 6696 (bound with 6077).
A valor of the temporalities of the bishopric of St. David's; A.D. 1584.
An important MS. which appears to be practically unknown. It contains entries made in the year 1588 by the same hand as the marginalia in the Statute Book of St. David's, Harleian 6280 (which see). Prefixed is an extract from 1 and 2 Philip and Mary, cap. 15, "an Act to confirm the liberties of the lords Marchers in Wales," similar to that at the commencement of Additional 34,125, The Black Book of St. David's (see the edition published by the Hon. Society of Cymmrodorion, p. 8). The Museum catalogue suggests that this volume is a continuation of Harleian 6077 (which see), with which it has been bound, because "the hand is much the same"; but the volumes have no other connection than their common relation to the diocese of St. David's, and the hands have only the general resemblances of their period.

f. 306. A letter to Hugh Thomas from William Lewes, Llwynderw; 8 Aug. 1709—

"I am much concerned for ye losse of my true friend and relation, Mr. Edward Lhwyd, of the [Ashmolean] Museum [Oxford]." Refers to a book of pedigrees of Breconshire families in his possession of [? compiled by] Mr. Edwards [? Rhyd y gors, co. Carmarthen]; of which about 100 pages were wanting, but he had a rough transcript [? of the lost portion] by Mr. Richard Williams. Concerning the ancestors and descendants of Idio Wyllt of Tyle in Llywel. Requests his correspondent to procure him a copy of Hudibras, of which "there is but one come to this parte of the country, and ye party that owns it so curious that he will not give the reading of it."

ff. 307-308. A letter from the same to the same; 19 Jan. 1709-10—

"You will receive herein an extract of the pedegree you desir'd taken out of the rough drawght of Mr. Edward's out of Mr. Rich'd W'ms booke. If I have bin any way short in it be pleas'd to communicate y'r further thoughts, and I shall endeavour y'r satisfac'on. I am weary long since of these unprofitable studies, w'ch the bad disposition of the times and the prodigious ignorance of most of the gentry in these parts have so much decry'd and undervalu'd that it were almost madness in any man to concern himself in such an affair. I had it in my thoughts heretofore to transcribe all ye genealogies that I have dispers'd confusedly in severall bookes into one or two volumes in another method then [than] Mr. Edwards or those before him have done; that is, to put all ye descendants of a patriarch in the same booke, viz., for instance, the descendants of Kradoc Vreichvras, as Bledhin ap Maynarch, Drym panog, Woogans, Griff. Gwyr, &c., in one continued series, and the title in every page thereof to be inscrib'd Kradoc Vreichvras. But res angusta domi obstructed that design, tho' I have made a considerable progress in it, being not enabl'd to keep an amanuensis or to travell forreign counties for further knowledge therein.¹ I would gladly know what counties you are licens'd in and whether this county of Carmarthen be under y'r inspection; if soe, there is one Charles Mathews of Carmarthen town has made a very considerable advantage by draweing escoucheons for funerall solemnities within these six years last past. He is a very ignorant genealogist and armorist, not caring much what to draw, so yt if a gentleman hath a lion for his coat, he values not the posture or colour. You would doe well to exert y'r power and vindicate this laudable science from ignorance and contempt with w'ch it is like to be over-run by such pretenders and colour-daubers. . . ."

¹ There can be little doubt but that we have here a description of a pedigree collection, a fair copy of which, called the "Golden Grove Book", now the property of the earl of Cawdor, has been deposited by his lordship in the Public Record Office for the use of the public. This has already been conjectured by Mr. J. Pym Yeatman, in an article on "Welsh Records" in Archæologia Cambrensis, 5th Ser., xvii, 277. I have briefly discussed the "Golden Grove Book" in Arch. Camb., 6th Ser., iii, 154 (April 1903).

(Postscript.) "I can't find in all ye bookes I have, neither in a transcript of Mr. Ro. Vaughan's Ludlow booke, nor in Mr. Edwards' booke of Norman adventurers any armes assign'd to S'r Hugh Surdwall, kt., lord of Aberuske. If I can find any you will be sure to be advertis'd of it."

Accompanying is a pedigree of Rhys ap Thomas Price of Abertrewerin from p. 135 of Mr. Richard Williams's book.

f. 309. A letter from the same to the same; 1 Aug. 1714.

Regrets that he had put his correspondent to such trouble respecting the donations to Alba Landa [the abbey of Whitland, co. Carmarthen]. His main aim had been to find out the donor of Manor-voryon, and if the mill appurtenant to the manor was within the donation. Had made the enquiry on behalf of his brother, the present possessor of the manor under a purchase made by his grandfather from Edward Fferrers and Ffrancis Ph'es [Phillips], trustees for the earl of Essex, the grantee of the manor by letters patent of the 2nd August, 8 James I. Is unable to give any account of the ancestors of Rhydderch ap James. The most likely person to be able to do so is Mr. Jones of Gilvach yr hedhwch, he having several MSS., and living in the neighbourhood. Encloses the arms and descent of the family of Dylwyn to John Dylwyn (A.D. 1626) and Jeffrey Dylwyn of Llandhow.

f. 310. Inscription on the tomb of Edward Jeffreys of Bayleyle cwm y dwr, anno 1642 (place not specified).

ff. 383-386. The arms and lineage of Dyer of Aberglasney, co. Carmarthen (see f. 448).

f. 383*b*. A few references from the public records.

ff. 389-394*b*. The Mansels of Margam, to 1696.

f. 395. Rough pedigree of Goch ap William Bennett.

f. 395*b*. Rough pedigree of Bleddyn of Llandaff.

¹ The Commission referred to, which will be found in Fenton's Pembrokeshire, apx. No. 14, p. 45, and Cox's Monmouthshire, 421, purports to have directed an inquiry into the ancestry of the first earl of Pembroke. It is now regarded as a forgery (see The Complete Peerage, by G. E. C., for the references to the publications in which the pedigree of the Herberts of Raglan is discussed). I may observe, from personal inspection, that it does not appear upon the patent, close, or exchequer memoranda rolls of the 4th Edw. IV. Though such a Commission may not have emanated from the crown, it is, nevertheless, highly probable that inquiries may have been instituted amongst the pedigree-bards of South Wales by Sir William Herbert upon his elevation to the peerage.

ff. 396-468. English pedigrees; that of the family of Herford, or Hereford, is illustrated by a number of extracts from records.

Whereas I have receiv'd several pounds towards printing my book now in ye press and begun by Mr. John Lewis of Llanwenny; If I chance to die before the same is publish'd my desire is yt ye sheets already printed be deliver'd to them towards their satisfaction, what money they contributed having been spent in ye work. Item, I give and bequeath to Robert, earl of Oxford, all my manuscripts and historical collections, hoping his lordship will make up ye dammage of them to my poor brother. Item, I give and bequeath to my dearly beloved wife Margaret Thomas, sister to Mr. Charles Good, all ye rest of my goods not herein named, whom I appoynt sole executor. . . . ye 14th day of September 1720.¹

¹ Theophilus Jones, who for his History of Brecknockshire utilised much of the literary collections of Hugh Thomas, places his death in 1713. It is surprising that Jones should have fallen into such an error, and still more surprising that the error should have so long remained uncorrected.

- (b) ff. 3-16*b*. Proceedings against recusants in co. Carmarthen.

These papers give interesting particulars of the troubles of Welsh recusants. It appears from the few documents here preserved that the wife of one David Delahay of Llanegwad came to stay at the house of Jane Lloyd of Llandeilo fawr for her confinement. Shortly after that event the infant was taken by Gwenllyn Evor to a deserted church, distant two days' journey from Llandeilo, where it was baptised according to popish rites. The deponent Evor could not say whether the service was conducted in English or in Latin, but heard the priest ask the name of the child in Welsh. One David Williams deposed that he had seen Morgan Clunoke [Clynnog], a well-known Romish priest, in the house of Jane Lloyd at Llandeilo fawr, where Delahay's child was born, and that his mother Jane Lloyd, his uncle Charles Lloyd, his brother Hugh Lloyd, and he himself had been persuaded to abjure the church of England for that of Rome by the said Morgan Clunoke. Similar testimony is given by John Williams. At f. 6 is a series of interrogatories, to which replies are given in the subsequent papers. Humphrey Jones, late of Llanegwad, deposed that Philip Williams, a clerk, had sung mass at the house of David Delahay in Llanegwad, at the house of Thomas ap Owen and Sage his wife in Kidwelly, and at the house of Thomas ap Owen Harry of Llandeilo fawr, when there were present Thomas ap Owen Harry, Gwenllian his wife, and Owen Harry his son. Morgan Clynocke late of Llandeilo, a clerk, had said mass in the house of Jane Lloyd, there being present Jane Lloyd, Charles Lloyd, Humffrey Lloyd, Hugh Lloyd, Thomas Turberville and the deponent. Similar testimony is borne by Rees ap Hoel of Llandeilo fawr, Thomas ap Owen Harry, David Williams and John Williams of Llandeilo fawr, Thomas ap Owen of Kidwelly, and Sage his wife—the latter being examined before Sir John Puckering, Sir R. Atkyns, Philip Williams and Edward Donne Lee. The final document is a letter of the last-named to Sir John Puckering, dated 4 Sept. 1591, notifying his arrest and examination of Hugh Lloyd late of Llangydeyrn.

(c) f. 19. Copy of the examination of John Lewis against Hugh David for treason; 11 May 1592.

At the end of the deposition Sir John Puckering has written—“Item, this depon't saith that the said Hughe David leadeth a bad life in evell instructinge simple people, for that he at c[er]ten tymes in the yere, viz., at the feaste of Corpus X'pi and the Epiphani or twelvetide useth to resorte to a place called Chappell Llangrest, in the co. of Cardigan, and there useth certen sup'sticious cerimonyes and seduc'th the people to offer, some silver, and some wax candles, w'ch for the most p'te he taketh to his owne use, beinge a place where no s[er]vice hath of longe tyme byn used to be said. Item, that he taketh other offeringes in the name of devoc'on at the churches of Llannarth and Llannina, for Meilicke sake in Llannarth,¹ and for Ina sake in Llannina. Item, gen[er]jally he useth to take offerings money for the dead at the tyme of theire buryall of the frends of and well willers of the p'tie deceased, and masse money of the frends of the deceased to pray for the sowle of the p'tie deceas'd a whole yere after his death or some other” [ends abruptly].

¹ From this unexpected source we learn the correct name of the saint to whom the church of Llanarth is dedicated. Rees, in his Welsh Saints, gives the patron saint as St. Mary, which, if correct, is obviously a late re-dedication. The well-known poem of Gwynfardd Brycheiniog, enumerating the churches of Dewi, contains that of Llanarth, and the Rev. John Fisher, rector of Cefn, draws my attention to the fact that one of the old fairs at Llanarth is held on the 12th March, St. David's day, old style. Meyrick's brief account of the parish in his History of Cardiganshire states that the church is dedicated to S. Vallytyg, the mutated form of Mallytg.

There can be no doubt that we have here the llan founded by Meilig, the son of Caunus and brother of Gildas, and patron of the church of Llowes in Radnorshire. The very early life of Gildas, by a monk of Gildas's abbey of Ruys, printed with most admirable and learned notes by the Rev. Hugh Williams in the Cymmrodorion Record Series edition of Gildas, has the following passage: “Caunus itaque eius genitor et alios quattuor fertur habuisse filios, Cuillum videlicet . . . Mailocum quoque. qui a patre sacris litteris traditus et in eis bene edoctus relicto patre atque rebus paternis abrenuntians venit Lyuhes, in pago Elmail ibique monasterium aedificans, in quo in hymnis et orationibus, ieiuniis et vigiliis instanter serviens deo clarus virtutibus et miraculis in pace quievit” (op. cit., 324). In the Book of Llanddŵv the church of Llowes is called “Lann Meilic”, the identical form of the name used by Sir John Puckering. Some memorial of St. Meilic, perhaps a small statue or a painted window, must have survived the hurricane of the Reformation, and continued to receive the traditional veneration of the locality.

On the interesting question of the intrusion of Gildas (and, inferentially, of Gildas' brother Meilic) into the patria of David, see note 1 on page 399 of the Rev. Hugh Williams's Gildas. Having regard to the close vicinity of Henfynyw to Llanarth, I am inclined to locate the Cil-muine of the life of St. Finian at the Cardiganshire rather than the Pembrokeshire Mynyw.

Had encouraged Mr. David Lewis of Llanboydy to apply [to the College of Herald's] for a deputation or patent for the counties of Radnor and Cardigan, the rest of South Wales being already disposed of to him (Hugh Thomas). If the latter was going to relinquish his patent, would himself take it up, though not very solicitous about it, "nor shall envy the successe of any body that shall acquire ym, being assur'd that noe person in S. Wales hath any collection of genealogies comparable to what I have, tho' I have ym not as full as I could wish." Would wait to see what he (Thomas) intended to do with those who had invaded his province and usurped his office without returning the least acknowledgment. Has heard that the musters of the Welsh shires appointed for the aid of that isle were very badly furnished, wanting shot, powder, and training, and begging that he may have 200 horsemen from Cheshire. Their keep for a month or six weeks would be but a small charge upon the owners of the horses, for fifty shillings would keep both horse and man so long, being at grass at that season. And the London bushel of oats there was but at 6*d.*, and great store in the country, more than could be sold.

(b) ff. 270*b*, 271. Lady Katharine Daubeny to the lord privy seal; 14 July.

[This interesting letter adds a little light to the story of Sir Rhys ap Gruffudd, who was beheaded in 1531. It was always maintained by the friends of Sir Rhys that he had been brought to the scaffold through the machinations of one Edward Floyd (see the statement of the case for Sir Rhys in Cambrian Register, ii, 270). After the execution of her husband, Lady Katharine Rice (as she was styled) married Sir Piers Daubeny. Her jointure, as the widow of Sir Rhys, was specially excepted from the Act of forfeiture, and it is doubtless a portion of those lands that John Floyd (probably a relation of Edward Floyd) is accused of wrongfully detaining from her.¹ (For an excellent article on the fate of Sir Rhys ap Gruffudd see Archæologia Cambrensis, 5th Ser., ix, 192. See also the Index to this Catalogue under the title "James ap Gruffudd ap Howel," and Y Cymmrodor, xvi).]

(a) f. III. William Thomas to lord Oxford ; 6 March 1729-30.

My Lord. Nothing but your Lord's commands can excuse an attempt from me of an account of the antiquity of the English and British poetry. . . . We have no British or Welsh poems that I know of without rhyme, but the antienter they are the more simple in their composition. . . . As to the British poetry, we have several poems and fragments under the names of the two Merlins (Ambrosius and Sylvestris) and Taliessin, and of Llywarch hên (Lomarchas longævus), a Cambrian prince about the same age. But the oldest piece of British poetry now extant seems to be the three lines written in a very antient MS. of Juvenus in the Cambridge Publick Library, which Mr. Edward Lhuyd thinks to be in the language of the Clyddersdale Britons, or that of the Picts. For any further account of this subject I must refer your Lord'p to a much abler person and incomparably better acquainted with everything relating to the antient Britons, and particularly their poetry, than, my Lord, your Lord'ps most dutifull and most obedient humble servant, Wm. Thomas.

(b) f. 113. Books in the late lord Oxford's custody claimed by Dr. Timothy Thomas ; March 1741.

One is "The Statutes of St. David's. Ms. Folio (borrowed by Dr. Thomas and lent to lord Oxford)." This is now Harleian 6280 (which see).

(c) f. 167. Copy in the hand of Mr. William Thomas of the reply of the Rev. Moses Williams, dated 15 May 1730, to a letter which Thomas had addressed to him in regard to lord Oxford's queries on British poetry (see f. 111).

Ext.: Englyn milwr and the other loose ways of rhyming that come near it I take to be old and genuine British, but the Cywydd deuir hirion and all that tribe I take to be modern and of Teutonic extraction, as appears to me by comparing them to some things in Wormius.

A volume of the Randle Holme collection (see p. 261 ante) ; 16-17 centt.

This and the succeeding volume are evidently part of the collection of the Holmes which became separated from their fellows, but fortunately got into the Harleian collection just prior to its acquisition by the nation. They appear to be two of the most valuable volumes of the series of which they formed part, but their contents, being unindexed, are quite unknown. The only items relating to Wales are the following :—

(a) f. 244. A transcript of the pedigree of Roger Edwards of Plas yn y coed in Overton Madoc, co. Flint, out of the books of Randle Holme and Peter Ellis of Wrexham, esq., a learned lawyer.¹

(b) f. 319. A fine levied 1 May, 29 Eliz., between John Griffith and Edward Stanley; 2 messuages, &c., in the parish of Kilken (co. Flint).

(c) f. 435. The arms of Owen Wynne of Glyn, co. Merioneth.

Apparently prepared for the funeral of the daughter of the said Owen Wynne, the wife of — Pennant of Byghton, co. Flint.

(d) f. 436. A note on the Wynnes of Llanwnda (co. Carnarvon).

[761] 7569.

Another volume of the Randle Holme collection; 16-17 centt.

f. 57. A sheet (apparently original) of the examination of a person named Edwards for holding erroneous religious opinions.

This I believe to be a fragment of the proceedings taken against John Edwards of Chirk, who is known to have been prosecuted for his religious views.

ff. 13-17. A fragment of a history of king Arthur; 16 cent.

Com.: (imperfectly) non tam fortissimorum militum enunciare trucis belli pericula.

Ends: Is Daudis persuasione, monitu et doctrina nonam tunc incohavit historiam.

7606-7617.

Historical collections.

A valuable collection of documents, originals and transcripts, bound in twelve volumes after a rough alphabetical arrangement. A number of the transcripts are in the hand of Sir Simonds D'Ewes, and the collection may have been brought together by or for him. There is no index beyond a list of the few general heads under each letter of the alphabet. I found the following relating to Wales:—

[763] 7607.

f. 178. An abstract of the annual payments and pensions charged upon the revenue of the several counties of North and South Wales; 1693-4.

[764] 7610.

- f. 11. Abstract returns of the state of the militia in North and South Wales ; 1697.

This vol. also contains a number of papers relating to Thomas Bushell, master of the mint to Charles I at his Welsh mint at Aberystwyth, and to the difficulties he encountered in his coining and lead mining operations.

[765] 7615.

- f. 1. An address to king William III from the bailiff, aldermen, and common council of New Radnor, on the death of queen Mary. Copy.

An interesting list of the chief burgesses of New Radnor at the commencement of the 18 cent.

[766] 7639 a.

Dockets of grants passing the great seal A.D. 1688-169½.

- f. 13^b. Docket of a warrant to the commissioners of the Treasury augmenting the allowances of the justices of great sessions in North and South Wales ; Dec. 1689.

OMISSION.

[767] 286.

- f. 246. Original letter of Sir George Devereux to Mr. Orange (secretary to Sir John Puckering, lord keeper of the great seal); 30 Nov. 1595.

Desiring that Mr. Stedman, who the preceding year was high sheriff for co. Cardigan, may be of the commission for the peace, as he was before he was sheriff.
